TO TRY COHALAN IN LEGISLATURE

Inquiry Into Charges Against Supreme Court Justice to Begin June 30.

BAR ASSOCIATION REPORTS

Connolly Accusation Sustained in Prima Facie Evidence, Says Grievance Board.

URGED BY GOV. SULZER

In Special Message He Asks That Thorough Investigation Be Made at Once.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 25.—At the request of Gov. Sulzer, the Legislature to-night granted the application made by Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the Supreme Court for a legislative hearing of the charges lodged against him before the New York City Bar Association by John A. Connolly, a New York contractor.

With his special message calling for the investigation the Governor transmitted to the Legislature the report of the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association and the correspondence connected with the charges made by Connolly.

The report contains forty-two counts, in which the affirmative testimony adduced at the hearings before the Grievance Committee is reviewed in detail. No recommendations are made, the report simply stating that the affirmative testimony constitutes "prima facie evidence," and that the Grievance Committee "has been unable to obtain evidence to the contrary."

The investigation will be conducted by the Judiciary Committees of the Senate and Assembly under a plan of procedure framed by a special committee of both houses. It will begin on June 30. The hearings will be held in the Senate Chamber beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

unanimously adopted by both houses under which the investigation will be conducted:

Resolved, That the investigation of the matters contained in the message of the Governor to the Legislature of June 25, 1913, and of the documents accompanying the same in relation to certain alleged acts of the Hon. Daniel F. Cohalan, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, be conducted by a joint committee consisting of the members of the Judiciary Committees of the Senate and Assembly, respectively, to hear the evidence and report with all convenient speed the proceedings, and submit the report with its findings, conclusions, and recommendations thereon to the Senate and Assembly for their consideration; and further

Resolved, That the recommendations as to procedure contained in the report of the joint committee of the Legislature, to which was referred the matter of the determination of a form of procedure for the investigation into the matters as above mentioned, be adopted, and that such investigation be conducted pursuant to the form of procedure contained in said report.

The Governor in his message urged that the report of the Bar Association's Grievance Committee receive the immediate attention of this Legislature, and that a thorough and exhaustive investigation and examination be made and the true facts ascertained; "that fair and full opportunity for their presentation be given to all the parties interested, including the representatives of the Bar Association of the City of New York, and that after such examination and hearing in accordance with the Constitution and the laws of the State of New York this Legislature take such action in the premises as shall be deemed wise, proper, and expedient."

Immediately upon the receipt of the Governor's message a joint committee of both houses, with Senator Henry W. Pollock of New York as Chairman, was appointed to frame a plan of procedure. This committee reported to-night not in favor of impeachment proceedings, but of the less solemn procedure that was adopted in the case of Judge Warren B. Hooker in 1905.

Under this form of procedure if the charges should be sustained the removal of Justice Cohalan by joint resolution of both houses would result.

BAR ASSOCIATION'S REPORT.

Statement of Findings in Connolly's Charges Against Cohalan.

The Grievance Committee of the Bar Association, in reporting to Gov. Sulzer on the charges made against Justice Daniel F. Cohalan by John A. Connolly, says there is prima facie evidence that every accusation made is true. Moreover, it finds that the statement given out by the Justice in his own defense is "false and misleading."

There is little in the findings which has not been published. Only two new points are brought out. One is that when Justice Cohalan, in 1909, refunded to Connolly the $3,940.55, which the latter alleges that he paid to the Justice in return for obtaining city contracts, the Justice insisted that the verified complaint in the action Mr. Connolly was bringing against him and all the proof appertaining thereto should be destroyed. This the Grievance Committee finds was done by Mr. Cruikshank, Mr. Connolly's counsel. Moreover, the Justice insisted that an amended complaint be verified, in which it should be alleged that the $3,940.55 claimed by Connolly was for a loan, the committee charges. Also it was found that when, in 1911, Connolly gave the Justice a note for $4,000, it was on the understanding that the Justice should use his political influence to get a job for Connolly.

The Grievance Committee begins its report with a history of the correspondence with Justice Cohalan and Gov. Sulzer. The report points out that the Justice was notified on June 5 that the investigation was to be made, and that on June 12 he replied that the committee had no jurisdiction in the matter, and that he intended to present the subject to the Governor. The report then refers to the Governor's letter of June 13, calling attention to Justice Cohalan's request that the charges be submitted to the Legislature, and requesting that the committee file a report and recommendations on the subject. Further, it relates that on June 16 Justice Cohalan was notified of the Governor's request, and that on June 18 he replied that he would not be present or represented at the hearing.

The report explains that Nathan Ottinger, at his own request, was excused from taking part in the investigation,

MACKAY CHILDREN SAIL

On Imperator Bound for Europe with Father Under Name "R. Moore."

By Wireless to The New York Times.

S. S. IMPERATOR, via Siasconsett, June 25.—Clarence H. Mackay and his three children are on board the Imperator. Mr. Mackay is traveling under the name of "R. Moore."

Not long after the new steamship Imperator sailed yesterday on her first eastward voyage across the Atlantic it became known that the occupants of her "imperial suite" were Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Postal Telegraph Company, and his three children, John William, Ellin, and Katherine. Mrs. Mackay did not sail with them. She remains at the Mackay home, Harbor Hill, near Roslyn, L. I.

Mr. Mackay's name did not appear on the Imperator's passenger list, and reporters who asked before the ship sailed who had taken the imperial suite for this voyage were unable to find out. Mr. Mackay and the children remained in their suite until after the steamer left the pier.

After the vessel sailed it was learned that the Mackay party and their servants went aboard the Imperator late on Tuesday night. None of his fellow-passengers knew of Mr. Mackay's presence aboard until the vessel was past Quarantine.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 25.—Clarence H. Mackay, accompanied by his two daughters, the Misses Ellin and Katherine, and his son, John William, after dining early last evening at the Essex and Sussex Hotel, near the cottage in Hastings Square, which Mr. Mackay has occupied since June 1, started for New York at 8 o'clock in an automobile to sail on the Imperator.

Friends of Mr. Mackay, who have observed the vigilance with which private detectives have attended him and his children while he has been here, were certain that they saw four detectives precede his party in another automobile, while two accompanied him and the children.

It was said here last night that Mrs. Mackay dined with Mr. Mackay and their children last Friday, after motoring down to this place from Roslyn.

HIT BY FRISCO SMASH.

St. Louis Stockholders Lost $2,000,000—Boston Directors Escape.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—The financial collapse of the Frisco road cost the St. Louis holders of its securities more than $2,000,000, so the records show. The largest St. Louis stockholder, James Campbell, suffered a loss of $214,220 by depreciation. Robert S. Brookings, Adolphus Busch, W. K. Bixby, and Thomas H. West each lost about $80,000.

Benjamin F. Yoakum, who received $75,000 a year as Chairman of the Board of Directors, is shown by the books to hold at present only 261 shares of Frisco common stock with an actual market value of $848, as against $4,320 for the same shares a year ago. Benjamin L. Winchell, President of the company, now one of the receivers, holds 2,001 shares, which show a recent market depreciation of $32,000.

E. V. R. Thayer of Boston, a Director, disposed of 25,000 shares of common stock on March 13 last at private sale to C. W. Willard & Co., a New York brokerage firm. At that time the common shares were selling at $18.

The St. Louis Union Trust Company has 4,300 shares of common and 10,000 additional shares are held in trust there for various estates. There is a total of 1,827 Frisco shareholders.

The market value of Frisco securities held in St. Louis is given as $463,700, while, on May 27, when the road went into the hands of receivers, this stock was worth in the market $2,340,000. The total amount of common stock held by St. Louisans is 53,709 and of second preferred stock 10,142 shares. The total par value of these shares is $6,616,200.

An investigation of the records of the Frisco on behalf of the French stockholders was begun here yesterday. French financiers held about $27,000,000 of Frisco bonds.

PROPHECY CAUSES STRIKE,

"Mother" Jones's Prediction of Mine Mishap Is Realized—Men Flee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., June 25.—As a result of a prophecy made by "Mother" Jones, the labor agitator, the coal mines at Manowan, Gallatin, and Sunnyside were idle to-day, not a single man entering the pits. In a speech near here a few weeks ago "Mother" Jones predicted that on June 25 a disastrous explosion would occur in one of the mines named.

Believing the prophecy, the men refused to go to work to-day. Her prediction was almost realized this morning when a broken trolley wire started a blaze in the Manowan Mine.

The coal operators thought nothing of her prophecy until this morning, when the men flatly refused to go to work. Mine officials tried to persuade them to go into the workings, but the miners merely shook their heads and said they feared "Mother" Jones's prophecy would be realized.

Then came the blaze in the Manowan Mine, and workmen who had gathered near the mine mouth became terror-stricken and fled.

BUILDING $15,000 CATTERY.

Mrs. C. B. Harmon to Have Luxurious Home for Her Prize Winners.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., June 25.—Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon, daughter of Commodore E. C. Benedict, lifted the first spadeful of ground to-day in the construction of what is to be the most complete home for cats in this country. Mrs. Harmon, a noted cat fancier, is bent upon having a home de luxe for her twenty-eight cats and twenty-four kittens, many of them noted prize winners.

Before the laborers were set at work on the foundation for her new $15,000 "cattery," Mrs. Harmon broke the ground in the presence of a large company, including Commodore Benedict and Thomas Hastings of Carrere & Hastings, the architects of the building. The "cattery" is to cover more than two acres of ground, and is to be located on Commodore Benedict's property at Indian Harbor. There are to be eight rooms, with nineteen cat runs. Hot and cold water, electric light, gas for cooking, two baths, a kittens' nursery, steam heat, and other improvements are deemed necessities. In addition there is to be a seven-room cottage for Mrs. F. Y. Mathis, who has been associated with Mrs. Harmon for three years and who has been breeding famous cats for about ten years.

The new "cattery" will be known as the Greenwich Cat Kennels. Mr. Harmon will give the cats her personal attention and Mrs. Mathis will be in constant charge.

SULZER IS BEATEN; FACES AN INQUIRY

Senate Rejects His Direct Nominations Bill by Vote of 38 to 10.

BLAUVELT MEASURES PASS

Frawley Investigation Will Cover Campaign Fund and Use of Patronage and Veto.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 25.—After dealing a death blow to the Sulzer Direct Nominations bill in the Senate, and passing the amended Blauvelt bill embodying the Democratic organization's plan of primary reform in both houses, the Legislature to-night adopted a concurrent resolution conferring upon the Frawley Committee, which is to investigate the conduct of the State Departments under the Sulzer administration, specific powers to probe the Sulzer campaign fund and the Governor's alleged use of patronage and veto power in his direct primaries fight. This done, the lawmakers called it a day's work and took a recess until July 8.

Altogether it was a day of sensational doings at the Capitol. While Charles E. Hughes was Governor and had a fight for direct primaries on his hands, the bitterness of the embattled bosses against him was frequently voiced in the legislative halls. But in those days there was never anything approximating in bitterness and personalities the attacks that were made upon Gov. Sulzer to-day in both Senate and Assembly.

Fight On in Darkened Chamber.

While the fight in the Senate was at its height, an electric storm of such violence that for a while it put the Capitol lighting plant out of business, swept the city. But the fight went on in the semi-darkness all the same, and the outer air seemed not a whit more charged with electricity than the atmosphere of the chamber where the law-makers met, while the thunder of denunciation and the pyrotechnics of the oratory rivaled those of the elements.

If the talk and actions of Mr. Sulzer's handful of earnest supporters in the Assembly may be taken as an indication, the Governor is sickening of the fight and hankering for a compromise which will give him an opportunity to retreat without seeming to be a "quitter." Two bills were introduced in the lower house to-day by the Governor's chief spokesman in that branch of the Legislature, Mark Eisner of the Seventeenth (New York) District. Both are compromise measures providing for the retention of the State Convention. They were introduced after a conference with Gov. Sulzer, and the impression was permitted to go abroad that if either was passed the Governor would sign it.

While in effect this would be a victory for the organization and a defeat for the Governor, there is no likelihood that direct primaries will be heard of much after to-day at this extraordinary session. The time is past when the Democratic organization element in the Legislature, conscious now of its own strength and the Governor's weakness, will entertain any proposition having even the semblance of a compromise.

Committee's Powers Increased.

The concurrent resolution adopted this evening was put through to strengthen the original resolution under which the Frawley Committee was created. The leaders found that under the resolution as it read originally there might be some doubt as to the powers of the committee to delve into such things as the Sulzer campaign fund and the use of patronage and veto power by the Governor. Under the amended form there can be no doubt at all with regard to the sweeping powers of the committee.

One of the leaders of the committee told The New York Times correspondent that the reference to "candidates voted for in the whole State" who "shall fail to make true returns of money or things of value directly or indirectly received or expended in aid of such candidacy" was not inserted for merely ornamental purposes, but would have direct application in the forthcoming investigation.

Here is the text of the resolution:

Whereas, It has been alleged in the press of the State that unlawful or improper methods have been used or pursued by private citizens or public officers, and wrongful or unlawful acts done to influence the vote of legislators on election or primary legislation, and

Whereas, There has been submitted to the present extraordinary session of the Legislature of the State of New York a proposed act providing, among other things, for the punishment of any person who, while a candidate for an elective office to be voted for by the electors of the whole State, shall fail to make true returns of moneys or things of value, directly or indirectly received or expended in aid of such candidacy, or who shall receive or expend more than a certain sum stated in said act; therefore, be it

Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That for the information of the Legislature the whole subject of any unlawful or improper methods or wrongful or unlawful acts aforesaid and of receipts and expenditures of candidates for an elective office to be filled by the votes of the electors of the whole State be referred to a certain joint legislative committee of the Senate and Assembly to examine into the methods of financial administration and conduct of all institutions, societies, or associations of the State, &c., heretofore appointed under joint resolution, dated the second day of May, 1913, to ascertain and to report to the Legislature at this extraordinary session, or, if not ready, as soon thereafter as possible, whether any unlawful or improper methods have been employed, used, or pursued, or wrongful or improper acts done by any private person or public officer to influence the votes of legislators on election or primary legislation at the last regular or the present extraordinary session of the Legislature, and further to investigate into, ascertain, and report upon all expenditures made by any candidate voted for at the last regular election by the electors of the whole State and upon all statements filed by or on behalf of any such candidate for moneys or things of value received or paid out in aid of his election, and their compliance with the present requirements of law relating thereto. Said committee to have the power to subpoena witnesses on these subjects the same as provided in the resolution of May 2 above referred to.

May Begin Work on Monday.

Why the Sulzer campaign fund should present such an alluring field for the investigators none of the Democratic leaders in the Legislature cared to say, but they were unanimous in declaring that it would be one of the first things with which the committee would busy itself. Chairman Frawley said to-night that in all probability it would be determined on Monday or Tuesday when and where the committee should begin work. The hearings will be public. Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel of the committee, has been at work here collecting material for some days.

The resolution was presented by Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara, a first-year man from a rural district, who is a Republican to boot. But the introducer found no difficulty in getting his resolution through. It was passed unanimously and without a word of debate in the upper house, and was sent to the Assembly at once, where the Senate action was repeated before the long recess was ordered.

Without doubt the Frawley committee will investigate the allegations frequently made that the Governor, in signing the so-called full crew bill, merely car-

NAVY SUES TO GUARD TORPEDO SECRETS

Court Asked to Restrain Bliss Company from Telling England How We Handle Missiles.

Assistant United States Attorney General Malcolm A. Coles asked Judge Veeder in the United States District Court in Brooklyn yesterday to "protect the right arm of the nation's defense—the navy," by granting the request of the Government for a preliminary injunction to restrain the E. W. Bliss Company from revealing to the British Government the secrets of the torpedoes manufactured by that concern and used in our navy. Decision was reserved.

The Government contended that if the court refused to grant the injunction the Bliss Company would be enabled to sell the torpedoes to foreign countries. The company has patents on the torpedoes it manufactures in its own name in Japan, France, and England, but owing to a stipulation in the company's contracts with the Government, which binds the concern to secrecy in regard to the operation of the torpedoes, none of them has been sold abroad.

The Bliss Company, which is a West Virginia corporation, owns a large plant at the foot of Plymouth Street in Brooklyn, where it manufactures torpedoes for our navy. The contracts with the Government were made in 1905 and 1912. On May 9 the company notified Secretary of the Navy Daniels by letter that after June 1 it proposed to demonstrate the complete operation and construction of the Bliss-Leavitt torpedo to Whitehead & Co. of England.

Under instructions from the Navy Department, transmitted by Attorney General McReynolds, Mr. Youngs was directed to begin an action to restrain the Bliss Company from doing what they proposed to do.

In his application for the injunction Mr. Youngs alleges that the secrets the defendants proposed to reveal consisted of "information of a confidential character that cannot be made public without detriment to the Government." The complaint alleges that since the Bliss Company has been making torpedoes for the Government improvements which have been patented have been made in the missiles. Pending argument on the motion for a preliminary injunction Judge Veeder issued a restraining order against the Bliss Company preventing it from disclosing information concerning the torpedoes.

"This torpedo is the principal weapon of our national defense," said Assistant United States Attorney General Coles yesterday. "The right arm of the nation's defense—the navy—calls upon this court to protect its rights. The defendants contend that the precise point in this case is the balanced turbine and its intended disclosure. This is not so. The company's letter to the Navy Department reads that the Bliss Company intends to disclose the 'complete construction and operation' of the Bliss-Leavitt torpedo. If this is done, Japan or any other country can obtain these torpedoes in the open market, an act which would work irreparable injury to the United States that could not be estimated in dollars."

In opposing the Government's application, Arthur C. Fraser, counsel for the Bliss Company, asserted that the only public right the Government held over the torpedo was its share in the invention of the balanced turbine. Against the Government's contentions that Lieut. G. C. Davison patented this invention, the attorney for the defense held that F. M. Leavitt, chief engineer of the Bliss Company, had perfected the balanced turbine patented by Mr. Davison. Mr. Fraser asserted that Mr. Davison patented his idea, which was improved by Mr. Leavitt, and then assigned his patent rights to the Government. It was some time later, according to the lawyer, that the Bliss Company purchased from Mr. Davison his foreign rights and filed its patents covering the improved devices in Japan, France, and England.

"If the Government wanted secrecy about this balanced turbine," Mr. Fraser said, "why did it patent it through Davison, thereby disclosing its operations to the whole world? The very thing they set up in their complaint and ask us to keep secret is no secret at all. We gave the Government an opportunity to purchase the universal rights to the Bliss-Leavitt torpedo, and it did not take it. This torpedo has put the United States in a peculiarly advantageous condition. The Government ought to buy it and keep it for the exclusive use of its navy."

Mr. Coles, replying to the statements of the attorney for the Bliss Company, said:

"The Government has put up $1,500,000 to help the company perfect this invention, and has paid into the company's treasury more than $6,000,000 besides on contracts, practically keeping the company alive."

STRIKERS BEG WITH TRUCKS

Paterson Silk Workers Ask Aid from East Siders.

Four trucks in charge of fifty of the striking silk workers of Paterson, of whom twenty-five were girls and twenty-five men, were taken through the east side yesterday to make collections for the strikers both in New York and Paterson, who have been out of work for some seventeen weeks. They collected money from all who were willing to contribute, as well as food and clothing.

Strips of oilcloth with the words "Help the striking silk weavers of Paterson and New York," were attached to each truck, and Canal, Rutgers, Suffolk, Grand, Hester, Rivington, Stanton, Houston, and other east side streets were canvassed as far as Tenth Street.

The trucks started early in the forenoon from Rutgers Square. The proprietors of delicatessen stores and bakeries contributed food, and the money collections were made by the girls, who had metal receptacles for the money. It was at first intended to have a band of music with the trucks, but the idea was abandoned later.

BARRY SEEKS $5,000.

Wants Writer's Half of $10,000 from Sale of Political Letters.

Richard Barry, the magazine writer, filed papers in the Supreme Court yesterday asking for an attachment upon the property of Martin M. Mulhall of Baltimore. In the petition Barry says that Mulhall owes him $5,000 as the result of an agreement entered into whereby Mulhall agreed to market certain political letters among magazines and newspapers, and divide equally with him the profits from the sale.

Those letters, were purchased, according to the complaint, by the New York World for $10,000. Barry says that, in violation of the agreement, Mulhall kept the full amount derived from this sale. Mr. Barry refused to discuss the matter last night.

HELEN M'CARTHY, 16, MISSING TWO DAYS

Left Parents' Home at Hotel Hargrave Tuesday Morning—Police Called.

Helen McCarthy, 16 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCarthy of the Hotel Hargrave, at 112 West Seventy-second Street, disappeared from her home between 9 and 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and a sweeping private search failing to yield any trace of the girl, the family reported the fact to the police in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station last night.

Mr. McCarthy is a newspaper broker, and formerly was the proprietor of The Knickerbocker Press of Albany. Mrs. McCarthy is a sister of the late Bishop Frederick Rooker of the Catholic Church and for many years connected with the Papal Legation in Washington. Both families are prominent in Albany. The McCarthys have lived in this city for two years.

At about 9:15 o'clock on Tuesday morning Mrs. McCarthy sent her daughter to a store in Columbus Avenue, near West Seventy-second Street, and she was expected to return at once to her home, as she had to go to a private school in West End Avenue, near West Seventy-fifth Street, about 10 o'clock.

The girl did not return, and Mrs. McCarthy at first thought that perhaps the child had gone for a walk. After a long wait she decided that something must have happened to her daughter, and notified her husband, who was at his business. He returned directly to the hotel.

The family has no relatives in this city, and a quick search among the friends of Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy failed to disclose any news of the girl. Private agencies were called upon and a search of the hospitals and the institutions was completed without success.

Yesterday the search was continued, and when twilight brought no news of the girl the facts were reported to the police and an alarm was sent out for the girl.

Mrs. McCarthy, almost prostrated as a result of her two days of worry and a sleepless night, said last night:

"Helen had very few friends, and we knew them all. There was nothing which any one could consider an attachment. She had her young girl friends, but seldom went out except under the most careful attention of our family or warm friends. I feel sure the child has been lured away, perhaps by some other person, or else she was kidnapped and taken away by force."

Replying to further questions, Mr. McCarthy said:

"Helen attended the Sacred Heart Convent in Albany, and afterward went to school in Torresdale, Penn. Recently we decided to have Helen continue her studies as she had been devoting practically all of her time to music.

"Although she did not instantly approve of the plan to take up further studies, she seemed to be entirely pleased when we arranged to have her attend the Groff School, and Prof. Clark of that school had a conversation with us on Monday morning.

"Helen, indeed, looked forward to her first session, planned for yesterday morning, and when I started off for business we chatted pleasantly about it, and Helen seemed happy.

"The store in Columbus Avenue is not far distant. It was planned by her mother that she could attend to the little errand and be back in ample time to depart for her school and not be late."

The description of the girl given by her mother shows her to be 5 feet 4 inches in height, weighing about 120 pounds, with the appearance of a child of 14. She wore her hair down her back in two braids.

When she set out for the store she wore a pink dress with a black velvet belt and a blue straw hat, and black shoes and stockings.

Inquiry among hundreds of storekeepers in the upper west side failed to show that she had visited any of them. The police records contained no facts regarding an accident in which a girl figured.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy were convinced that Helen had very little money, if any, when she left the hotel.

Mrs. McCarthy said she was positive that her daughter would not absent herself from home because of any pique she might have felt at the continuance of her studies.

ROBS A MESSENGER GIRL.

Man Dupes Her Into Giving Him Costly Gowns and Laces.

Mrs. Frederick N. Watriss of 256 West Seventy-eighth Street, wife of a well-known lawyer, called on the telephone a cleaning establishment in Fourteenth Street yesterday, where she had sent gowns worth $2,000 and laces worth $600, to ask why she had not received them back. The proprietor assured her they were ready and dispatched Diana Sussman, an errand girl, with the package.

The girl said later that she had come to within a few doors of Mrs. Watriss's home, when she met a young man, who asked her why she had been so long with the gowns. He seized the package from the girl, signing the receipt book. He then rebuked her again for her tardiness and departed, ostensibly for the Watriss house.

A subsequent telephone call to the establishment from Mrs. Watriss established the fact that a thief had imposed on the girl, and made off with the gowns and laces.

MRS. BUD FISHER HURT.

Actress's Throat Cut — Says She Fell on Broken Pitcher.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, June 25.—With a gash five inches long in her throat Pauline Welch, a vaudeville actress, wife of Bud Fisher, a cartoonist, is at the Piedmont Hotel here in a serious condition. The actress received the wound about 2 o'clock on Monday morning in her apartments at the Piedmont, but the news was suppressed until to-day.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fisher say the injury was accidental. Mrs. Fisher says she got up at 2 o'clock Monday morning and went to a bathroom to fill a pitcher with water. It was dark and she says she fell and broke the pitcher, a jagged piece of it slashing her throat. She screamed and her husband came to her aid. When physicians arrived Mrs. Fisher had fainted from loss of blood. The wound required twenty stitches and Mrs. Fisher was unconscious until Tuesday. She is improving, but the doctors say that her condition is serious.

There were rumors that Mrs. Fisher had attempted suicide, but both she and her husband deny this.

M'NAB'S ASSOCIATE SUSPENDED BY WIRE

Herrington Had Advised Wilson to Remove McReynolds — Renews Charges About Women.

TWO OR MORE PROSECUTORS

Heney Heads Wilson's List—Young Caminetti and Diggs Indicted for Abandonment.

WASHINGTON, June 25. — Clayton Herrington, special agent of the Department of Justice at San Francisco, who sent President Wilson a telegram Sunday night appealing for the removal from office of Attorney General McReynolds, his official superior, because of the circumstances of the resignation of United States Attorney McNab, was suspended without pay to-night by A. Bruce Bielaski, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

This action, it is said, was taken in order to give Herrington an opportunity to explain his telegram. If the explanation is not satisfactory, officials declare, the special agent probably will be summarily dealt with.

Herrington is a former Judge and is in charge of the Federal Government's Bureau of Investigation at San Francisco. He helped District Attorney McNabb prepare the Diggs-Caminetti white slave cases, the postponement of the trial of which resulted in McNab's resignation and his sensational charges against the Attorney General.

Herrington was notified of his suspension in the following telegram from Bielaski:

> Am advised that telegram has been received by President of the United States from you severely reflecting upon the integrity of the Attorney General. You are hereby suspended from duty without pay, pending receipt of any explanation you may care to make.

President Wilson to-day recommended to Attorney General McReynolds the names of Francis J. Heney, Matt J. Sullivan, Thomas Hayden, and others for appointment as special prosecutors in the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases and the Western Fuel Company coal customs cases. No final selections were made.

The subject was deferred on account of the congested engagement list of the President. It is expected that the President and the Attorney General will confer early to-morrow and settle finally on two, and possibly three, men to conduct the cases.

Representatives Kent and Raker have been mentioned as possible selections for prosecutors.

Representative Kahn of California to-day declared that President Wilson's action in directing immediate prosecution of the cases would not deter him from pressing his resolutions for a Congressional investigation of the causes of the delay. The Kahn resolutions are scheduled to come up to-morrow at a hearing before the House Judiciary Committee.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25.—Francis J. Heney, who was in Albuquerque at noon to-day on the way to San Francisco, denied all knowledge of his prospective appointment as special prosecutor to conduct the Diggs-Caminetti white slave and the Western Fuel cases at San Francisco. Mr. Heney said he was not familiar with the controversy. He declined to say whether he would accept.

ASKS DEPORTATION INQUIRY.

Herrington Accuses Two Departments—McNab Steps Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Clayton Herrington, the Federal white slave investigator, who was suspended by telegraph from Washington to-day because of certain activities of his in connection with the McNab case, sent this "night letter" by wire to President Wilson just before he received notification of his suspension:

> As a citizen of California, I charge that officials in the Department of Justice and of Commerce and Labor, in disregard of judgments of the courts and in violation of law, have prevented the deportation of certain French women in this State. I demand an investigation of these matters, complete information as to which is on the files at Washington. On March 14 Secretary Wilson was informed about some of these cases.

Mr. Herrington said to-night:

"The President approves in words the way McReynolds dealt with the Diggs-Caminetti and Western Fuel cases. He disapproves in deeds by ordering the immediate trial of all the defendants, including those McReynolds tried to save. He ought therefore to dismiss McReynolds and retain McNab.

"To sustain a Washington official whose decision he overrules and blame another for doing what he himself now orders done, is not only inconsistent and unjust, but is a humiliating evasion of the responsibilities of his high station.

"McReynolds's explanation is even more pitiable. He protests that he is 'profoundly conscious that his actions were free from unworthy motives.' So was Lord Bacon, who accepted bribe money because it would not influence him. There are influences other than financial ones.

"McReynolds's excuse is that the 'facts were not fresh in his memory,' and he blames McNab for not jogging it a second time. McReynolds needs a better memory as much as the President needs a better Attorney General.

"However, my object has been accomplished. The Attorney General has been compelled to order these cases to trial forthwith, and sinister influences to which he had yielded have been frustrated."

"Thus terminates the most useful, as well as the happiest, year of my public life," said Mr. McNab before United States District Judge Van Fleet today, announcing that his resignation as United States District Attorney had been accepted. He paid tribute to the court for its just treatment of all litigants, "without regard to wealth or station or their position with the Government."

In reply Judge Van Fleet said: "The Government is losing a painstaking and efficient officer."

Mr. McNab later issued a statement branding the explanation sent to the President by the Attorney General as "lame and puerile."

"One of two things is true," says Mr. McNab. "Either the Attorney General withheld from the President my repeated messages of warning that corruption and influence were destroying the cases and postponement was fatal; or official Washington is neither sensitive nor responsive to the charge of corruption in its public service."

SCOUTS RUSH WILSON NOTE

President's Message to Chicago's Mayor Ahead of Schedule.

BEAVER FALLS, Penn, June 25.—President Wilson's message to Mayor Harrison of Chicago, carried by Boy Scouts, reached here at 7:25 P. M., almost four hours ahead of schedule time. It was soon on the way to Cleveland, Ohio.

An incident marked the carrying of the message between Pittsburgh and this place. At Freedom, Penn., the handle of the leather bag in which the message was inclosed broke. It took a harnessmaker twenty-five minutes to repair the damage. The youthful runners soon made up the lost time.

Andrew D. West, executor and Trustee of the Isaac C. Wyman estate, sent this message by telegraph to The New York Times yesterday:

"There is no reason to revise the original estimate of the executors that the bequest to Princeton will amount to $2,000,000 and perhaps more."

In the report on the appraisal of the estate, which was filed on Tuesday, it was said:

"If the remainder of the estate shrinks in proportion to the estimate of the personalty, the entire gift to Princeton may barely reach $1,000,000."

CHILDREN TUMBLE 10 FEET.

Grating Gives Way and They Fall Into a Cellar—None Badly Hurt.

A negro boy was knocked down by a delivery wagon at Madison Avenue and 130th Street yesterday just a few minutes before the pupils of All Saints' Roman Catholic Parochial School, at that corner, were dismissed for their noon recess. They crowded around the windows of the candy store at 2,057 Madison Avenue, where the boy was taken unconscious. An iron grating over a cellar ten feet below the sidewalk gave way under the strain, and seven children and one woman standing over it were precipitated to the cellar floor.

None of them was seriously injured, and only one, who suffered from bruises and possible internal injuries, was removed to the hospital. He was John Gillen, 16 years old, of 51 West 131st Street. In the excitement the boy who had been run over recovered consciousness and walked out of the store unnoticed by any one.

GIRL FIGHTS TO DROWN.

Boy Rescuers Hold on to Her Until Boat Picks Them Up.

Several persons on the pier at the foot of East Nineteenth Street last night saw a young woman walk to the far end of the pier and suddenly plunge into the East River. Two youths, John Hastings, of 265 Avenue C, and Edward Herman, of 287 Avenue C, took off their coats and jumped in after her.

They reached her side, but the young woman fought them off desperately and they could not bring her ashore. Meanwhile the tide was taking all three outward, and the youths grew exhausted in their efforts to keep the young woman afloat. Just in the nick of time Capt. A. W. Broadhead, on board one of the tugs of the New Haven Railroad, saw the struggle in the water and put his boat toward them.

The three were picked up and taken to the pier. There Policeman Brenner directed the Captain to take them to the Charities pier at the foot of Twenty-sixth Street. An ambulance removed the girl to Bellevue Hospital from the Charities pier, while her two rescuers in their dripping clothing went home.

The young woman said she was Sarah Levine, 23 years old, a shop girl, and that she lived at the Clara de Hirsch Home in Second Avenue. There it was said last night that she had attempted suicide once before when she lived with relatives in New Jersey.

The girl was made a prisoner at the hospital, charged with attempting suicide. She would not explain.

LOVETT NAMES LAUTERBACH

IMPUTES NO CORRUPTION

Unknowns Telephoned to Railroad Officials, Urging the Value of Lauterbach's Services.

ONE SAID HE WAS RIORDAN

Who Says He Knows Nothing of It —Lauterbach Admits a Talk with Kahn.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Union Pacific Railroad, told the Senate Lobby Committee to-night that his recent statement charging attempted blackmail in connection with the pending statement of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger referred to a strange and intricate conspiracy to force the railroad to employ Edward Lauterbach at a large fee as counsel in the case.

To accomplish this comparatively insignificant result, said Judge Lovett, some one claiming to be Representative Daniel J. Riordan of New York had urged Mr. Lauterbach's appointment by telephone, while Mr. Lauterbach had mentioned Representative Robert L. Henry of Texas, Chairman of the House Committee on Rules, as one of a group of radicals who would make trouble for the railroads unless Mr. Lauterbach was employed "to grease the wheels."

In mentioning the names of the Congressmen, Mr. Lovett made it plain that he did not think they were inculpated in the least. He said that while at first he had believed he had talked over the telephone to Mr. Riordan, he now had serious doubts whether Mr. Riordan knew anything of the transaction. As for Mr. Henry, he said he had known Mr. Henry for years, and felt confident that he had no relations with Mr. Lauterbach. Mr. Henry himself to-night denied that he knew Mr. Lauterbach, except by reputation, and characterized the whole story as "ridiculous."

Judge Lovett said he had no idea that Mr. Lauterbach had the least influence over Congressmen, and added that he had not even claimed any influence over the Department of Justice.

Judge Lovett told the story of the telephone conversations with himself and others of the Executive Committee of the Union Pacific Railroad without any preliminary explanation, and when he concluded it was evident that the committee had arrived at a conclusion of its own that the conspiracy had in view something more important than a counsel fee for Mr. Lauterbach. They thought that some great scheme for stock manipulation was on foot that would be furthered by blocking at this time the acceptance by the Department of Justice of the proposed dissolution plan. But Judge Lovett was confident that Mr. Lauterbach and "another individual," whom he did not name, were solely responsible.

Their personal representations to himself and his associates, of what Mr. Lauterbach could accomplish in Washington, failed, said Mr. Lovett. Then they tried to emphasize the need of employing Mr. Lauterbach by a campaign of publicity, assailing the motives behind the various solutions of the Pacific tangle proposed by Judge Lovett and his associates.

It was the final publication of a story that the plan for the Union Pacific to exchange its Southern Pacific holdings for the Baltimore & Ohio holdings of the Pennsylvania Railroad that finally induced him, he said, to take the public and the press into his confidence and tell exactly what Mr. Lauterbach was trying to do.

Tells of Pressure Brought.

Mr. Lovett said that pressure in the interests of Mr. Lauterbach had been brought to bear on Otto H. Kahn, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Paul D. Cravath, and others. Mr. Lauterbach himself, said Mr. Lovett, had called frequently on Mr. Kahn to tell what he could accomplish in Washington for the Union Pacific. It was Lauterbach himself who mentioned Representative Henry and referred to the "radical element" in Congress as planning to make trouble which only he could smooth away.

The extraordinary involutions of the widespread conspiracy for the sake of a single lawyer's fee were set forth by Mr. Lovett in the low tone of ordinary conversation. But the complete silence in the well-filled room was so great that the committee, leaning forward, as if spellbound by the strange narration, heard every word. Their interruptions were few, and Mr. Lovett told his story, just as it had come to his knowledge, without any comment on the actions or motives he described.

The session of the committee to-night was held at Judge Lovett's request to permit him to testify before sailing for Europe. At the committee's suggestion he said he would instigate a search of the telephone records of his office for a clue to the person who used Mr. Riordan's name. But he said he was certain that the committee would learn little in that way. He was sure that he had correctly stated the purpose of the machinations he had described, and in proof of it he added that since the publication of his statement of June 17 there had been no repetition of the suggestions for Mr. Lauterbach's appointment.

The committee will call Lewis Cass Ledyard, the New York lawyer, referred to to-night by Judge Lovett as having received a telephone message from a pseudo Congressman. Mr. Ledyard is said to have learned the identity of his interviewer.

Judge Lovett's Statement.

Chairman Overman began the inquiry by reading the resolution directing the investigation and a newspaper account of Judge Lovett's statement concerning the alleged efforts at blackmail. The statement, said Mr. Lovett, was substantially correct.

"I want to say first," said Judge Lovett, "that I would have paid no attention to efforts to secure legal employment but that the dispatches began to appear in the press that our proposal for solutions intended to establish a common banking control of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., well known as bankers for the Union Pacific, were mentioned in the newspaper publications. As a matter of fact, though Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are large stockholders in the Union Pacific, and their firm members are Directors on the Union Pacific, its holdings are comparatively small. Of a total capitalization of $316,000,000, these bankers for themselves or for others have about $20,000,000.

"The Supreme Court decreed dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger. Shortly after that I was called by a man on the telephone. Before I mention the name he gave I should say I have heard of other men of large interests in New York who have been called by men purporting to be Congressmen who afterward turn out not to be Congressmen. I have never met the gentleman, and do not know his voice, but he said he was Congressman Riordan of New York.

"He told me we would encounter difficulties in Washington in settling the Union Pacific case. There was, he said, what he called the radical party or radical element in Congress which would put difficulties in our way. If we would employ a lawyer he mentioned the situation, he said, would be relieved.

"That lawyer," added Judge Lovett in response to a question, "was Edward Lauterbach. I ended the conversation there—rather abruptly, I think—saying we had all the counsel we needed.

"The rest of my information I got through our counsel, who were approached, and through fellow-members of the committee, but I will give it at second hand, if the committee desires it. It was some time later than my talk on the telephone, when Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. told me that he had been approached by Edward Lauterbach. Mr. Kahn said that Mr. Lauterbach had told him that the radical element in Congress would obstruct our solution of the Union Pacific case and would institute a re-investigation of the financing of the Chicago & Alton several years ago. Mr. Lauterbach represented himself to be in a position to be of service, and said he believed the movement in Congress could be stopped. He said he would be glad to act for the railroad. Mr. Kahn, of course, replied simply that he couldn't discuss the matter, and then he told it to me as Chairman of the Executive Committee.

"Subsequently Maxwell Evarts, now counsel of the Southern Pacific, though prior to their dissolution counsel for both Pacific Roads, came and told me that a man had called him up, giving the name of Congressman Riordan, and urged him to employ a particular lawyer, Mr. Lauterbach, if difficulties in Washington were to be avoided. Mr. Evarts advised him to see me, but he replied that he wouldn't do that because, as he said, I had no imagination.

Unknown Telephones to Cravath.

"Some weeks later Paul D. Cravath, counsel for Kuhn, Loeb & Co., telephoned me that he had had a mysterious conversation with a gentleman who declined to give his name. He had had an extended conversation with him simply on that point, his refusal to name himself. The man at the other end of the telephone raised the question of employing additional counsel in Washington. I am not sure whether he mentioned the name of Lauterbach at that time or whether I mentioned it to Mr. Cravath. I know I did say to him when he told me his experience that it was evidently an effort to secure Lauterbach's appointment as counsel for us.

"Mr. Cravath then declined to proceed further with the conversation without the name of the man addressing him. But a few days later the man called up again and persisted in discussing the subject and urging Mr. Lauterbach for appointment as counsel.

"Later Otto H. Kahn received other visits from Mr. Lauterbach. On the Monday before I issued my statement he told Mr. Kahn that a resolution was ready in the House opposing the pending solution of the Pacific difficulty. He said that the resolution involved several other things. The reopening of the Money Trust investigation was one, I think, and the investigation of the financing of the Chicago & Alton in 1901 was another, and there were still others. I was chiefly concerned about the Union Pacific.

"He said at that time that the radical party, or faction, was about to make a move against the pending solution and against a common banking control of the roads. But I am unwilling to attempt to repeat this part of the conversation. He named some Congressmen, and said that he, Mr. Lauterbach, would be helpful, if wanted. Mr. Henry of Texas was mentioned as of the radical faction, but I have known Mr. Henry for several years, and I can't think he has any connection with this gentleman.

Other Kahn-Lauterbach Meetings.

"There were several other meetings between Mr. Kahn and Mr. Lauterbach of which I have just told you two. All of us had opinions as to what had inspired this campaign. None of us believed that the men who had approached us had influence in Washington. All of us had opinions that their efforts were simply to secure money through alleged legal services.

"Lewis Cass Ledyard, a well-known lawyer of New York, told me of an experience he had, and said I might use his name in talking to your committee so that you might call him for his own account of what happened. I might say, however, that he told me that a person claiming to be a Congressman had called him by telephone, suggesting that some other person be appointed counsel for the Union Pacific. But Mr. Ledyard in this case happened to check up the telephone call, and he found that the man was not a Congressman. That evidence was circumstantial, and the committee would do well to call him, as his experiences stretched over several weeks.

"In a large transaction like this," went on Judge Lovett in response to various questions, "hardly a day passes that some one does not offer a solution of the difficulty. I am convinced that most of these suggestions are offered in good faith simply in the interest of the public welfare. But with others the interest is more personal."

"Have you ever been approached by a Congressman on this subject?" asked Chairman Overman.

"Not except as I have already stated," was the reply.

Denies "Bank Control" Plan.

Judge Lovett told Senator Walsh that he supposed the charge that his pending plan for dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger looked to a "common banking control" of those two lines with the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio meant merely that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. would extend their interests in the Union Pacific to a point where they would control the four lines. No such plan had ever been contemplated, he said.

In issuing his statement of June 17, he said he feared that the efforts of the conspirators might result in such widespread publications of the charge that some congressman might be moved to offer a resolution of investigation and proceedings would be delayed beyond July 1, the limit set by the Supreme Court. In response to the direct question from Senator Walsh he said he thought that the same person, trying to get employment, inspired certain publications.

Judge Lovett said he saw signs of the newspaper campaign first in Dow, Jones & Co.'s Wall Street statement. He characterized their publication as "high-class," and said he thought the report had been published through error. He said that though the report as he saw it first bore a Chicago date-line, he thought it had been supplied in New York by the same persons trying to promote Mr. Lauterbach's candidacy for appointment as counsel, and that the Chicago date line was merely added to protect the source of the information.

"It was on June 16," Judge Lovett went on, "that Mr. Kahn said Mr. Lauterbach last appeared, and it was on the 16th that the statement appeared in the Wall Street publication. I issued my statement the next day. Their importunities began shortly after the Supreme Court's decree—probably in January—and continued until I issued my statement. As to the man styling himself Congressman Riordan, I thought it very extraordinary, but as the matter stopped there I dropped it also. I had no doubt at the time that it was Mr. Riordan, but since then, in view of what I have heard, I have very serious doubts that Mr. Riordan had anything to do with it.

"I have never employed Mr. Lauterbach," said Mr. Lovett in response to questions from Senator Walsh, "nor has the Union Pacific to my knowledge. I have known him, though, ever since I came to New York some ten years ago. He was a rather prominent lawyer at that time and a well-known Republican campaign speaker. Mr. Harriman knew him and I met him first in Mr. Harriman's office."

"Wheels Greased."

Mr. Lovett was insistent in his statements that he did not believe Mr. Lauterbach or any of his associates had any influence on Congressmen and they had not even claimed an influence over the Department of Justice.

"As I recall Mr. Kahn's quotation of Mr. Lauterbach," said Judge Lovett, "he used a rather slangy expression. He said that he had the wheels greased for having the matter disposed of in Washington. As I recall it, he said action would otherwise be taken to block us."

"It was then," suggested Senator Walsh, "that he proposed greasing the wheels."

"No," said Judge Lovett, "the wheels, he claimed, were already greased for him. It only needed his employment. No money was to be paid except as lawyers' fees. But my recollection of these things is somewhat vague, as the conversations which I am trying to recall at second hand were generally brief, as my friends terminated them promptly."

"My suspicions that the so-called Riordan was not the Congressman at all came after my talk with Mr. Ledyard. He said that he was positive he had never met Mr. Riordan, but that the men impersonating the Congressman on the telephone insisted that he had met him. Since then I have heard of other business men who have received telephone calls from some one claiming to be Mr. Riordan.

Mr. Lovett's Convictions.

"All these efforts, I am convinced, were part of a plan to force us to employ some one we did not want, to force us to pay a large fee. And these people were about to go into the newspapers and exert influence in that way to extort employment for Mr. Lauterbach. I thought the best way to forestall this move was by letting the public and the press know what they were doing. My associates and I did think that one individual besides Mr. Lauterbach was behind the plan, but that is merely a suspicion."

Senator Cummins found it hard to believe that so widespread a conspiracy could have existed merely for the purpose of attracting a lawyer's fee and he questioned Mr. Lovett closely to find out if he suspected that the whole scheme was part of a stock jobbing plan for obstructing the settlement of the dissolution of the two railroads. But Mr. Lovett was positive that no such suspicion had occurred to himself or to his associates.

"We were decidedly of the opinion that the whole thing was to force the employment of Lauterbach," said Judge Lovett. "None of us believed for a moment that he or anybody with him had power to interfere in Washington."

"The sole object, you think, was to get money?" asked Mr. Cummins.

"Yes,' said Judge Lovett, "though I don't know, of course, who was to have shared with Mr. Lauterbach. And no amount was ever suggested, as far as I know."

"It is hard to believe," said Senator Cummins, "that all this was to get a few dollars. Might it not be possible to think the object was to block the solution of the Pacific railroad troubles?"

"It is useless to speculate, Senator," replied Judge Lovett. "But if ever a corporation in handling a transaction like this of $126,000,000 once got to the point of paying to have the work accomplished, an ordinary lawyer's fee would seem inconsiderable beside what that corporation would be willing to pay. But, as I say, we never got thus far in the discussion. And we never thought the man had any influence that could help or injure us."

The committee thanked Judge Lovett for his testimony and adjourned.

Henry and Riordan Deny.

Representative Henry made the following statement to-night:

"This is absolutely ridiculous, so far as I am concerned. I know of nothing in connection with this matter, and have never had any dealings with either Lauterbach or Representative Riordan. I know Mr. Riordan but do not know Mr. Lauterbach, except that I have read that there is a lawyer in New York by that name. There is absolutely no foundation, as far as I am concerned, for the representations that Judge Lovett testifies were made to him. It may be that some persons thought I had a pocket full of rocks and some day might throw one, but there is no basis for what has been said in connection with my name. It is ridiculous."

"I have never spoken to Judge Lovett in my life," said Congressman Riordan to-night after he had been told of Judge Lovett's testimony.

"I never talked with him by telephone or otherwise. I know nothing of the telephone conversation of which he told. I have never seen Judge Lovett. As for Mr. Lauterbach, I know him by sight only. I have never talked with him on this or any other subject. Some one must have used my name without authority in speaking to Judge Lovett. I know nothing of the matter at all. Of course, I shall be glad to appear before the Senate committee."

MR. LAUTERBACH'S VERSION.

Says He Talked with Mr. Kahn, but Only Casually.

Edward Lauterbach said last night that the only man connected with the Union Pacific or Southern Pacific to whom he had talked of the proposed plan of dissolution of the two railroads was Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who are the fiscal agents for the Union Pacific.

"I saw Mr. Kahn about ten days ago," said Mr. Lauterbach. "I am counsel for Oscar Hammerstein, and it was regarding the adjustment of his affairs with the Metropolitan Opera House that I called on Mr. Kahn. Incidentally we talked about the proposed plan of dissolution of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. I reminded him that about ten years ago my firm had represented the Government in the reorganization of the Union Pacific. I reminded him also that about seven years ago I had represented the James R. Keene syndicate in its suit to enjoin the Union Pacific from continuing to hold 310,000 shares of Southern Pacific stock. Our argument then was that the two lines were competitors, that the Union Pacific had control of the Southern Pacific, and that this arrangement was repugnant to the Sherman law. We also asked that the Southern Pacific be decreed to declare a dividend of its earnings. We were beaten in this case, but I pointed out to Mr. Kahn that my contentions in that case are now being held to be sound. He agreed with me.

"That is the only conversation I ever held with anybody in any way connected with either road. Two weeks ago or so Paul D. Cravath of counsel for the Southern Pacific told me once, when I met him casually, that somebody had called him up on the telephone and suggested that I be retained in the present case. We held no further conversation about it, however.

"I haven't seen Mr. Lovett for many years—not since he became President of the Union Pacific. The only time in my life that I ever saw him was a number of years ago when he came to me in behalf of Mr. Harriman and engaged me in the Illinois Central case.

"I am very slightly acquainted with Congressman Riordan. I have not seen him, talked to him, or heard from him in ten years.

"All that I know about it will be laid before the committee at Washington. I have not been summoned, but I plan to go to Washington to-morrow and volunteer my testimony."

PACIFICS PLAN ADVANCED.

Attorney General Expresses Hope of Dissolution Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Attorney General McReynolds, Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and Paul D. Cravath, representing Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York bankers, had an all-day conference to-day over the plan for the dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, which contemplates transferring Baltimore & Ohio Railroad stock held by the Pennsylvania Railroad to the Union Pacific in exchange for Southern Pacific stock of equal value owned by the Union Pacific to go to the Pennsylvania. An effort to reach a complete agreement was made, but progress in the negotiations was not as rapid as was expected, and further conferences will be necessary.

It was said by the Attorney General, however, that everything looked favorable for a satisfactory adjustment of the long pending questions which previously had been stumbling blocks. He expressed the opinion that the Government and the railroads concerned would be able to present a common plan of dissolution to the United States Circuit Court in St. Paul by July 1.

Work between Mr. McReynolds, Judge Lovett, and Mr. Cravath to-day was devoted to the actual drafting of the plan which will be laid before the court. When the Attorney General saw newspaper men after the conference he was in excellent spirits, and said he felt like a man who saw the end of a hard job in sight.

The prospect, he said, was that the plan would be completed in a very short time. It was probable an agreement would be reached to-morrow, and the entire plan drafted in the shape in which it would go to the Federal court for approval.

Nothing concerning the details of the plan as agreed on was made public. Mr. McReynolds said, however, that he was satisfied with the conclusions reached between himself and the representatives of the railroads and bankers, and he hoped the plan would commend itself to the court as effective and obedient to the mandate of the United States Supreme Court.

Both the Attorney General and Judge Lovett confirmed the statement that the exchange of Baltimore & Ohio stock for Southern Pacific stock between the Pennsylvania and the Union Pacific would enter into the adjustment.

The Attorney General will endeavor to lay the final draft and a synopsis of the agreement before President Wilson to-morrow.

BOND REFUND PLAN TO BE RESTORED

Retirement of Banknotes Is Also Decided Upon at White House Conference.

BANKS ASK PLACE ON BOARD

Financiers' Committee Proposes Changes in Currency Bill in Long Talk with Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Two important conferences on the Currency bill were held at the White House to-day.

The first was attended by President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, Senator Owen, and Representative Glass, Chairmen of the Senate and House Committees on Banking and Currency, and the Currency Legislation Committee of the American Bankers' Association, consisting of George M. Reynolds of Chicago, Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, John Perrin of Los Angeles, and Sol Wexler of New Orleans. The bankers suggested four important changes in the measure relating to protection of the 2 per cent. Government bonds, the proposed $500,000,000 issue of reserve notes, and representation on the proposed Federal Reserve Board.

The second conference, held to-night, was between President Wilson and members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, namely, Senators Owen of Oklahoma, Shafroth of Colorado, Hollis of New Hampshire, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Reed of Missouri, Pomerene of Ohio, and O'Gorman of New York, Democrats, and Senators Bristow of Kansas, Nelson of Minnesota, and Week of Massachusetts, Republicans. A significant feature about this conference, which continued from 8 until 11 o'clock, was that Senator Owen was the only member of the committee present who defended the measure in its entirety. President Wilson also stood by the measure as a whole, though he made it plain that some changes would probably receive his approval.

To Restore Dropped Sections.

The most important development of these conferences, it was learned late to-night by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent from one of the Senators present, was that the three sections, numbered 18, 19, and 20, which were printed in the text of the bill as originally presented in THE TIMES, but were eliminated the following day, are to be restored. These sections provide for the retirement of the national bank circulating notes in twenty years, and in connection therewith for the refunding of the Government 2 per cent. bonds into 3 per cent. bonds at the rate of one-twentieth of the amount each year.

The financiers who conferred with President Wilson in the afternoon explained that they came here as individual bankers, with the idea of endeavoring to present to the Administration the situation as seen from the bankers' point of view. They had a favorable reception at the White House, and were assured by the President, after they had presented their suggestions for alterations in the measure, that their recommendations would have thorough consideration.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learned to-night that their proposals were rather favorably regarded, with the exception of the recommendation that the banks which would form part of the new system should have representation on the Federal Reserve Board. President Wilson, it is ascertained, strongly opposed admitting the banks to such representation.

Changes Bankers Propose.

Here are the changes suggested by Messrs. Reynolds, Wade, Wexler, and Perrin:

> First—That the size of the Federal Reserve Board be increased from seven, as proposed in the Administration bill, to eleven, by adding four representative bankers as members of the board, these four to be chosen by the President from a list of twelve bankers to be nominated by the twelve regional reserve banks.
>
> Second—That the 2 per cent. Government bonds, now utilized as security for national bank note circulation, be protected either by refunding them into 3 per cents., or by paying them off at the rate of $35,000,000 annually, thereby retiring the national bank note circulation of about $712,000,000 in twenty years.
>
> Third—That the fixed limit of $500,000,000 upon the extent to which the proposed Treasury reserve notes may be issued be removed. It is suggested that this additional currency shall not be in Treasury notes, but shall take the form of banknotes, to be properly protected by gold reserves and other securities, and a taxation of deficiency of reserve, rather than a taxation of the notes, to facilitate and encourage their retirement.
>
> Fourth—That a part of the reserves in the proposed new banking system shall be left available to be used by the present reserve agent banks, instead of having these reserves carried wholly by the proposed regional reserve banks and their member banks in the new system.

As explained by the bankers at their conference, the purpose of their suggestion that part of the reserves should be left avilable to be utilized by the present reserve agent banks is to have a provision in the bill to prevent the transformation from the present to the proposed new system, disturbing the natural trend of the business of the country or its natural exchange facilities.

The bankers urged the proposed new Treasury reserve notes, which the bill, as it stands, contemplates. Even before he had received this suggestion from them the President had been asked not to have any arbitrary limit placed upon the amount of these notes to be issued, and it is understood the Administration has been favorably considering the removal of such a limitation.

Protection for Notes.

Under the change in these notes proposed by the bankers they would be backed by the stockholders' liability, which is double the amount of the bank's capital. In addition each note would have a first lien on the assets of the note-issuing regional reserve bank besides having an additional guarantee from every other Federal reserve bank in the proposed new banking system. This, they said, would unify the note issue and thoroughly protect it.

In the same connection the bankers suggested a change in the method of taxation to facilitate the retirement of these notes. Under the Administration bill the tax would be imposed on the note itself by the Federal Reserve Board. Under the plan suggested by Mr. Reynolds and his associates the tax for purposes of retirement would be levied against the gold reserve backing up the notes, and not against the notes themselves.

Whenever the gold reserve falls below 50 per cent. in the note-issuing bank's vault, then the deficiency is to be taxed at the rate of 1½ per cent. for every 2½ per cent. drop in the amount of the gold reserve. For example, if the gold reserve should be only 47½ per cent. there would be a tax of 1½ per cent. on the deficiency between 47½ per cent. and the required 50 per cent., a tax of 3 per cent. on the deficiency should the gold reserve fall to 45 per cent., a tax of 6 per cent. if it should fall to 40 per cent., but in no event is the gold reserve ever to be below 33 1-3 per cent.

The decision to restore to the bill the provisions for the retirement of the national bank circulation and the refunding of the 2 per cent. bonds is due to the belief of the Administration and Chairmen Owen and Glass that unless this is done there will be no support for the measure from the leading bankers of the country. This fact was learned in a positive way to-night.

Wilson Gets Senate View.

The conference President Wilson had with the Democratic Senators gave him a clearer perspective of the situation with which he must contend whenever the bill reaches the Senate. From the very outset of this conference there was sharp criticism of many features of the measure. Senators Reed, Democrat, and Bristow, Republican, were pronounced in their opposition to any centralization of power, either political or banking. Their objections on this score struck at the very heart of the bill's proposals.

Senator Owen was soon engaged in a lively conversation across the table with other Senators, who naturally stopped when the President intervened with a defense of the measure, as it was impossible for the Senators present to become argumentative toward the President.

One Senator raised the objection that the proposed $500,000,000 issue of Treasury reserve notes would have behind them no special reserve fund for their redemption and that they would simply depend on the reserve associations to take up the notes. These reserve associations, this Senator pointed out, would not have any more reserves than were necessary to protect their deposits and partially protect the new notes.

Several other Senators criticised strongly that portion of the plan which proposes to subtract from each national bank going into the new system 20 per cent. of its capital stock for the purpose of holding shares in the regional reserve bank, to which these member banks would belong. It was pointed out that last year the total capitalization of national banks had increased $20,000,000, but that their deposits had increased $400,000,000, and that the increase in capitalization did not begin to keep pace with growth of deposits. The Senators making this point felt that the capital of these banks was pretty well occupied already.

Sees a Federal Money Trust.

One of the Senators went so far as to intimate to the President a belief that such a union of banks would be nothing more than a money trust under Federal control.

There was also some opposition from other Senators to the proposal for refunding the 2 per cent. bonds into 3 per cents. It was suggested that this would be too profitable to the banks and that the country would hardly tolerate any arrangement for raising the rate of interest on such bonds.

When the conference adjourned no understanding had been reached for its resumption, as it was apparent that it would be difficult to convince most of the Senators present that such legislation ought to be enacted in the extra session, and some indicated strong opposition to any legislation. Senator O'Gorman did not favor legislation at this time.

PRAISED BY UNTERMYER.

Bill Will Stop Tribute to London and Paris, He Says.

Before sailing yesterday for Europe on the Hamburg-American liner Imperator Samuel Untermyer, who was the counsel for the Pujo Money Trust Committee, gave out a statement on the new Currency bill, in which he expressed the opinion that, if passed, it will prove the most important legislative accomplishment of a generation. He also said that it would mark a new departure in finance under which at last the Government would assume its legitimate functions.

"The inflation and contraction of the currency of a nation," says Mr. Untermyer, "does not belong in private hands. The bill will check Wall Street speculation and give new life to business. With a discount market for bills of exchange we shall cease paying tribute to London, Paris, and Berlin on all our foreign business.

"The New York banks will doubtless struggle for an amendment to permit part of the reserves to remain with them, but I do not believe they will succeed. The enactment of the law will make a vast difference to the security market, and we may as well begin to adjust ourselves to it now.

"There are, in my judgment, some important changes that should be made, but the fundamental principle of a thoroughly well-secured currency, backed by an adequate gold reserve issued directly by the Government and under its exclusive control, is absolutely sound. There is no reason why the banks, as such, should have any representation on the Government board, though it by no means follows that there will be no bankers appointed by the President. I have no doubt there will be, but they will represent the Government, as they should."

Mr. Untermyer added: "The banks are the applicants. The board must pass on their applications. Why should they, as such, be represented?"

Some changes in the monetary system which Mr. Untermyer would like to see he thus describes:

1. The $500,000,000 limit of currency issues removed there should be no limit in the discretion of the Federal board. It invites inflation. As soon as a demand for circulation arises the banks are likely to scramble for it.
2. The bond-secured banknote currency should be retired as was at first contemplated; otherwise we will have no comprehensive system, and this legislation will become nothing more than an emergency measure.
3. State institutions should not be permitted to become members as at present provided or to share in the benefits of the currency issues either directly or through the national banks until they conform to the limitations and restrictions of power, especially as to investments and loans.

"It is quite true," said Mr. Untermyer, "as urged by the banks, that the bill in its present form leaves no incentive to a bank to remain in the national system and furnishes every inducement to exchange for a State charter. I do not believe there is any bluff or insincerity in that very generally expressed conclusion.

"But the attractions and profits of membership in the new reserve bank are so alluring that no bank can afford to stay out, and if all banks are placed on an absolute equality of power and opportunity as a condition of membership we shall have no defections and will at last secure a unified system with adequate elasticity and complete supervision.

"I hope, and have earnestly urged, that the legislation recommended by the Pujo report be not pressed at this session, and that nothing be done to complicate the immediate passage of this bill. This legislation logically forms part of the revision of the banking law and may well await the regular session.

"The last few years have witnessed the most stupendous industrial and economic revolution in our history. We are not only readjusting the relations between capital and labor, but, still more important, our ideals of justice and our moral standards.

"Congressional investigations to expose the existing abuses have been an unpleasant but necessary part of the process."

Mr. Untermyer, who was accompanied by his wife, said that he was going direct to London from Southampton, and then to Paris, after which he would make a motor trip through France and Italy, and return to New York the last week in August.

PEOPLE'S BILL, SAYS BRYAN.

Declares Only Certain Classes Can Object to Currency Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Secretary Bryan in a signed article on the Currency bill contributed to The Public Ledger says that when the bill is considered on its merits it is at once realized that it was written from the standpoint of the people, rather than from the standpoint of the financiers, and that, considering the principles involved, no one can afford to oppose so wise a measure. Mr. Bryan emphasizes what he terms the need for immediate legislation, and adds:

> It is not contended that the bill is perfect in detail. No one, or even a few, can hope to draft any measure upon any important subject which will in every detail be satisfactory to the 500 Senators and Representatives who must pass upon it. Whatever defects it may have will be brought out by discussion and cured by amendment.
>
> But, considering the principles involved, who can afford to oppose so wise a measure as that now offered? Not the general public, because their rights are fully protected. Not the business interests, for their needs are fully met. Not the State banks, for they come, for the first time, into association with the national banks in the enjoyment of accommodations furnished by the Government. Not the average national bank, because the President's plan is to it a life preserver.
>
> Who, then, can object? Only two classes: Those who dispute the right of the people to issue through their Government the money which the people need, and those who, distrusting the representatives chosen by the people to guard the public welfare, would deny the Government officials control over the issuance of emergency notes.

Mr. Bryan declares the regional reserve banks will prove a great advantage to business.

because he had been a candidate against Cohalan for Justice of the Supreme Court.

The report then goes on to say:

"As a result of said investigation the committee finds that there is evidence prima facie sustaining the following statement, and the committee has been unable to obtain any evidence to the contrary thereof:

"First—That Daniel F. Cohalan was duly admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor-at-law in the State of New York in May, 1888. He practiced his profession in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, until May, 1911, when he was appointed Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of the Hon. James A. O'Gorman. The said Justice Cohalan was duly elected a Justice of the Supreme Court for a full term of fourteen years at the election held in November, 1911, and took office pursuant to said election on Jan. 1, 1912. He has acted as such Justice from the time of his said appointment. His term of office will expire Dec. 31, 1925. He was elected a member of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York in the year 1894, and has been a member thereof since.

History of Connolly's Company.

"Second—In the year 1900 the Victor Heating Company was duly incorporated pursuant to the laws of the State of New York, and thereafter did business in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, consisting principally of installing and repairing heating and ventilating plants, boilers, and other machinery. The said company had its office and place of business, consisting of one floor and basement, in the premises 2,295 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, during the years 1903, 1904, 1905, and 1906, and one John A. Connolly was the President and a Director of said company during that period. One George O'Hanlon was a Director and Secretary of the said company from the date of its incorporation to some time in the month of September, 1904. He also was Treasurer of the company from February, 1901, to September, 1904. One J. Bennett Southard was elected a Director of the company in 1901, and remained a Director until some time subsequent to the year 1906. The said John A. Connolly purchased the interest in said company formerly held by George O'Hanlon in the month of September, 1904, and thereafter became the principal stockholder of and controlled the said company. The capital stock of said company was $10,000, divided into 100 shares of $100 each. The cash capital paid into the company by its stockholders was the sum of $4,400.

"Third—The said John A. Connolly knew Mr. Cohalan and family for many years prior to November, 1903, and he and said John A. Connolly were at that time intimate friends.

"Fourth—The said Daniel F. Cohalan had been active in the Democratic Party and in the organization known as Tammany Hall in the City of New York for a long time prior to November, 1903, and at that time he was well known as a person who had influence over members of that organization and over such of them as might hold public office in said city.

"Fifth—The political party of which Daniel F. Cohalan was a member had been successful in the election held in November, 1903, and the persons elected to office at that election entered upon their official duties on Jan. 1, 1904.

"Sixth—The said John A. Connolly called upon Daniel F. Cohalan some time in November or December, 1903, and requested him to use his influence for the purpose of securing from the officials of the city who were to enter upon their duties on Jan. 1, 1904, orders for work to be done by the Victor Heating Company.

"Seventh—Daniel F. Cohalan in November or December, 1903, offered to said John A. Connolly to use his influence with and thereby obtain orders from city officials for work to be done and materials to be furnished by the said Victor Heating Company, provided he received one-half the stock of the said company as a consideration therefor. This proposition was refused by the company, but thereafter it was agreed between Daniel F. Cohalan and the said company that he would use his influence with the President of the Borough of Manhattan for the purpose of obtaining for the said company orders from city officials for work to be done and material to be furnished by it, and that in consideration of Daniel F. Cohalan's use of his said influence for that purpose he was to receive 55 per cent. of the net profits earned by the said company upon said orders.

Cohalan Used His Influence.

"Eighth—That pursuant to the agreement referred to in Paragraph V hereof, and in the month of February, 1904, Daniel F. Cohalan did use his influence with the President of the Borough of Manhattan, or with some other person or persons connected with said department, and thereafter such orders for work, labor, and services to be performed and material to be furnished were issued to the said Victor Heating Company.

"Ninth—The Victor Heating Company had not received any order for work, labor, and services to be performed or for materials to be furnished by it from the said Borough President or from his predecessor in office or from the Bureau of Public Buildings and Offices prior to the time that Daniel F. Cohalan used his influence as aforesaid.

"Tenth—That in the month of May, 1904, Daniel F. Cohalan offered to the said John A. Connolly and to the said Victor Heating Company to use his influence with and thereby procure from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York and from the Commissioner of the said department, or from other persons concerned therewith, orders for work, labor and services to be performed and for materials to be furnished by the said Victor Heating Company, provided the said company would pay to him in consideration thereof 55 per cent. of the net profits earned by the said company upon said orders, and on the further condition that the said company would pay the further sum of 10 per cent. of the gross amount of said orders to be obtained as aforesaid, which sum was to be paid as an additional inducement for procuring the said orders.

"Eleventh—The said John A. Connolly, in behalf of the Victor Heating Company, accepted the offer of said Cohalan upon the terms set forth in the preceding paragraph, and said Cohalan thereafter did use his influence with the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, and with other persons connected with the said department, and did procure for the Victor Heating Company, by reason of his said influence, orders for work, labor, and services to be performed and material to be furnished by it.

"Twelfth—Prior thereto the Victor Heating Company had not received orders for work, labor, or services to be performed, or for materials to be furnished by it from the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, or from his predecessor in office, or from any other person in said department.

Got City Contract.

"Thirteenth—The Victor Heating Company, shortly after entering into the arrangement with the said Cohalan heretofore referred to, received from the Department of Water Suply, Gas and Electricity an order to perform certain work, labor, and services and furnish certain materials in and about a certain pumping station known as the 179th Street Pumping Station in the City of New York.

"Fourteenth—That for some time prior to the receipt of said order work similar to that called for therein had been done in and about said pumping station, and materials similar to those required to be furnished by the said order had been furnished to the said pumping station by the George F. Blake Company and the Worthington Pump Company, both of which companies were then well known as reliable and competent in the class of work referred to in said orders, and they had properly performed the work, labor, and services and furnished the materials and were properly performing the work, labor, and services and furnishing the materials, as ordered.

"Fifteenth—That no reason existed, or was offered, for discontinuing the services of the said companies heretofore named and the employment of the Victor Heating Company in their place other than the fact that said Cohalan had used his influence, and thereby induced the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity or some other authorized person connected with the said department to make the change.

"Sixteenth—Between the 1st day of April, 1904, and the 31st day of December, 1905, pursuant to the foregoing agreement, the Victor Heating Company received orders for work, labor, and services to be performed and materials to be furnished from the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan and the Bureau of Public Buildings and Offices aggregating the sum of $11,302.22.

"Seventeenth—Between the 1st day of May, 1904, and the 31st day of December, 1905, pursuant to the foregoing agreement, the said Victor Heating Company received from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity orders for work, labor and services to be performed and materials to be furnished aggregating the sum of $37,552.59.

"Eighteenth—The payments received from the City of New York by the Victor Heating Company for the work done and materials furnished on the orders received pursuant to the foregoing arrangement aggregate the sum of $48,864.81.

"Nineteenth—That in the early part of 1906 said John A. Connolly caused to be prepared a statement showing the profits made by the Victor Heating Company upon the orders previously received by the said company in pursuance of the foregoing arrangement, and delivered a copy of the said statement to said Cohalan at or about the time that the same was prepared.

Cohalan Received Cash.

"Twentieth—That on or about Oct. 29, 1904, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the sum of $500. That on or about Dec. 6, 1904, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the further sum of $200 in cash. That on or about Jan. 20, 1905, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the further sum of $185 in cash. That on or about Jan. 23, 1905, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the further sum of $55.55 in cash. That on or about May 22, 1905, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the further sum of $1,000 in cash. That on or about Aug. 2, 1905, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the further sum of $1,000 in cash. That on Sept. 17, 1906, John A. Connolly paid said Cohalan the further sum of $500 in cash, and on Nov. 10, 1906, a further sum of $500 in cash. That said sums aggregated the sum of $3,940.55.

"Twenty-first—With the exception of the sum of $55.55 paid to him on or about Jan. 23, 1906, the various sums paid to said Cohalan as set forth in the preceding paragraph were paid in pursuance of the agreement previously entered into between said Cohalan and said Connolly to the effect that said Cohalan was to receive 55 per cent. of the net profits made by the Victor Heating Company upon orders received by the company, which orders had been received through the influence of said Cohalan from the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan or the Bureau of Buildings and Supplies or from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity of the City of New York.

"Twenty-second—The first payment made to the said Victor Heating Company by the City of New York for work, labor and services to be performed and material to be furnished pursuant to an order given by the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity was made on or about Jan. 20, 1905, and amounted to the sum of $555.57.

"Twenty-third—On the 23d day of January, 1905, John A. Connolly paid to said Cohalan the sum of $55.55, being the 10 per cent. of the gross amount collected from the City of New York to be paid as an additional inducement, as set forth in Paragraph 10 hereof.

"Twenty-fourth—The said John A. Connolly stated to said Cohalan at the time said payment of $55.55 was made and accepted that the same was paid in accordance with the agreement made in May, 1904, to the effect that 10 per cent. of the moneys collected from the city on orders received from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricty were to be paid to some unknown person.

"Twenty-fifth—Said Cohalan subsequently informed said Connolly that the arrangement previously made in regard to the payment of 10 per cent. of the gross amount collected upon orders received from the said Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity would not be carried out, and the sum of $55.55 paid as alleged in Paragraph 23 hereof was thereupon charged on account of the moneys due to said Cohalan pursuant to the arrangement whereby he was to receive 55 per cent. of the net profits made by the Victor Heating Company upon the orders which were received by it from the various departments of the City of New York by reason of his influence.

Demanded Return of Money.

"Twenty-sixth—The Victor Heating Company in January, 1909, made a demand upon said Cohalan for the return to it of the moneys, aggregating $3,940.55, which had been paid to him, as hereinbefore set forth. The demand was not complied with, and the company then placed the claim in the hands of Alfred B. Cruikshank, an attorney, for collection.

"Twenty-seventh—The said Alfred B. Cruikshank, acting as attorney for the Victor Heating Company, thereafter demanded repayment of the said sum of $3,940.55 from said Cohalan, who thereupon refused to pay the same.

"Twenty-eighth—An action was then instituted in the Supreme Court, New York County, in behalf of the Victor Heating Company against said Cohalan to recover the said sum of $3,940.55 with interest. The verified complaint in said action which was served upon said Cohalan contained allegations which in substance stated that the said amount was due to the plaintiff for moneys had and received by the defendant, and said complaint also contained allegations as to the circumstances under which the said moneys were had and received.

"Twenty-ninth—Negotiations were entered into between said Cohalan and the attorney for the plaintiff in said action looking toward a settlement of the claim set forth in the complaint therein. Said Cohalan first offererd to pay $1,000, and subsequently $1,500, to the plaintiff in settlement, which offers were refused, and he finally agreed to return, and did return, the entire sum claimed, to wit, the sum of $3,940.55, without interest, and said sum was paid to the attorneys for the plaintiff in said action on May 27, 1909.

"Thirtieth—Said Cohalan prior to his agreement to pay the said sum of $3,940.55 insisted and required as part of the terms of the settlement that the original verified complaint in said action should be destroyed, together with all evidence of the transactions between said Cohalan and the Victor Heating Company or its representatives, hereinabove referred to, and further, insisted and required that an amended complaint be prepared, verified, and served upon him in said action in which it should be alleged that the moneys claimed to be due had been previously loaned to the said Cohalan by the plaintiff therein.

"Thirty-first.—A verified amended complaint, in accordance with said requirement, was prepared and served on the respondent on May 27, 1909, and at the same time the original complaint in said action was destroyed by the attorney for the plaintiff, and thereupon said Cohalan paid to the attorney for the plaintiff the sum of $3,940.55 in cash.

"Thirty-second.—The said Alfred B. Cruikshank, who had personal charge of said action in behalf of the plaintiff, having agreed with said Cohalan to cause to be destroyed the evidence in regard to the transaction hereinabove referred to, did, within a short time after the settlement of said action, destroy and cancel, or cause to be destroyed and canceled, what he believed to be all the evidence of said transactions.

"Thirty-third.—The said John A. Connolly and the said Cohalan had been intimate friends for many years prior to 1904, but, by reason of the commencement of the action referred to in the preceding paragraph, said friendship ceased, and was terminated at or prior to the time that the said sum of $3,940.55 was paid to the plaintiff therein.

"Thirty-fourth.—Connolly, for some time prior to April, 1911, was in financial difficulties, and was desirous of obtaining the aid of said Cohalan in securing an appointment to some public office, and in order to obtain such aid the said Connolly desired to re-establish the friendship which had formerly existed between them.

"Thirty-fifth.—Thereupon the said Connolly called upon said Cohalan and asked for his aid and assistance. Said Cohalan thereupon informed said Connolly, in substance, that before he could secure such aid and assistance said Connolly would have to execute and deliver to said Cohalan his promissory note for $4,000 and an estoppel affidavit, the contents of which are hereafter more particularly set forth, and said Cohalan agreed that if such note and affidavit were delivered to him he would aid said Connolly to obtain an appointment to some public office as requested.

"Thirty-sixth.—The said John A. Connolly thereafter and on the 5th day of April, 1911, and without having received any other consideration whatsoever than the promise of the aid and assistance of said Cohalan as hereinabove stated, executed and caused to be delivered to said Cohalan the said promissory note for $4,000, payable four months after date, and also an affidavit, of which the following is a copy:

> City and County of New York, ss.:
>
> John A. Connolly, being duly sworn, says: That he is the maker of a note for four thousand dollars, ($4,000,) dated this 5th day of April, 1911, to the order of Daniel F. Cohalan, and that there are no defenses thereto and no counterclaims or offsets against the same.
>
> JOHN A. CONNOLLY.
>
> Sworn to before me this 5th day of April, 1911,
> ELLEN DROHEN,
> Notary Public, New York County.

Change in Affidavit.

"Thirty-seventh—The said affidavit at the time that the said John A. Connolly verified the same, contained at the end thereof the words 'to the knowledge of deponent.' When the attorney for the said John A. Connolly called and delivered to him the said affidavit, said Cohalan objected to the words above quoted and insisted that they be stricken from the affidavit, which was accordingly done in the presence of said Cohalan by the counsel for the said John A. Connolly, but in Connolly's absence and without his knowledge or authority.

"Thirty-eighth—In the month of May, 1913, Lyman E. Warren, acting as attorney for the said John A. Connolly, sent to Justice Cohalan a letter, of which the following is a copy:

> New York, May 19, 1913.
> Hon. Daniel F. Cohalan.
>
> My dear Judge: I have been consulted by John R. Connolly in regard to a promissory note made by him and delivered to you in April, 1911, said note bearing date April 5, 1911, for $4,000, and accompanied by an estoppel affidavit. His statement to me being that said note was given by him upon your express promise to procure him a position, which you have failed to do, although more than two years have now elapsed.
>
> He states to me this note was given you after you had had some differences arising with the conduct of the Victor Heating Company, which had been theretofore adjusted.
>
> If this statement is correct, I have advised him that he has the right to receive back this note, it being an obligation which might be enforced against him, and he has requested me to bring suit for the surrender and cancellation of this paper, but, as experience has taught me, there is always two sides to most controversies, I declined to bring an action until I had requested a return of the document. And hence this letter is sent to you requesting the return with the same, with the estoppel affidavit accompanying it. I am leaving for the Court of Appeals in the morning and shall return on Wednesday, at which time I trust I may have a reply to this communication.
>
> The note and affidavit can be delivered at my office. Unless I hear from you on or before Thursday morning, I shall treat your silence as a refusal, and I am instructed by Mr. Connolly to bring an action for its recovery. Trusting this unpleasant duty may be obviated either by a delivery of the paper to me as his attorney or that I may be convinced his statement as to its procurement or delivery is incorrect I beg to remain very respectfully,
>
> LYMAN E. WARREN.

Did Surrender the Note.

"Thirty-ninth—Thereafter and on the 22d day of May, 1913, in response to the demand contained in said letter, Justice Cohalan returned to the said Warren the promissory note and original affidavit above referred to.

"Fortieth—In the latter part of May, 1913, a newspaper published in the City of New York printed, in substance, the facts hereinabove set forth, and thereafter and on the 31st day of May, 1913, Justice Cohalan prepared and caused to be delivered to representatives of the various newspapers in the City of New York a statement by way of an answer or explanation in reference to said newspaper articles and the facts therein alleged. Said statement was published in the columns of the various newspapers of this city on the 1st day of June, 1913, and a copy thereof is attached hereto.

"Forty-first—This statement was untrue and misleading.

"Forty-second—The said John A. Connolly at no time since the said Cohalan acted as attorney for him in the matters referred to in the said statement hereto attached as set forth in paragraph 40 hereof authorized or directed Justice Cohalan to make any statement in regard to, or to disclose any facts learned by the said Cohalan while acting as such attorney, and all references to said matters in said statement were made without the consent of said John A. Connolly or of anybody acting in his behalf.

"The foregoing findings are based upon the statement of Justice Daniel F. Cohalan given to the public press on May 31, 1913; upon the testimony of John A. Connolly, Robert B. Scallan, Charles G. Wiley, Alfred B. Cruikshank, Edward L. Blackman, and J. Bennett Southard, and upon the letters, books and other documents produced before the committee.

"Dated June 24, 1913.

"Respectfully submitted,

"HOWARD TOWNSEND, Chairman.

"LINAR CHRYSTIE, Secretary."

Cohalan's Reply to Committee.

Appended to the report are two exhibits. Exhibit A is a letter written by Einar Chrystie, counsel of the Grievance Committee, to Justice Cohalan on June 16, informing him of the request of Gov. Sulzer to look into the Connolly charges, and inviting him to attend the meeting of the committee.

Exhibit B is Justice Cohalan's reply to this letter from the Grievance Committee. Here it is:

> New York, June 17, 1913.
>
> Einer Chrystie, Esq., Attorney to the Committee on Grievances, Association of the Bar of the City of New York.
>
> Dear Sir:
>
> This is to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 16th instant delivered at my house last night, in which you inform me that the Governor has requested your committee to file with him any and all facts and exhibits in its possession concerning certain charges made against me by one John A. Connolly, together with its report, recommendation and conclusions regarding such charges; and that your committee would hold a meeting on the 18th instant at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of investigating such charges, and determining what, if any, action should be taken thereon, and inviting me to be present at said meeting, either personally or by counsel, and to participate therein.
>
> In reply thereto, I beg to say that while, as a member of the bar, I should welcome the opportunity thus offered me in the forum provided by your association, yet I feel that, as a Justice of the Supreme Court, I have no right to submit those charges to an investigation at the hands of your committee. I have, as you know, requested the Governor to submit the accusations made against me to the Legislature, now in session, as the only body with constitutional jurisdiction to determine the truth or falsity of these charges and take appropriate action thereon, and doubtless my request will be acceded to.
>
> Without, therefore, in any way intending any want of courtesy to your committee, I beg to advise you that I shall not be present at your hearing nor be there represented by counsel.
>
> I notice that your body has been asked to forward to the Governor not only statements and exhibits bearing upon the charges, but also its "recommendations and conclusions" regarding the same. For your committee to submit any such recommendations or conclusions would, I venture to submit, be manifestly improper, in view of the fact that the Governor has been asked by me in his discretion to submit the questions in issue to the Legislature, as the sole body with jurisdiction to act. Your association is without power to compel the attendance of witnesses, administer oaths, or punish for perjury, and has none of the other powers incident to a final determination of the charges upon the merits; but the Legislature has all of these powers. Your compliance under these conditions with such request to the extent of formulating recommendations or expressing conclusions cannot but tend, to some extent at least, to prejudice the merits of the controversy, which, I must assume, you have no intention of doing.
>
> Yours very truly,
>

BALTIMORE, June 25.—Col. E. C. THRONG PIERS TO SEE THE IMPERATOR SAIL

Five Thousand Persons Visit the Giant Hamburg-American Liner Before Her Departure.

SHE GETS AWAY EASILY

But It Was Hard to Find Friends in the Newest Floating City of the Atlantic.

The new Hamburg-American liner Imperator sailed yesterday morning from her pier in Hoboken at 11:20 o'clock for Hamburg on her first eastern trip, carrying 3,685 persons, including her crew. It semeed as if all New York had gone to Hoboken to see the big ship depart. The Hamburg-American piers were thronged with friends of the passengers, who waved flags and parasols, while the ship's band played patriotic airs on the upper deck. Some 5,000 visitors went on board the ship between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock, when the order was issued not to allow any more persons to pass the lines on the pier, because of the congestion in the companion ways.

The heat was intense on the ship, as she had been closed for coaling, and there had not been time to ventilate the alleyways and saloons. George Ade, who was a passenger, said that every morning he should be able to go out on deck or to the smoking room and meet fresh faces and old friends. According to the agents of the Hamburg-American Line, the ship carried 700 first cabin passengers, many of whom had made the trip to this country on her maiden voyage from Hamburg. Many officials of the Hamburg-American Company returned to Germany in her. This is close to the record of 734 first cabin passengers carried by the White Star liner Olympic to Southampton on June 28, 1911.

Col. George Harvey, the editor, before sailing on the Imperator for his annual trip ti Europe, said that if three tickets were put in the field in the city campaign, as he expected, Tammany could not do better than nominate Gaynor for Mayor, as he would be sure of election.

"There have been few Mayors," said Col. Harvey, "who have made good in so many ways as Mayor Gaynor. Strangely enough, he has made many friends by attacking the newspapers. We are an odd people and prefer the picturesque. Mayor Gaynor is a picturesque character. He is a Mayor whom New York will always go to hear, because people know that he will always say something new and interesting."

The Imperator moved away as easily from her pier as she moved into it on her arrival on Thursday morning. Her stern went upstream at an angle of 45 degrees toward the Manhattan shore, and then her bow came slowly around as she straightened out. The crowd on the pier was so great that more than 100 persons stood on a little raised wooden platform, far too weak to hold them safely, in spite of the efforts of attendants to keep them off. Owing to the great height of the upper promenade decks of the liner, the persons on the pier had to crane their necks to see them. After her head and stern were in line in the centre of the river the Imperator stopped for some ten minutes and then proceeded on her way. While she was in port the ballast tanks were readjusted and the 10 per cent. list to starboard which she had on her voyage to this country was eliminated. The turbine that gave some trouble to the engineers on the day before she arrived in New York was also overhauled, it was said. The streets from the Manhattan and Jersey subway station and the ferry house at Hoboken yesterday morning to the Hamburg-American Line piers were lined with peddlers selling flags and post cards of the Imperator.

Except in the companionways the crowd on the ship while she lay at her pier was not uncomfortable, owing to the space on the decks, but it was very difficult to find any one, and several persons who brought flowers for departing friends had to hand them to the steward in charge of the parcels office on "C" deck. Twelve tugs stood ready to assist in swinging the Imperator into the river if necessary, but she got out with her own four propellers and the help of the new 1,100 horse power tug of the Hamburg-American Line.

A young woman, whose name could not be ascertained, fell from a hand truck on which she was standing on the pier to see the ship sail and broke her left arm. She was sent to St. Mary's Hospital in Hoboken by an official of the line.

EIGHT DEAD IN WRECK.

Spreading Rails Sends Two Immigrant Cars Into Ottawa River.

OTTAWA, June 25. — Eight persons were killed and more than twenty injured this afternoon in a wreck of the westbound Winnipeg Express on the Canadian Pacific Railway. Two colonist cars, crowded with Scotch immigrants newly arrived from Glasgow and en route for the West, skidded down the embankment and plunged into the Ottawa River. In these the eight known victims—four men, three women, and a child—met death. Their bodies were recovered, and search was continued for others. Of the injured, the condition of several is critical.

The accident, due to spreading rails, occurred only three miles east of this city, and physicians, nurses, ambulances and police patrol wagons were at once rushed to the scene. Four cars and the locomotive remained on the track, but in addition to the cars which fell into the river, two cars were thrown on the land side of the embankment, and another, first class, was whipped across the track at right angles.

Jardin de Danse Opening.

Restaurant and café features have been provided, and, in addition, there will be a vaudeville and cabaret entertainment, interspersed with general dancing. Joan Sawyer and Wallace McCutcheon have been engaged to give exhibition dances. There will be a large orchestra.

Kills Direct Nominations Bill.

The Senate soon after it went into session this afternoon, took up the Governor's Direct Nominations bill. Its defeat in the upper house was even more decisive than in the Assembly. The vote in the Senate to-day stood 38 to 10, as against a vote of 34 to 8 when it was up before the Senate at the regular session.

While the Senate was digging the grave for the Sulzer bill the Assembly acted upon the Blauvelt bill. This is the organization primary measure. In the closing moments of the regular session the Governor vetoed it with a stinging message which made the ears of its supporters tingle. The Assembly passed the Blauvelt measure again today, and afterward sent it to the Senate, where the action of the lower house was concurred in without debate by a party vote.

The bill, which at this extraordinary session was introduced by Assemblyman James B. Van Woert of Lewis, has been slightly changed since its former passage. In its original form the Blauvelt bill contained provisions looking to a twofold purpose—economy and simplification of the primary machinery, with a view especially of making the sledding a little less hard for candidates for independent nominations. What it did in the latter respect was merely a sop to public sentiment, which was arrayed against the existing law pretty nearly everywhere. What it did to effect economy was in response to complaints from county authorities and constituencies in the rural districts where primaries under the direct plan have been found a rather expensive experiment.

Blauvelt Bills Passed.

Before the Blauvelt measure was put in at the extraordinary session it was divided into two bills, one embodying the proposed changes in the organism of the primary law and the other the provisions rendering its administration cheaper. The first of these measures, from which the Governor's ban has never been lifted, squeezed through with just one vote to spare. The second measure, to which there was little objection, was passed by a vote of 98 to 30, as against 77 to 59 for the first.

In the Senate the action of the lower house on both bills was concurred in by a vote of 32 to 16, the Republican minority in each instance being recorded solidly against it.

The vote in the Senate to-day on the Sulzer bill represents a gain of two votes for the Governor and four votes for the opposition. The two members who voted against the bill at the regular session and switched to the Governor's side to-day were Senator William D. Peckham of Oneida, a Democrat, and Senator Ralph W. Thomas of Chenango, a Republican. Both said that they changed their vote in deference to a most pronounced sentiment in their districts. The gain of the opposition was apparent rather than real. The vote against the Governor's bill was swelled by the attendance to-day of Senators who were absent when the bill was up for final vote at the regular session.

Senator James A. Emerson of the Warren-Essex District, for whom the Governor signed a highway appropriation bill providing for the expenditure of $750,000 for road purposes in his district, and who consequently had been expected to change his vote on the bill in the Governor's favor, went down to the Executive Chamber before the Senate began work. He had a talk with Gov. Sulzer and then returned to his seat. When his name was called on the final roll call he voted against the bill, as he had done at the regular session.

Senate Vote on the Sulzer Bill.

The Governor's bill came before the Senate for concurrence at the beginning of the session this afternoon. It was put on final passage without any preliminary debate.

Here is the vote in detail:

Ayes—McKnight, O'Keefe, Peckham, Seeley, Wende, Wheeler, Democrats; Duhamel, Democrat and Independence League; Thomas, Whitney, Republicans; Palmer, Republican-Progressive.

Noes—Blauvelt, Boylan, Carroll, Carswell, Cullen, Fitzgerald, Foley, Frawley, Griffin, Healy, Heffernan, Herrick, McClelland, Malone, Murtaugh, Patten, Pollock, Ramsperger, Sanner, Simpson, Sullivan, Torborg, Velte, Wagner, White, Democrats; Argetsinger, Brown, Bussey, Coats, Emerson, Godfrey, Hencock, Hewitt, Sage, Stivers, Thompson, Walters, Wilson, Republicans.

The first Senator to explain his vote was Elon R. Brown, the minority leader. He said that the only feature in the Governor's bill to which he objected was the abolition of the State convention, but that to his mind was a vital mistake.

Senator James D. McClelland, who represents the lower west side of Manhattan, made a vitriolic attack upon the Governor's course in setting up his claim for State leadership of the party.

Compares Sulzer to Charles I.

"I can ascribe it to nothing except malignant political magnetism," he said, amid roars of laughter from his colleagues. "The Governor reminds me of King Charles I. of England, who in his madness took it upon himself to dissolve the British Parliament."

"Will the Senator yield to a question?" broke in Senator Wagner. "What happened to Charles I.?"

"When I visited London," said Senator McClelland with much gusto, "I also had the pleasure of visiting the spot where the head of Charles I. fell. He lost his head while he was alive, and he lost it again when he died."

Senator John W. Murtagh of Chemung made a vigorous attack on the main features of the Sulzer bill. He said that it would strike a blow at the efficiency and the integrity of the Court of Appeals by placing nominations for the highest court within the reach of any disreputable lawyer who could get 6,000 signatures to his petition.

Senator Wagner, in closing the discussion on the Governor's bill, said that it would increase the cost of primary elections by at least $850,000 a year, that it would be a boon to the boss, and would mean destruction of good government.

Elsner Compromise Bills In.

In the Assembly the introduction of the new Elsner bills gave rise to much discussion. One of the bills introduced by Mr. Elsner was identical with that introduced at the regular session by Harold J. Hinman, leader of the Republican minority. It contains most of the features of the Governor's bill, including the elimination of the party designating committees, but retains the State convention. It is on this particular issue that the Governor has made his fight against the organization.

The other Elsner bill provides for a sort of preferential vote on candidates for State offices at the primaries when delegates to the State convention are elected. Like the other Elsner bill, it retains the convention as the means of nominating candidates for State offices.

The bills were introduced after Elsner, Hinman, and some other Assemblymen friendly to the Sulzer bill had conferred with the Governor. It is understood that the Governor told them that while he was not prepared to take the initiative in any negotiations looking to a compromise, he would not frown upon any attempt to meet the organization half way, so long as he did not figure as a party to the transaction.

HIGHWAY BILL IS KILLED.

Senate Recommits Governor's Measure by Unanimous Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 25.—Gov. Sulzer's bill permitting the award of highway repair contracts without competitive bidding was denounced in the Senate to-day as an attempt to loot the State Treasury. Backed by a special message and an emergency message to facilitate its passage, the bill was introduced on Monday night and referred to the Committee on Internal Affairs. Senator White, Chairman of the committee, to-day reported the measure for the consideration of the Senate without recommendation. Three minutes later it was killed, having been recommitted by a unanimous vote.

The incident was another chapter in the fight between the Governor and Tammany over highway patronage. Under the Dix Highway law Tammany contractors were well cared for, according to the Governor's Commission of Inquiry, which spent most of its time examining the contracts which had been given under Superintendent Reel, State Engineer Bensel, and Superintendent Peck of the Department of Public Works, who composed the Dix commission. The Sulzer investigators spared neither official nor contractor in its condemnation of the conduct of the Highway Department. They charged that thousands of dollars of State funds had been either wasted or diverted by practices which could not be countenanced. The investigators were especially severe upon the practice of awarding contracts for repairs without competition and of permitting the use of patented articles in road construction.

Gov. Sulzer's message to the Legislature, received on Monday night, urged the Legislature to repeal the act of the regular session which required competition on highway repair work. The Governor submitted a letter from John N. Carlisle, Commissioner of Highways, who said that competition would delay much needed repairs on certain roads.

When Senator White moved the passage of the Governor's bill to-day Senator Wagner objected.

"I know the Senate will never pass such a bill as that," Senator Wagner said. "It nullifies the act we passed in the regular session at the Governor's request, after it was said that the practice led to extravagance or worse. We have heard from the Executive chamber a great deal about the looting of the Treasury. I think this bill should be entitled 'An act to loot the Treasury of the State of New York.' I move that the bill be recommitted. Perhaps the sponsor of the bill can tell us who are to be the beneficiaries."

"I merely introduced the bill by request," Senator Murtaugh said. "I know nothing about it, and am not responsible. I am not opposed to Senator Wagner's motion."

SAYS RUSSIA WON'T YIELD ON PASSPORTS

Indifferent to Our Demands, American Wife of Imperial Councilor Thinks.

DEFENDS THE LAWS THERE

At any Rate, They Will Not Be Altered at Our Request, She Adds—Stories of Wrong Exaggerated.

Mme. de Carrière, who is paying a visit to this country, where she was born, said yesterday at the Hotel Imperial that the treaty with Russia would never be renewed if the United States insisted on the condition that Jewish citizens of this country be received in Russia on equal terms with other Americans. Mme. de Carrière is the daughter of the late Col. Richard Henry Savage and the wife of Anatol de Carrière, Russian Imperial Councilor of State.

"Americans are in absolute ignorance of the feelings of Russians on this question," said Mme. de Carrière. "One side of the question has been repeatedly set before them, and no one has spoken for Russia. The fact is that Russia has no great need of America commercially or in any other way, and Russians as a rule are not greatly concerned over it if they are misrepresented here. In consequence the stir caused in this country by the passport question and by the abrogation of the treaty with Russia has been regarded by Russians generally with a good deal of indifference. Russians do not have to pay attention to the American attitude toward them, especially when it is known that the cry against Russia is due largely to politics.

"I have lived in the United States and I have lived in Russia. While I lived in Russia, I have made frequent visits over here and I understand the feeling in both countries. I know with absolute certainty that Russia will never increase the rights it accords to Jews because they become American citizens. That hope might as well be put aside absolutely by Americans who wish for a renewal of the treaty with Russia. If the United States insists on that condition and if negotiations for a new treaty are broken off by reason of the Jewish question, it is practically certain that Russia will boycott America. This will mean a loss to cotton-growers and manufacturers of farm implements in this country. Because of this danger, American manufacturers are now building factories in Europe, in order that they may keep their Russian market, in case of a permanent break between the two nations.

Fear Evasion of Law.

"The Jews in Russia are not at present permitted to own property. They may not live in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Kief, or other northern capitals unless they pay a tax of 1,000 rubles ($510) a year. In order to remain in these cities at all they are obliged to show that they have a fortune large enough to enable them to pay this tax. That is the Russian law. It may be difficult for Americans to understand why Russia has such laws, but it is not difficult to see why Russia should object when Americans seek to nullify them. And this is what a treaty on American terms would amount to. Russian Jews who are not excluded from the northern capitals and who may not now own land could come over to this country by tens of thousands, live here long enough to be naturalized, and then return to Russia and claim the rights of Americans to own property and to live wherever they saw fit. Russia will not permit that, and if Russians ever do change in their attitude toward the Jews their change of attitude will not be hastened by the interference of Americans.

"The Russian law is not meant to persecute Jews, but to protect Russians. The Russians are not a commercial people. After the serfs were freed half a century ago the superior business ability of the Jews first began to be felt. They were shrewd bargainers and could easily take advantage of the easy-going Russian noblemen and landholders. The result was that the Jews began to exploit the Russian mines and forests. The Russians, who as a rule were without business training, began to give way to the Jews, who grew rich while the Russian nobility grew poor.

"It was when the Russian nobility began to see their estates slipping away from them and all branches of business controlled by the Jews that measures were taken to prevent the old Russian families from being wiped out by a competition they were not used to.

"The Jews succeed in evading the law very often by the use of dummies. They cannot legally own land, but they have actual possession of many estates through the use of nominal landholders of Russian name and descent.

Reason for the Law.

"These laws are, of course, a confession of weakness. The Jews are better business men than Russians. The Russians know it and make laws to prevent the Jews from getting the upper hand. The wishes of the American people or the stir made by American politicians cannot induce Russians to give up these measures of self-preservation.

"Any Jew with an American passport will be admitted to Russia, provided his name is not on the blacklist kept by the police. American Jews and Jews of other nations who are permitted to enter Russia, however, may stay only a limited time in St. Petersburg and other northern capitals, and they gain no privileges not held by Russian Jews.

ATWELL ASKED TO QUIT?

No Explanation of Reports Affecting Texas District Attorney.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Reports from Dallas that William H. Atwell, United States Attorney for the Northern District of Texas, had been asked to resign by Attorney General McReynolds brought neither confirmation nor denial to-day from the Department of Justice. The Attorney General said any announcement of resignation should be made by Mr. Atwell. The latter quarrelled with the then Attorney General Wickersham over indictments returned at Dallas against John D. Archbold, H. C. Folger, Jr., and other Standard Oil officials, for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The indictments finally were dismissed upon orders from Washington.

DALLAS, June 25.—United States District Attorney W. H. Atwell said to-day that some time ago he publicly announced that he intended to resign on Sept. 1.

TRANSATLANTIC CABLE DISPATCHES TO THE TIMES

MANCHESTER HOUSE FOR OUR EMBASSY

Belief That Ambassador Page Will Decide to Rent Grosvenor Square Residence.

DUKE WILLING TO SELL IT

And It Is Believed That It Would Make a Good Permanent Home for Our Ambassadors in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—Ambassador Page, after a difficult house hunt, is likely to close negotiations in the next few days for the town residence of the Duke of Manchester, 5 Grosvenor Square.

The Duchess of Manchester cares little for London society, and the house has been in the market for two years. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns that it has now been offered for a period of eleven and one-half months at a rental of $17,000 to $20,000, with the option of purchase.

While the house is comparatively small—it could probably be put in the reception rooms of Dorchester House, the late Ambassador Reid's residence—it is situated in a most exclusive locality and in what is known as the "Embassy Section."

The decision to try to obtain the property is believed to have been influenced by Col. E. M. House, who has been on the Continent studying embassy conditions, and who thinks that if the Embassy bill passes Congress the Government could not make a wiser choice than Manchester House as the permanent American ambassadorial quarters here.

Ambassador Page is greatly pleased with the place, especially as it is only a stone's throw from the Coburg Hotel, where he is living, and he is acquainted with the neighborhood. The house is of four stories, with a street vestibule adorned with imposing Ionic columns. There is a small garden at the rear.

Next door is the fine residence of Earl Fitzwilliam. Other near neighbors are the Duke of Portland, Lord Farquhar, Lady Vincent, Col. Granville, and Mrs. James Henry Smith. The Japanese and Italian Embassies are also in Grosvenor Square.

LUNCHEON TO MR. PAGE.

American Business Men's Club in London Entertains Ambassador.

LONDON, June 25.—Walter Hines Page, American Ambassador in London, was the guest to-day at luncheon of the American Business Men's Club. There was a larger attendance than ever before at a luncheon in the history of the club.

Consul General John L. Griffiths presided and welcomed the new Ambassador on behalf of the gathering. He payed a glowing tribute to Mr. Page, who, he said, had already won the hearts of Americans in London.

The Ambassador replied briefly, asking for the co-operation of the American colony in his work of bringing about closer acquaintanceship between the two peoples.

A number of well-known English business men were among the guests.

WOULD PUT WOMEN IN ARMY

Mme. Dieulafoy's Plan Being Examined by the French Government.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—In the course of an address on the subject of the employment of women in the army today Mme. Jane Dieulafoy, the well-known woman explorer and feminist, announced that the Government had begun an inquiry into her project. She said she did not consider women's place to be on the firing line, but she added:

"Our part is an even finer one. Quite apart from sanitary services, cannot we render great service to our threatened country? The French Ministries, among them those of War and Marine, employ 155,880 women. That is striking proof that we are fitted for administrative work."

$4,095 FOR CANDELABRA.

Other High Prices on the Second Day of the Scott Sale.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—At Christie's to-day, the second day of the sale of the collection of the late Sir Jonn Murray Scott, a pair of Louis XVI. bronze candelabra, with a design of Cupids, brought $4,095, Wertheimer being the purchaser.

A Directoire oval table was sold for $3,045 to A. Seligmann.

A writing table of French early nineteenth century workmanship was sold for $3,935 to Wertheimer.

The day's total was $66,100.

MOORE WINS THREE FIRSTS

With Four-in-Hands and Double and Single Harness Horses.

LONDON, June 25. — Judge W. H. Moore of New York won another first prise to-day at the International Horse Show at Olympia when his Lord and Lady Seaton led Class 46 for pairs of harness horses shown to a victoria, sociable, or barouche.

The Berkeley Challenge Cup, for four-in-hands exceeding 15.2 hands, was won this evening by Judge Moore's team of bays. His Lady Seaton also took first in Class 44, single harness horses, driven by ladies and shown to phaeton. In this class Rillington Nimble, owned by J. Sumner Draper of Boston, was placed second.

DRAWS PISTOL IN DEBATE.

Portuguese Deputy Is Disarmed Before Doing Any Injury.

LISBON, June 25.—A violent scene occurred to-day in the Senate. Senator Arthur Costa, brother of the Premier, Dr. Alfonso Costa, strenuously objected to the remarks of Joao José de Freitas, and advanced upon him. Senator de Freitas drew a revolver and leveled it at the other's breast.

For a dramatic moment the men stood facing each other. Then several of the Senators sprang upon de Freitas and disarmed him.

CALLED CARNEGIE INSANE.

Count Gleichen in Hot Water for a Jingo Speech at Belfast.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—An indiscreet "jingo" speech made by Gen. Count Gleichen, a distant relative of King George, and commander of the Sixteenth Infantry Brigade, Extra Equerry to the King, and formerly Military Attaché at Washington, at the Lord Mayor's banquet at Belfast on June 7 was referred to in the House of Commons to-day.

J. G. Swift MacNeill (Irish Nationalist) asked the Secretary of War if his attention had been called to the matter. Count Gleichen, it is alleged, said among other things that there were gentlemen, who, like James Keir Hardie, Andrew Carnegie, and various "peace Presidents," declared that a big army led to militarism, and he concluded that persons of that sort, however well-meaning they might be, could "only be suffering from softening of the brain."

In another version of the speech Count Gleichen is represented as saying that he was delighted to see that the Government proposed to bring forward a bill for the care of the feeble-minded, and he would commend to their first charge Messrs. Keir Hardie and Carnegie.

Mr. MacNeill wanted to know if such language contravened the King's regulations, and what action was contemplated in the matter.

The Financial Secretary to the War Office in reply said that Count Gleichen had submitted a statement in which he declared that the published accounts of his remarks conveyed an erroneous impression of what he had said. He had expressed regret at certain injudicious references, and appropriate action would be taken.

Mr. MacNeill then asked if Count Gleichen would have been an English General if he had not been a German Count, but he received no reply.

CURTIS GUILD LOSES $1,000.

Notes and $50,000 Letter of Credit Vanish from Paris Hotel.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—Curtis Guild, the retiring American Ambassador at St. Petersburg, who arrived at the Hôtel Edouard ten days ago, discovered this morning the loss of bank notes to the value of $1,000, and of a letter of credit for $50,000, of which $44,000 had already been drawn.

The hotel, which was recently opened, is still full of workmen. On the theory that the money might have been snatched by one of them, the manager, M. Schwarze, immediately communicated with the Prefecture of Police. The matter was taken up personally by M. Guichard, the head of the Criminal Investigation Department, but at midnight THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was informed that the money had not been traced.

The notes and letter of credit were placed in a drawer of a table beside Mr. Guild's bed. In the same drawer also were several portfolios containing valuable papers. In a drawer of another table in the bedroom was a quantity of valuable jewelry which any intruder might easily have seized.

Mr. Guild is not certain that he saw the money and letter of credit yesterday, but he says they were in the drawer on Monday. He is unable to account for the fact that the other valuables were left untouched, and concludes that the thief dashed into the room when it was empty, having seized what seemed a handsome haul, and hurried out without troubling to look further. THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent understands, however, that the police are not ready to adopt this theory, and think it is just possible that Mr. Guild left the money in a cab.

Mr. Guild, who is taking his loss philosophically, will sail for Boston to-morrow on the Hamburg-American liner Cincinnati. Payment of the balance due on the letter of credit has been stopped at the bankers'.

SERVIANS DEFEAT, BULGARS IN BATTLE

King Ferdinand's Troops Flee, Leaving Many Dead—Serbs Also Lose Heavily.

DECLARE WAR HAS BEGUN

Belgrade Papers' View of the Fight—A Report That Rumania Will Aid in Fighting Servia.

BELGRADE, June 25. — Bulgarians have been defeated in a battle with Servians at Zletovo, Macedonia.

An official report says that the Servians went into action only when heavy forces of Bulgarians began to cross the river at 1 o'clock this morning and commenced an unprovoked attack.

After desperate fighting the Bulgarians broke and fled, leaving behind many dead and wounded and abandoning all the positions they had seized in Servian territory.

The Servians also suffered considerable losses. The Servian artillery was employed in the battle.

The Bulgarian attack on the Servians has created a dangerous state of excitement here. The newspapers publish special editions declaring in large type, "War has begun."

The streets and cafés are filled with excited crowds.

According to advices received here, 12,000 Bulgarian troops with 500 bomb-throwers attacked the Servian positions at Zletovo. Eventually the Servians charged with fixed bayonets all along the line and the Bulgarians hurriedly retreated.

The combined losses exceed 500 men.

LONDON, Thursday, June 26.—What, according to Servian reports, was a serious battle was fought yesterday at Zletovo, near Istib, between the Servians and Bulgarians.

Whether this outbreak will obstruct the projected Russian arbitration by strengthening the war party in Servia will be seen when Premier Pasitch with his reconstructed Ministry meets the Skupshtina in extraordinary session to-day.

A rumor gained currency in Belgrade yesterday that the Pasitch Cabinet had again resigned, but this is not confirmed.

It is quite possible that the reports of the Zletovo battle, of which no news has been received from the Bulgarian side, are greatly exaggerated.

The Montenegrin Premier has arrived at Belgrade, ready to accompany Premier Pasitch to St. Petersburg, where the proposed meeting of the Balkan Premiers would be held, but, in view of recent developments, the result of the meeting of the Skupshtina is awaited.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times learns that in the event of war Rumania will take the field in support of Bulgaria.

DEPUTY DIES IN CHAMBER.

M. Aynard Was Stricken After a Night's Work on a Speech.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 25.—The veteran Deputy Edouard Aynard, one of the leaders of the Moderate Republican Party, died in the Chamber of Deputies this morning.

M. Aynard, who was 76 years old, went to the Chamber at 9 o'clock this morning to take part in the debate on the new Education bill. He had worked nearly all night in preparing his speech, and was looking tired. As he was passing through one of the corridors he collapsed and was carried to an ante-room.

To Premier Barthou, who came to see him, M. Aynard smilingly said: "If the great ones of this world come to visit me, that means I am near my end."

An hour later the patient lost consciousness and died soon afterward.

M. Aynard was a well-known financier, the father-in-law of Charles Jonart, former Governor General of Algeria.

$20 LOAN BRINGS $8,000.

Englishman Who Aided Immigrant Here 18 Years Ago Gets Legacy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—An Englishman, J. B. Pringle, will shortly go to the United States to prove his title to a small fortune left to him by a wealthy real estate merchant of San Francisco. Mr. Pringle has just heard from a firm of lawyers in San Francisco that he is entitled to $8,000.

After landing from the White Star liner Majestic at Ellis Island in 1895 Pringle assisted his benefactor to pass the authorities by a loan of $20. The man thus aided went to the Klondike and amassed a large fortune.

Twelve months ago he died, leaving most of his wealth in real estate in Indianapolis. In his will Pringle gets a legacy of $8,000 as a return for the $20 loan of eighteen years ago.

RUSSIA AS AN AIR POWER.

Chief of Army Staff Tells Duma of Great Progress Made.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 25.—The development of the aerial armament of Russia is making immense progress, according to the Chief of the Army Staff, who to-day, in debate in the Duma, related some interesting details of what had been done in this direction.

He said the Ministry of War would not rest until a flying squad had been established in every army corps. The Government, he continued, had doubled the number of dirigibles recently. It had acquired airships known as "aerial dreadnoughts," which were provided with machine guns, bomb-throwers, and wireless telegraphy. It was true, he concluded, that the German army possessed eleven dirigibles but only eight of them came up to the standard of the six Russian army dirigibles.

To Destroy 100,000 Pounds of Tea.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo instructed Collector Mitchel yesterday to destroy 100,000 pounds of Formosa tea, worth about $20,000, if it had not been shipped out of the country by Saturday noon. The tea was declared below the Government standard when it was imported by Carter, Macy & Co. nearly a year ago, and litigation has been going on ever since. Special Deputy Collector H. C. Stuart will see the tea consumed in the furnaces at the Appraiser's stores.

A TRIUMPH FOR POINCARE.

Ovation in London—He Speaks of Anglo-French Friendship.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—"To-day the friendship between the two nations becomes, if possible, strengthened and reaffirmed. Co-operation continues between them which does not exclude the co-operation of any other power, but which tends, on the contrary, to the maintenance of European peace and establishes between Great Britain and France fraternal confidence and common good-will."

This was the keynote of an eloquent speech which President Poincaré delivered at a luncheon in his honor in the Guild Hall to-day. It is further emphasized in a stirring message which M. Poincaré has given to the British nation.

The President's visit to the city was a personal triumph. He received a great ovation as he drove through densely crowded streets.

To-night M. Poincaré entertained King George at the French Embassy. The banquet was in every respect French, the viands, the valuable plate, the decorations, and even the chefs coming from across the Channel.

United States Ambassador Page was among the Ambassadors at the table at which the King and the President were seated.

LONDON, June 25.—The city was in gala array to-day, when President Poincaré was the guest at luncheon of the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the City of London, while the ancient Guild Hall was a blaze of color.

The scene during the luncheon was brilliant. The hall was crowded with members of the royal family, Cabinet Ministers, naval and military officers, and high State and civic dignitaries, their uniforms glittering with decorations.

NEGLIGENCE ON TITANIC.

Jury's Finding in English Test Case—Judgment Not Yet Entered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—A verdict was reached this evening in the first of the cases against the owners of the Titanic, a test case brought in the King's Bench Division by Thomas Ryan, a farmer of Cork, against the White Star Company to recover damages for the loss of his son in the Titanic disaster.

The plaintiff's counsel, replying to Mr. Justice Bailhache, said that if the jury were against him on the main point of negligence he would not proceed with the other cases or raise the question of the conditions under which the tickets were issued.

The jury found that there was no negligence on the part of the defendant's servants with respect to the lookout, but there was negligence with regard to speed. They also found that there was not sufficient evidence for them to say whether the steamship Messaba's message about the presence of ice was or was not delivered to the Titanic's responsible officers.

No judgment was entered to-day, as the Judge had left the court.

BUY BACK THE TERRA NOVA.

Original Owners of Scott's Vessel Will Use Her for Sealing.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 25.—The Scott antarctic expedition's vessel, the Terra Nova, will not, contrary to expectations, be brought to London for exhibition purposes. She has been repurchased by Messrs. Bowring, the original owners, and will proceed shortly to Newfoundland, where she will again be employed in sealing.

There is much disappointment at Cardiff because the vessel has not been thrown open to the public.

GERMAN STEEL CHEAPER.

Syndicate Lowers Prices—Reduced Hours in Various Mills.

DUESSELDORF, June 25.—The German steel syndicate to-day reduced the prices of steel materials by $1.25 a ton. This is the first reduction by the syndicate from the recent high prices.

Showing the existence of the prevailing business reaction, a number of rolling mills have begun operating on reduced working hours.

GERMAN DENTIST A SPY.

Resident of Portsmouth Is Sent to Prison for Five Years.

WINCHESTER, June 25. — William Klare, a German dentist, residing at Portsmouth, was found guilty at the Assizes here to-day of espionage at Portsmouth, England's chief naval station. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Torpedoes and submarines, it was shown at the trial, were the special subjects of Klare's observations.

FRIEDMANN HOME; PRAISES AMERICA

Filled with Gratitude for "Evidences of Loyalty and Confidence."

HE PROMISES TO RETURN

"Irrevocably Resolved" to Carry the Fight Against Tuberculosis to a Victorious End.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 25.—Dr. Friedrich Friedmann has returned to Germany with no malice toward America. On his arrival at Bremen aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, where he met his Berlin partner, Prof. Schleich, he telegraphed this response to the inquiry of THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"My impression of America consists primarily of a belief in the solid, healthy irrestibility and progressive greatness of a giant nation. The American public has a frank sense of and an infallibly certain instinct for the greatest truth and cannot be influenced by cross-currents. Notwithstanding all the difficulties which I have experienced, I am filled with a feeling of gratitude to the country whose inhabitants have given me so many evidences of loyalty and confidence. The gratitude of my many American patients helped me over many serious hours. I do not, therefore, for a solitary second regret having accepted the invitation of many American physicians to visit American soil.

"Dr. Schleich assures me that he has handled hundreds of patients in my absence at our Berlin institute with brilliant success. This institute, like the American institutes, has as its leading principle free treatment for all poor patients. In view of the terrible misery caused by tuberculosis among all races and all classes of society, even in a country where such excellent hygienic regulations exist as in the United States, I am irrevocably resolved not to rest a single minute until I have carried the fight I have begun against tuberculosis to a victorious end.

"Victory is certain. I have only one ally, but it is the mightiest of all—truth. To America I say 'Farewell' and 'Auf Wiedersehen.'"

Friedmann will return to Berlin to-morrow.

The German challengers for the Sonderklasse Cup, to be raced for at Marblehead, Mass., next September, are to be selected during the series of races beginning to-morrow and continuing on alternate days.

MELLEN'S EXPERTS PRAISE HIS BRAKES

Men Who as Witnesses Condemned New Haven Equipment Now Say Doherty Was Wrong.

CORONER TO SIFT CONTRACT

Stamford Wreck Inquest Turns to Substitution of Hard for Soft Brake Shoes.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, June 25.—The committee of experts called in by President Mellen of the New Haven Road to look over the cars and engine figuring in the west-bound Boston express wreck at Stamford on June 12 last, made a report to-day in which the brakes on the locomotive driven by Charles J. Dougherty when it bored through the Pullman wooden chair car Skylark, causing the deaths of six persons and injuring a score, were asserted to be in no way responsible for the wreck. The report not only exonerated the brakes of Engine 1,338, known since the wreck as the "death engine," but it stated that the brakes on the cars attached to Doherty's train were in better condition than the average attained in road service, and in no way were responsible for the wreck.

The report threw the responsibility for the wreck directly on Doherty, and found in effect that his complaint made two days before the wreck, "Brakes no good," had no basis in fact.

Two of President Mellen's experts represented the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, which supplied the brakes with which Engine 1,338 was equipped.

The members of the committee were P. J. Langan, General Air Brake Inspector of the Lackawanna Road; C. W. Martin, General Air Brake Inspector of the Pennsylvania, and T. L. Burton and C. H. Lorimer of the Westinghouse Company.

Differs From Testimony.

Mr. Langan and Mr. Martin gave testimony before the Board of Inquiry of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Bridgeport which seemingly was opposed to the Mellen committee's formal report. The Lackawanna expert testified that the train which Doherty drove never could have left a Lackawanna terminal on account of the brakes. Mr. Martin said no Pennsylvania express train would have been sent out with such cars in it as Doherty had behind his engine.

In the testimony before the Commerce Commission, the Pullman chair car Centerdale figured conspicuously, Mr. Langan and Mr. Martin testifying that the air would not operate the brakes in that car at the pressure applied in road service. They testified that the brakes did not work when they applied the air in the New Haven yards as a test and that on the road in braking tests the car's brakes once refused to work until an air pressure of forty pounds had been applied—more than twice the usual service application.

In to-day's report the Centerdale was not mentioned nor was reference made to the fact that Mr. Langan found the air pump on Engine 1,338 out of order and had to remove dirt from the pump's diaphragm before taking the locomotive out for road tests.

Mr. Langan's testimony before the Commerce Commission mentioned the dirt in the air pump of Engine 1,338 conspicuously.

The report of the air-brake experts was addressed to Clinton L. Bardo, general manager of the New Haven. It was made public in part by the railroad. The part given out follows:

On Monday morning, June 16, we inspected locomotive and tender No. 1,338 and found them equipped with Westinghouse air brakes of the latest and most modern design.

Found Everything Right.

The air-brake piping was arranged in accordance with modern practice. We measured the brake cylinders, brake levers, hanger levers, and brake shoes—in fact, all parts of the air-brake and foundation brake gear affecting the braking power of the locomotive and tender—and found them in good condition, and of such dimensions and proportions as would be required for developing, in both service and emergency braking, the percentage of braking power employed on high-speed passenger locomotives. In fact, the calculated braking power of the tender and locomotive driving wheels we found to be slightly higher than is recommended by the Westinghouse Airbrake Company.

On Tuesday morning, June 17, the locomotive being under steam, we made a thorough test of the air-brake equipment on the locomotive and tender before taking the train out for road test. We found that the pump and pump governor operated properly. We tested the air gauges and found them to be correct. We also tested the pressure-regulating devices, and they were found to be adjusted for and maintaining the desired air pressure in the brake pipe and main reservoir, namely, 110 pounds and 130 pounds, respectively.

We measured all the brake levers, had each car weighed, and calculated the braking power on the cars, and found that the average percentage of braking power is slightly higher than is recommended by the Master Car Builders' Association for passenger-equipment cars.

The above-mentioned inspection and test demonstrated to our satisfaction that the brake equipment on this train was in good average condition, but for the purpose of determining more definitely the actual performance of the brakes as a whole in road service the train was taken out for road tests.

The result of the running tests made by the committee showed conclusively that the brake on the locomotive was in first-class condition.

Says Train Could Be Stopped.

Based upon our experience in train brake operation and brake tests and the inspection and tests of the brake equipment on the locomotive and cars which made up the second section of train 53 on June 12, 1913, we are unanimous in the conclusion that the brakes on the locomotive and cars in question were in good, serviceable condition at the time of the accident, and in every way capable of stopping the train short of the home signal at Stamford from a speed approximating those from which the stops were made with the train in the road tests on June 17, 1913.

The report occasioned surprise among railroad men here, as the road tests performed by the experts under the direction of Coroner Phelan indicated, according to the Coroner, that the train could not be stopped in the distance between the warning signal east of Stamford and the home signal beyond which the Skylark stood when engine 1,338 drilled through it. In a test arranged under Coroner Phelan's orders to duplicate Doherty's run, the train went 375 feet beyond the home signal and four car lengths beyond the spot where the Skylark was rammed.

Among members of the Engineers' Union, the report caused much comment, as they were counting on the acquital of Doherty by the Coroner on the score of bad brakes.

Will Look Into Brake Shoes.

When Coroner Phelan resumes his inquest on Friday, the principal witness will be F. W. Sargeant, chief engineer of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, whose plant is in Mahwah, N. J. That concern has an exclusive contract with the New Haven road to supply brake shoes. Coroner Phelan has subpoenaed high officials of the New Haven company, and may call President Mellen himself to tell how the brake shoe contract came to be made. The contract was made only a short time ago. Under its terms, it is asserted, a brake shoe harder than the formerly in use is being supplied. When the contract was made other [illegible] shoe concerns had been supplying soft shoes.

Coroner Phelan has been informed by engineers of the New Haven Road that the hard brake shoe now in service, though it lasts much longer than the softer shoes, has less "clinging" power and is likely to let the wheels slip, whereas the greater friction caused by the softer shoes gave more reliable braking power.

The Coroner is determined to investigate the brake-shoe contract. Several of the New Haven Road's engineers are co-operating with him. The terms of the brake-shoe contract are said to be such that the company holding the contract would lose money if it supplies the soft type of shoe formerly in general use. In defense of the harder type General Manager Bardo insists that it works well if the brake levers are extended to apply pressure to it above that required to make the softer shoe effective.

MORE RUMORS ABOUT MELLEN

Reports of Impending Resignation of President Persist.

Rumors that President Mellen would resign his position in the near future were heard with renewed vigor in Wall Street yesterday. They apparently had their basis in a story published in a Boston paper that a protective committee of stockholders had gathered 300,000 proxies, including those of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Pennsylvania Railroad, to use against the Mellen régime.

A statement speedily was forthcoming from the New Haven offices in this city which did not bear especial reference to reports of Mr. Mellen's withdrawal from the road, but repudiated in part the article responsible for them. This was what it said:

> The Boston Post stated this morning that the Protective Stockholders' Committee of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company had secured 300,000 proxies, including those of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and that these proxies were to be used at the October meeting in opposition to the present management. George von L. Meyer, formerly Secretary of the Navy, and Chairman of the Protective Stockholders' Committee, issued the following statement in Boston to-day:
> "I stated that the committee had proxies for 250,000, not 300,000, shares, as was stated in this morning's paper. In answer to a quesion, I stated that the committee did not have the proxies of J. P. Morgan & Co. or the proxies of the Pennsylvania Railroad. I also stated that the committee was not for or against the Directors of the New Haven Railroad, as our opinions are unprejudiced and unbiased. The sub-committee which I appointed Monday will meet a sub-committee of New Haven Directors at New York at 3 P. M. on Friday, June 27.

The Street was not surprised to hear rumors of Mr. Mellen's resignation yesterday, for they went the rounds with persistence several weeks ago, when New Haven stock was falling in the market daily. A new angle was given to the reports, however, by gossip in railroad circles that Mr. Mellen handed his resignation to the Directors a day or two before the Stamford wreck, but asked them afterward not to act on it until the disaster could be investigated. No confirmation of that story could be obtained.

Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Mellen.

TO DISCUSS ROAD'S AFFAIRS.

New Haven Stockholders Will Confer with Management.

BOSTON, June 25.—An important conference on the affairs of the New Haven Road will be held in New York next Friday. It has been requested by the New Haven Stockholders' Committee, of which George von L. Meyer is Chairman, and will be between five members of the committee and a committee from the management. Chairman Meyer will head the Stockholders' Committee. Associated with him, will be Charles A. Stone, Eugene V. R. Thayer of Boston, Eli Whitney of New Haven, and a representative of Rhode Island interests.

Mr. Meyer said to-day that the Stockholders' Committee would go to New York to get facts from the road, without being for or against any one.

"Our committee," he added, "I believe to be unbiased and unprejudiced, and I want to say that the report that we have obtained the proxies of the Morgan interests and the Pennsylvania Railroad interests in the New Haven, and that we are going to depose President Mellen, is absolutely untrue. The Morgan and Pennsylvania interests are not unfriendly to our committee, but they have not given us their proxies, and I don't know that they will."

NEW HAVEN TRAIN DERAILED

Engineer's Quickness Just Saves It from Plunge Into Ravine.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., June 25.—Westbound passenger train No. 5 on the Central New England Railway, owned by the New Haven system, when on its way from Hartford to Maybrook, N. Y., had a close escape from destruction at Ore Hill at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon, when the baggage car and smoker were derailed by a broken plate on the first of those cars. The derailment occurred on a sharp bend in front of the Ore Hill Station, at which the train was not scheduled to stop. The train was traveling at least thirty miles an hour.

The engine driver felt a jar in the cab and stopped his locomotive 200 feet west of the station, within twenty feet of where the embankment on one side was seventy-five feet high and on the other forty. The train, which consisted of three cars, was in a zigzag position when it stopped, the wheels of the derailed trucks of the baggage car and smoker being from five to six feet outside the track and at the very edge of the ravine. The mines of the Richardson-Barnum Company, which mines ore used in the manufacture of car wheels, are beneath the Central New England at the point where the accident occurred.

Examination of the derailed baggage car showed, according to witnesses, that the plates fastened to the framework of the car and the rear trucks had been worn thin and had broken. The place of the accident is twelve miles west of Canaan, where, on Monday afternoon, two trains crashed on a crossover, injuring nine passengers, one fatally.

HOLDS JOCKEY CLUB HAS LEGAL CONTROL

Judge Ward Denies Maryland Application for an Injunction.

ITS PURPOSE NOT TO INJURE

Usefulness Would Be Diminished if Its Influence Were Suspended, Says the Court.

The Jockey Club was exonerated yesterday by Circuit Judge H. G. Ward, sitting in the United States District Court, on the charges brought against it by the Maryland State Fair Corporation, which alleged that it restrained trade and monopolized racing outside the State of New York in violation of the Federal law. The court held that nothing the club did was contrary to statute law and that a motion for an injunction against it could not lie at common law.

The Maryland State Fair Corporation had sought an injunction to prohibit the club from exercising contral over racing outside the State of New York, and this application was denied. In doing so Judge Ward filed an opinion in which he said:

> The Jockey Club was organized in 1894, and formed its rules upon the rules of the English Jockey Club. Its purpose was to regulate running races and steeplechases in the Eastern part of the United States, leaving such races to be regulated in the Western part by a similar organization. Its rules define what meetings will be recognized by it, and provide that no horse, trainer, or jockey, or any one who enters at a meeting not recognized shall be permitted to enter at recognized meetings.

The court admitted that it was an injury to the State Fair Association if the Jockey Club declined to recognize its meetings. Consequently this did give the Jockey Club a controlling influence over racing where its rules applied.

Turning, however, to the specific matter before the court, the refusal of the Jockey Club to recognize the races to be held at Laurel, Md., in October, by the State Fair Association, Judge Ward said:

> The only reason appearing on the face of the papers for the refusal is the fact that the complainant has not paid 1 per cent. of its receipts for the meeting of October, 1912, to the Jockey Club, as its rules require. This seems to me a perfectly good reason. The Jockey Club is not a corporation for profit, and applies all its receipts in maintaining fair racing and improving the breed of horses.

Even, continues Judge Ward, if there were a further reason for the existence of the Jockey Club, that is an increase in the gate receipts of associations which submitted to its rules, in which some of the Jockey Club members were pecuniarily interested, that purpose was not to injure the complainants, but to benefit those who composed the club. This the court held by the statute law of this State was perfectly legal.

Then considering whether the complainant had any remedy at common law, Judge Ward held that even if the common law made such an agreement as demanded by the Jockey Club unenforcible as against public policy the common law did not give damages or award an injunction to a third party.

Judge Ward concludes his opinion, which has been awaited with much interest by racing men, with a denial of the motion.

SUES KLAW & ERLANGER.

Manager Says Firm Failed to Keep Contract with CShing Ling Foo.

George Mooser, a San Francisco theatrical manager, has begun suit in the Federal District Court against Abraham L. Erlanger and Marc Klaw for $39,700 for alleged breach of contract. Mooser says in his complaint that, having the exclusive control of Ching Ling Foo and his Chinese troupe, he contracted with the defendants on Dec. 26, 1912, for the employment of Ching Ling Foo, his wife and daughter, Chee Toy, and four other Orientals for forty-seven weeks at $1,450 a week.

He also alleges that on May 31 Klaw & Erlanger refused to employ the Chinese performers or Leon Mooser of Shanghai, their manager, and that consequently, as they had no opportunity to make other contracts, George Mooser lost money.

SUES HAGGIN FOR PORTRAIT.

Mining Man Thinks Princess's Bill of $25,000 Is Too Large.

Arthur McCausland, representing ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, served a summons and complaint yesterday on James B. Haggin, the mining man and horse owner, at 1 East Sixty-fourth Street, in a $25,000 suit brought by the Princess Lwoff-Parlaghy. The Princess is a portrait painter, who makes her New York headquarters at the Plaza. She painted a life-size, three-quarter-length portrait of Mr. Haggin, and sues for $25,000 as the agreed price of the painting.

Mr. McCausland, who called at the County Court House yesterday to file a copy of the complaint, said he had seen the portrait hanging in Mr. Haggin's library, and that it was almost a speaking likeness of him. Mr. Haggin, Mr. McCausland said, was now 86 years old, but did not look more than 65 years old. Mr. McCausland said that Mr. Haggin expressed no dissatisfaction with the picture, but disputed Princess Lwoff-Parlaghy's assertion that he agreed to pay her $25,000 for it.

BOYS APPEAL TO MAYOR.

He Denounces Their Detention in Cells for Merely Ball Throwing.

Two boys in uniforms of the Western Union Telegraph Company called on Mayor Gaynor yesterday, and said they had recently been locked up all night in a police cell for playing ball in Prospect Park. The Mayor at once ordered them ushered in, and they told him a story similar to that of Hyman Albert, of 150 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, whose case has precipitated an investigation at Police Headquarters. Both the lads seemed under 15 years of age, and gave their names as Moscowitz and Kurzman, but left no addresses.

Asked about the boys' visit, Mayor Gaynor gave out a statement in which he denounced the practice of locking boys up in a cell all night, and criticised the police Captain who had permitted it. This Captain, he said, had since retired from the force.

"I think he saw what was coming and got out," the Mayor said. "I wish he were there to be dismissed from the force, so that we could teach a lesson once for all."

It appears from the Police Headquarters record, however, that the Captain to whom the Mayor referred, Capt. Lawrence J. Murphy, was on leave of absence prior to his retirement, when the boys were arrested. To take his place, Lieut. Abraham C. Hulse was assigned to the Prospect Park Station as Acting Captain, and since Capt. Murphy has retired Commissioner Waldo has promoted to a full Captaincy.

"Thesetwo boys were locked up over night in the Prospect Park station house," the Mayor's statement said. "They tell me that six boys were locked in the same cell over night—a little cell about five feet by six.

"Their story is that one of them picked up a little girl's rubber ball that was rolling on the walk and tossed it back to the girl, whereupon a policeman named McMahon seized them both and took them to the station house, where they were locked up in the cell all night. Such things make me feel discouraged. I thought I had at least put an end to the locking up of boys in cells all night for trifles.

"If a boy insists on tossing a ball in the park and will not stop when told to he must be arrested. But that does not mean he must be locked up in a cell over night as though he were a criminal.

"On the contrary, the duty of the policeman is to send word to his parents forthwith, and meanwhile he ought to be kept in the Captain's room or the common room of the station house in place of being put into a cell.

"But in the case of these boys, although their names and addresses were put on the blotter, no notice was sent to their homes at all. The Lieutenant or Captain at the desk should have telephoned to the station house of the precinct in which they lived and had them notified by a messenger from that station house. But they did nothing. They just took these boys and put them into a cell with other boys and let them stay there over night. It is simply barbarous. That is the way to make criminals of our boys."

The trials of Lieut. Charles H. Washburn and Patrolman Harry J. Farley of the Prospect Park Station, who were involved in the Albert boy's arrest, have been postponed until next Wednesday. Patrolman Farley was called to the Mayor's office yesterday, but neither he nor the Mayor would discuss the case.

Goethals Returns to Isthmus.

Col. George W. Goethals, Chief Engineer and Military Governor of the Canal Zone, sailed yesterday for Colon on the United Fruit steamship Zacapa. He arrived at the pier in a taxicab with his baggage a few minutes before the vessel sailed at noon. Col. Goethals will remain on the Isthmus until his work is completed, unless his presence is required in Washington by the President for some special purpose.

COMES TO COUNSEL JAPANESE HERE

Dr. Soyeda Sure That in the End Californian Situation Will Be Settled Amicably.

HAVE CONFIDENCE IN US

His Country Cannot Forget Our Many Instances of Disinterested Friendship, Envoy Asserts.

"The Japanese are much surprised by the attitude of the Californian Legislature, and some of them are annoyed, but the thinking persons in Japan trust that the trouble will be solved in the light of justice and humanity," Dr. J. Soyeda said yesterday at the Hotel Astor. Dr. Soyeda represents the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Japan, and the Japanese American Society of Tokio. The American Society was organized after the Californian trouble came to the front. Both associations adhere to the doctrine that international questions should not be left entirely in the hands of the Governments, but that the people should co-operate with them. Dr. Soyeda's mission in this country is to counsel the Japanese in California. He is one of the most eminent financiers in Japan, and it was because of his special knowledge of economics that he was picked to investigate the situation in California.

"How could we imagine," Dr. Soyeda said, "that a State in America, which we have regarded as one of the most friendly nations toward Japan, would take such a step as California has against Japan? America, the Japanese understood, had high ideals of Christianity and humanity. Our people regarded this country as a light that shone brightly in the dark field of international politics. We still believe that our notion of this country is not mistaken. The memory of Commodore Perry, who opened Japan to the world, and Townsend Harris, who helped Japan's growth, is fresh in our mind. We cannot forget, either, that this country gave us unselfish assistance when Japan was struggling for equal treatment in her international dealings. When we study the relations between this country and Japan, we cannot believe that this country is anything but friendly toward us. Is it unnatural that we are disturbed by the attitude of California toward Japan? How would you feel if a person, whom you had regarded as your best friend, should discriminate against you? Your feelings would be stronger than if you were treated in the same way by a person whom you did not count among your friends.

"The Japanese people in California have helped the economic growth of that State. When the anti-Japanese agitators say that the Japanese settlers in that State are detrimental to the Californians, they know that they are not sincere. Some of them say that if a Japanese farmer buys a farm, the value of the surrounding farms is depreciated. That is untrue. I studied the status of the Japanese farmers in that State, and my investigations showed me that after the Japanese farmers opened the barren, idle lands, the price of land went up instead of down. The land owners know this, and they have never complained against the Japanese farmers, but have welcomed them."

Dr. Soyeda said that the stories of war talk in Japan, which had been sent to this country, had been much exaggerated.

"It is true that there were some who could not control their anger at the attitude of the California Legislature toward the Japanese," he asserted. "But there were not more than a handful, and the thinking persons, of course, took a calmer view. The thinking men in Japan are well acquainted with the history of the relations between this country and Japan, and of the instances of American fair play which we have experienced. The negotiations over the California question are still going on between Washington and Tokio. I cannot but think that the outcome will justify the United States in the light of Christianity and humanity."

Dr. Soyeda and Tadao Kamiya, who is associated with him in his mission, were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the Publishers' Association of New York at the Hardware Club. They were introduced by Don C. Seitz of The New York World. In a short address Dr. Soyeda said that the Japanese in California should not be too hastily criticised by Americans, because they had helped the agricultural growth of the State at the same time that they were trying to elevate themselves.

William Berri of the Brooklyn Standard-Union, who presided at the luncheon, said that there was no feeling of antagonism in the Eastern States toward the Japanese, but that on the contrary only the most cordial feelings were entertained here toward the Mikado's subjects.

Both Dr. Soyeda and Mr. Kamiya will be the guests at a luncheon given at the Hotel Astor this afternoon by the Japan Society of New York. Dr. David Starr Jordan of Stanford University will be another guest.

PLITT HELD FOR PERJURY.

Witnesses Found Who Contradict Testimony in Murder Case.

Charles B. Plitt, Jr., the press agent for ex-Police Lieut. Charles Becker when the latter was in charge of the strong arm squad, was arraigned before Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs Court on a charge of perjury yesterday and was held in $1,000 bail for further examination on Friday.

The charge arises from the testimony he gave in his own defense while on trial before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions for the murder of Waverly Carter, a negro. Carter was murdered during a raid on a poolroom at 2,299 Fifth Avenue and Plitt was present at the time. Subsequently several persons testified that Plitt had fired the shot which killed Carter while the latter was trying to escape. He was acquitted, and since then the District Attorney had been gathering evidence against him.

On his trial for murder Plitt testified that he did not have a revolver with him on the night of the murder, and added that he never carried one. This is the charge upon which he was arrested yesterday, as other witnesses have been found who say Plitt did have a revolver.

ROOSEVELT'S TWO TRIPS.

Will Keep Him Away from City Campaign, Except One Week.

Col. Roosevelt completed yesterday his plans for two long trips which will keep him away from New York during the municipal campaign with the exception of one week. On July 8 the Colonel, with his sons, Archie and Quentin, will take a two months' camping trip in the Grand Canyon of Arizona. When he returns he will spend a week at home, but his time will be taken up preparing for the trip to the Argentine Republic, which he will make early in October.

An announcement of his proposed visit to South America, issued yesterday, says that he will visit Brazil and Chile, and possibly make a trip into the tropical interior of the Continent. If Mr. Roosevelt decides to make this trip into the interior a later announcement will be made regarding its character and arrangement.

THE WRITING ON THE WALL

Writing of The Union Central Life Insurance Building, Cincinnati, the fifth largest building in the world, and one of the most beautiful, designed by Mr. Cass Gilbert, Architect (Messrs. The above statement to many appeared overdrawn and impossible, but to those who knew it was simply typical of American character and civilization, and they awaited the date, meanwhile keeping a watchful eye on the progress made. Many wagers were laid, but just fourteen months after the advent of the signboard, and in spite of unknown difficulties which attended the completion of this undertaking, and notwithstanding the many delays incurred through the recent flood and other unforeseen causes, amounting in all to over two and a half months' loss of time, The Thompson-Starrett Company was able to allow the tenants to take possession of their quarters—it had fulfilled its promise and the optimist won his bet.

The Thompson-Starrett sign is one of the signs of the times. It stands for probity, performance and progress.

WAITERS ROB HOTELS.

Fence Confesses to Buying Stolen Silver from Them.

Assistant District Attorney T. C. Press and Judge Swann of General Sessions received word yesterday that Luigi Meighetti of 211 West Twenty-ninth Street, who pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, had made a confession in which he had exposed a system by which waiters in the big hotels and cafés had stolen and disposed of more than $200,000 worth of silverware.

The complaint against Meighetti, who said he was the head of the system and conducted a fence for receiving the stolen silver, was made after several detectives had bought goods from him. Much of the silverware bought by the detectives was identified as belonging to Sherry's, Delmonico's, the Hotel Astor, and the Waldorf. These detectives were hired by the Hotel Men's Association to trace the silver which had been stolen, and they visited Meighetti's store and bought more than $2,400 worth of silver for $500. After doing so they asked where he obtained his silver, and Meighetti finally admitted that it was stolen

FREE SUGAR WINS IN SENATE CAUCUS

Adopted by Overwhelming Vote of 38 to 6—For Free Wool Also, 39 to 6.

FOES GAINED NO RECRUITS

Fight on Amendment Prohibiting the Importation of Goods Manufactured by Children.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Wilson won a sweeping victory to-day when the caucus of Democratic Senators declared for both free sugar and free wool by overwhelming majorities. The victory was the more gratifying to the President from the fact that not a word has been spoken in the three days of debate on the two items to indicate that the two Senators from Louisiana have won a single recruit for the fight they propose to make on the Senate floor. If these indications are borne out, the passage of the two items through the Senate without amendment is assured.

Six roll calls were needed to commit the caucus to the rates of the House bill. Free wool was finally adopted by a vote of 39 to 6, while free sugar was retained by a vote of 38 to 6. The greatest strength against the President's rates came in the vote on an amendment proposed by Senator Shafroth, providing a duty of half a cent a pound on sugar. That amendment was supported by ten Senators—Mr. Shafroth of Colorado, Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Lane of Oregon, Mr. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Mr. Newlands of Nevada, Mr. Thornton and Mr. Ransdell of Louisiana, Mr. Tillman of South Carolina, Mr. Walsh of Montana, and Mr. Thompson of Kansas.

The real weakness of the Louisiana Senators within their party became apparent when Mr. Thornton offered his amendment striking out the provision putting sugar on the free list in 1916. Only his colleagues supported him, his amendment being rejected by a vote of 2 to 43. An amendment similar to that offered by Mr. Shafroth, with an additional provision for reductions at the rate of 25 per cent. a year, was offered by Mr. Thompson and promptly rejected by a vote of 8 to 40.

At no time did the movement for protected wool gain the strength recruited for the Shafroth sugar amendment. Free wool was finally adopted by a vote of 39 to 6, while only one additional vote was mustered for Mr. Walsh's amendment providing for a 15 per cent. duty on wool of the first class, with carpet and clothing wools on the free list. That amendment was rejected by a vote of 7 to 39.

Interest centred in the Senators who voted against the final adoption of the two items as passed by the House. The six who opposed free sugar were Senators Hitchcock, Newlands, Ransdell, Thornton, Shafroth, and Walsh. The six who opposed free wool on its final adoption were Senators Chamberlain, Newlands, Ransdell, Thornton, Shafroth, and Walsh. There is reason to believe that all of them, except Mr. Thornton and Mr. Ransdell, have decided to support the bill on the floor of the Senate.

To-day's voting showed plainly that practically every Democrat, except those representing States vitally interested in sugar or wool, has been won over to the President's side. It had been expected that conservatives like Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi would oppose free sugar, as he did with all the other Democrats of the Finance Committee a year ago, but to-day he supported the committee's report without even speaking on the other side. The vote of Senator Tillman for Mr. Shafroth's amendment is thought to have come simply as a result of Mr. Shafroth's speech.

Two far-reaching amendments to the administrative provisions of the Tariff bill aroused opposition.

One prohibited the importation of any goods, except immediate products of agriculture, forests, and fisheries, wholly or in part manufactured by children under 14 years old, a provision termed by many Senators as the most drastic protective measure any manufacturer could ask for—greater as a protection against foreign competition than high tariff rates.

The other amendment grants to the United States Court of Appeals concurrent jurisdiction in customs cases involving more than $100, with the customs court. Some Democrats thought the proposal an entering wedge toward elimination of the customs court.

The caucus ratified the commitee amendment placing hair of the Angora goat on the free list.

A dispute arose over the committee amendment on the agriculture schedule putting a countervailing duty on wheat and flour, and decision of the question went over until to-morrow. Some Democrats asserted after the adjournment that the countervailing duty would be stricken off, leaving wheat and flour on the unrestricted free list on a parity with cattle and meats.

Perry Flag Sent to Erie.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Commodore Perry's battle flag, with the legend, "Dont' Give Up the Ship," which flew at the masthead of the Niagara in the battle of Lake Erie, is on its way to Erie, Penn., in care of Ensign Lowry, U. S. N., who goes to join the rehabilitated old Niagara for her "cruise" in connection with the centennial celebration. The navy officer also carries a collection of other valued relics of Commodore Perry. The ship, in tow, will visit Put-in-Bay, Erie, Fairport, Lorain, Monroe, Mich.; Toledo, Detroit, Milwaukee, Green Bay, Chicago, Buffalo, and Sandusky.

McCOMBS LIKELY TO ACCEPT

Expected to Take Wilson's Renewed Offer of Paris Mission on Return.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Wilson has heard from William F. McCombs, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to whom the President cabled in Paris, again urging him to accept the office of Ambassador of France. In his response to the President Mr. McCombs says that he has been very ill. Just what answer the young manager of Mr. Wilson's campaign for the Presidency made to the offer of the President was not disclosed. It is well understodd, however, that Mr. McCombs will ultimately accept the Paris Ambassadorship, if his health will permit.

Before he left America Mr. McCombs was understood to have become convinced that in spite of his belief that his private means were not sufficient to enable him to maintain the kind of a diplomatic establishment required, it would be possible for him to do so without a great deal of expenditure beyond the official salary of $17,500. He had declined the President's offer because his private means were not sufficient, and protracted absence from this country would prove a serious detriment to his ambition to build up a law practice.

There have been rumors that President Wilson and Mr. McCombs were on good terms, and an evident effort has been made to show that Mr. McCombs had been displaced in the President's good opinion. It is expected here that the appointment of Mr. McCombs to the French mission will end this report.

PENFIELD FOR VIENNA POST.

President to Name Him as Ambassador—Dr. Egan Declines the Honor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Frederic Courtland Penfield of Pennsylvania will be nominated for the office of Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, to succeed Richard C. Kerens of Missouri, who was appointed by President Taft. Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, the American Minister to Denmark, received the tender of the Austrian Embassy from President Wilson, but declined because he believed his private means were not sufficient to enable him to maintain an establishment in Vienna.

As that city is regarded as the foremost Catholic Court of Europe it has been customary for this Government to send a member of the Catholic Church there as Ambassador. Bellamy Storer, who was removed from the office of Ambassador to Austria-Hungary by President Roosevelt, was not a Catholic, but his wife was. Dr. Egan is a Catholic, and it was partly for that reason and partly on account of his high standing as a scholar that President Wilson asked him to accept the Vienna post. He is a Republican. Mrs. Penfield is a Catholic and has contributed bountifully to church charities. She was Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker of Philadelphia, and is said to be one of the wealthiest women in the world.

Mr. Penfield was originally asked by the President to become Minister to Greece and Montenegro, but expressed a disinclination to accept the post.

Henry Morgenthau of New York has indicated to the President that he does not care to accept the office of Ambassador to Turkey, which Mr. Wilson urged on him. The President, however, has not given up hope of inducing Mr. Morgenthau, for whom he has a high regard, to accept this or some other diplomatic mission that may be available.

Mr. Penfield was a newspaper man before he entered the Consular Service, having been for five years a member of the editorial staff of The Hartford Courant. He was appointed Vice Consul General at London in 1885, and served from 1893 to 1897 as diplomatic agent and Consul General to Egypt, with the rank of Minister Resident.

AGAINST COMMERCE COURT.

House Caucus Votes to Abolish It and Protect Pending Litigation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The House Democratic caucus voted in favor of the abolition of the Commerce Court this afternoon, and defeated a motion by Representative Broussard of Louisiana providing for its continuance.

The resolution adopted by the caucus reads in part:

"That it is the sense of this caucus that the Commerce Court be immediately abolished during the present session, due care being taken at the same time to protect and provide for the jurisdiction now exercised by that court over pending and future litigation; and that the Committee on Rules is directed to bring into the House a rule making in order appropriate legislation for such purpose on any appropriation bill during the present session."

SEEKS NEW MEAT SUPPLY.

Secretary Houston Will Send Experts to Other Countries.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary Houston is contemplating the dispatch of four or five of his experts from the Bureau of Animal Industry to Argentina, Australia, Uruguay, Brazil and any other countries which may be sources of meat supply to the United States. The placing of meats on the free list, as provided for in the Tariff bill, combined with the fact that the supply of cattle in this country has been decreasing for years, has led the Department of Agriculture to the belief that other countries will be shipping beef here in the near future.

His purpose in studying the situation at first hand is to find out exactly what provisions other countries make for inspection of their meat and whether any conditions prevail which might conflict with the meat laws in operation here.

ARMY SENIORITY RULE DISCARDED

The President Held to Derive Supreme Right of Appointment from the Constitution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—A legal opinion of sweeping importance, which brushes aside precedent followed since the establishment of the Government, was rendered to-day by Attorney General McReynolds in the case of Major Beecher B. Ray, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A., who was eligible to promotion by reason of seniority. The Attorney General holds that the constitutional right of the President to appoint to public office cannot be curtailed, and that therefore he may promote an officer of the army by selection instead of being bound by the rule that only the senior officer in any grade is entitled to advancement to a vacancy in the next high grade.

The opinion was rendered at the request of President Wilson, who was disinclined to promote Major Ray. This officer had been active as a political manager in Republican national campaigns and became involved in a case in which he was charged with immorality.

This opinion affects every officer from the topmost Colonel down to the last Second Lieutenant in the line. Mr. McReynolds holds that the promotion over his head of all the Majors below Ray in his corps is within the President's prerogative under the Constitution, and that in effect an Act of Congress of Oct. 1, 1890, which pertained to the subject does not make it obligatory on the President to observe the rule of seniority in making promotions. This means that it is proposed to promote all the officers in the grade of Major in the Quartermaster's corps over the head of Major Ray and leave him precisely where he is until he retires, unless some other President shall see fit to reverse the rule now laid down.

Major Ray has been a subject of official controversy for the last five years. He entered thea rmy at the beginning of the war with Spain as an additional paymaster in the volunteer service, with the rank of Major. When the army was reorganized in 1901 he was commissioned a Captain in the Pay Corps of the regular army, and in November of the same year he was promoted to the rank of Major. In the political campaign of 1908, on the suggestion of friends of Mr. Taft, then Secretary of War, Ray was utilized to do some canvassing among the organized railway employes of the West. He had been a conductor on the M., K. & T. railroad in Missouri.

Major Ray was kept at this work for many months, leave being secured from time to time on the ground that his wife was in ill health and required treatment at hospitals in New York and Chicago. Although it was reported to Congress by the Adjutant General of the army, in response to a resolution calling for the information, that Major Ray had been given excessive leave and had overstayed his leave on one occasion for weeks, he was not called to account for what was regarded as a court-martial offense.

President Taft nominated Ray to be a Lieutenant Colonel on Feb. 16, 1912. This brought out evidence that Ray had been guilty of improper relations with the wife of a Paymaster's clerk detailed to duty with him in the Philippines. Later it was shown that it had been impossible to order Ray before a court-martial because the husband refused to be a witness against him.

The Senate twice refused to confirm Ray, and on March 4 last he resumed the rank of Major. Since Feb. 13 last promotions in the former Pay Corps, which has been merged with the Quartermaster Corps, have been held up owing to the disinclination to advance Major Ray. As a result the President asked the Attorney General his power in the premises. In his opinion Mr. McReynolds says:

> I entertain no doubt that the power of appointment of officers, the duty to appoint whom devolves directly on the President and Senate by virtue of the Constitution itself, is one involving a discretion not to be entirely controlled by Congress. This power is from a source above Congress—namely, the Constitution—and cannot be destroyed by the inferior power.
> I do not think, therefore, that the act of Oct. 1, 1890, makes it obligatory upon the President to promote the senior officer in the grade of Major, when a vacancy exists in the grade of Lieutenant Colonel in the Quartermaster Corps, if, in his opinion, the record of the officer has been such as to indicate that he is disqualified for promotion.

The present Judge Advocate General of the Army, Brig. Gen. Enoch Crowder, rendered precisely such an opinion to President Taft, in which the latter did not concur. The present opinion means that the rule of seniority need not be observed by the President, although it is the general belief of army officers here to-night that no President would desire to break down the present system of seniority, which is regarded as having great value in preventing favoritism and avoiding the demoralization of the spirit of the army by introducing political influence in securing advancement.

NO BUDGET COMMITTEE.

House Caucus Kills Proposal to Coordinate Appropriations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Underwood proposal to establish a House Budget Committee to co-ordinate appropriations was defeated in the House Democratic caucus this afternoon by a vote of 95 to 80. There were 115 Democratic Representatives absent when the vote was taken. A shift of eight votes would have carried the proposal.

Speaker Clark and many veterans were in favor of the Underwood plan. But some other Democratic veterans put their backs to the wall and fought the proposed innovation to death.

The Underwood resolution provided for the creation of a new Committee on Estimates and Expenditures, composed of twenty-five members, which, within thirty days after the convening of each regular session of Congress, would report to the House the amount of revenue probably available for appropriation for the next fiscal year and apportion that amount to the several committees now empowered to report appropriation bills. This new budget committee would also, under the defeated Underwood plan, have been allowed to report the sums that might be authorized to be appropriated by new legislation for public works and the enlargement of the public service.

Many members attending the caucus felt that the establishment of such a budget committee would lodge too much power in the hands of a few House leaders and correspondingly lessen the power of the members of the large appropriating committees.

The New York City Democrats voted almost solidly in favor of tabling the Underwood resolution. Those so voting were Maher, Fitzgerald, Griffin, O'Brien, Metz, Riordan, Goldfogle, and Dooling, with Clancy and Underhill from up-State districts. The New York Democrats voting with Mr. Underwood were Lathrop Brown, Jefferson M. Levy, Francis Burton Harrison, Henry George, Jr., Charles A. Talcott, and Robert H. Gittins.

Discontinues Ice Patrol.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Atlantic revenue cutter ice patrol was discontinued to-day by Capt. E. P. Bertholf, commandant of the service, because icebergs are now well in the north and all danger to steamships has practically passed. The patrol of several months has resulted in the discovery of numerous huge bergs, against which warnings have been sent by wireless to steamships and shore stations.

YEAR IN CELL FOR KAHN.

Music Publisher Sentenced for Libel on Henry Russell.

BOSTON, June 25.—Philip Kahn, the music publisher, who was found guilty of libeling criminally Henry Russell, Director of the Boston Opera House, was sentenced to-day.

He was condemned to imprisonment in the House of Correction for a year.

The libel was contained in a series of special articles, printed in Music, a magazine published by Kahn, in which the personal and business character of Russell were attacked. At the trial counsel for Kahn tried to introduce evidence to support these charges, but Judge Brown would not allow this. The defense then refused to contest the case, and Judge Brown directed the jury to return a verdict of guilty.

CHICAGO NOISE-CRAZED.

Tension Too High, Blood Pressure Above Normal, Alienists Say.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The opinion expressed at the conference here of alienists and neurologists considering ways and means of halting the increase of degeneracy and dementia that noise is a contributor to insanity, and that Chicago is the noisiest city in the world, was welcomed by the Council Health Committee, studying needless noises and means of suppressing them.

"The downtown portion of the city within the radius of the elevated loop is guilty of more noise and longer continued noise than any similar area in the world," Dr. J. Chester King of Atlanta told the alienists. "The noise has a distinct effect upon Chicagoans, and they do not know what relaxation is. They work too hard, they dance too hard, they think too hard, they play too hard, they dissipate too hard."

"And when the women wear colors, they wear them so hard they fairly scream," added Dr. Albert E. Sterne of Indianapolis. "In Indianapolis we look upon a blood pressure of from 120 to 140 as normal, but here a pressure of from 160 to 180 seems to be the regular thing."

KILLS HUSBAND AND DIES.

Wife of a Revolver Champion Leaves Note Showing Jealousy.

SPOKANE, June 25.—Frank Fromm, champion revolver shot of the United States in 1909, and his wife were found dead in a tent back of their home here yesterday. From a note in the woman's writing the authorities believe Mrs. Fromm shot her husband through jealousy, and then committed suicide.

In the note two young women of this city are named as the cause of the tragedy. A request is made that the wife's jewelry and clothing be sent to a sister, whose address is given as "Miss Joseph Hurbert, Norwalk, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 5."

DRIVE OUT I. W. W. MEN.

Stores Close While Two Agitators Are Escorted from Oregon Town.

MANSFIELD, Ore., June 25.—Business houses closed for an hour to-day while storekeepers and citizens in general banded together and drove out of town two organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World. The citizens then marched to the building where the I. W. W. meetings have been held and notified the owner that all other members of the organization and their sympathizers would be treated similarly.

The two organizers, W. J. Edgworth and Wesley Everett, were placed in a small boat, supplied with food for a day or two and taken eighteen miles from town before they were allowed to land.

Suit Case Supports 200-Pound Trunk

Striking Display of Strength Astounds Chicago Crowds.

Chicago people have gazed in wonder at a window display showing a fragile suit case supporting a big 200 pound wardrobe trunk.

Many first thought the demonstration a trick of some sort, but investigation proved conclusively that the only trick was in the manufacture of the suit case. The manager of the Chicago Indestructo Baggage Shop said: "The reason that the little light case is capable of supporting such excessive weight is due to the fact that the Indestructo people have discarded the old-fashioned suit case weakness. "Instead of pasteboard sides, we use a 3-ply hardwood veneer body underneath the handsome leather exterior."

Further investigation proved that the wood and leather case weighed three pounds less than the old style cases, and cost one-half as much.

If you are going to buy a suit case, get one that will last a life time without becoming sagged or unsightly. Buy an Indestructo suit case and be assured of a life time of service.

EXPLOSION DEATHS MAY TOTAL FIFTY

KNOWN DEAD NOW IS 17

Many of the Injured Who Are Still in the Hosptials Are Likely to Succumb.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 25.—With seventeen known dead, eighteen missing, and a score in the hospitals, of whose recovery there is little hope, the ultimate total of the victims of the fire and explosion that wrecked the big plant of the Husted Milling and Elevating Company Tuesday will probably exceed fifty. Nine of the sixty, taken to hospitals, succumbed of their injuries to-day.

The police, working with company officials in checking up the list of employes, revised their estimate of twenty-eight missing by reducing it to eighteen. It has been established that these men were in the mill at the time of the explosion, and the police feel certain that they perished.

Firemen poured tons of water on the smoldering ruins all day, and to-night it is believed that they will have sufficiently cooled off by morning to permit a thorough search. A wrecking company has been engaged to remove the mass of twisted steel and concrete, which is piled sixty feet high. Beneath this the bodies of the missing men are believed to be. Two bodies are visible, lying on an elevated portion, but the intense heat radiating from the débris balked all efforts to reach them.

The Police Department to-day began an investigation into the fire horror and will report its findings to the District Attorney. Many survivors have been questioned and their statements will be submitted to the County Prosecutor.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—"The time has come for the same exercise of care against explosions in mills and elevators as in coal mines," said Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, Director of the Bureau of Mines, to-day discussing yesterday's elevator disaster in Buffalo. "Entirely too many lives are being sacrificed in explosions of grain and other dusts. Recent explosions in grain elevators make me believe this is one of the hazardous occupations of the country. I do not know what precautions the owners are taking, but I am satisfied they are inadequate."

NOTABLES ON OCEANIC.

R. Fulton Cutting Returns—Lord de Ruthyn with Harold Lowther.

Among the passengers arriving last night on the White Star liner Oceanic from Southampton, via Cherbourg and Queenstown, was Robert Fulton Cutting, who was accompanied by his wife and two daughters. He said that he had been away two months to get away from politics and had spent the time motoring through France and Spain. Mr. Cutting said District Attorney Whitman was a good man, but did not commit himself further.

Lloyd B. Sanderson, general agent for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and the Pacific Steam Navigation Company in the United States, returned on the Oceanic from a brief trip to London, where he conferred with the Directors of his company on the development of trade in connection with the opening of the Panama Canal. He said there was nothing to give out at present.

Lord Grey de Ruthyn arrived on the Oceanic with Harold Lowther, a brother of Gerald Lowther, Speaker of the House of Commons, and left again for Alberta, Canada, where they have big ranching interests.

Inter woven TOE AND HEEL

THE socks grandmother used to knit wouldn't go today. In all kindness, they were at best ill fitting foot bags.

It has taken 50 years of invention to evolve the machines that today weave Inter woven Socks.

These machines make Inter woven Socks thin and gauzy, yet definitely wear-proof. They fit like a glove.

Remember this: They're not genuine Inter woven Socks unless marked "Inter woven." Don't let any clerk "hand you out" a better profit payer.

All fashionable shades. Lisles at 25c, 35c, 50c the pair. Pure thread silk, 50c.

JURY OPPOSES JUDGE IN FITZHUGH CASE

Ten Members of Panel Which Tried Her for Theft Say They Would Have Acquitted Her.

SURPRISE FOR THE COURT

Judge Swann Orders a New Trial for Woman Who Pleaded Guilty, on Application of Her Counsel.

After ten of the jurors who had been selected to try Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh, who pleaded guilty to stealing a gold mesh bag valued at $550 from Miss Dorothy Fiske, the daughter of Pliny Fiske, the banker, had informed Judge Swann in General Sessions yesterday that they would have found a verdict of not guilty, Judge Swann ordered a new trial for the prisoner, and criticised the jurors.

Mrs. Fitzhugh was to have been sentenced yesterday, and Judge Swann had asserted that he would not give her a new trial. When the case was called, Creed M. Fulton, Mrs. Fitzhugh's counsel, from Washington, D. C., who supplanted Abraham Levy, asked for a new trial on the ground that the evidence was not strong enough to warrant a conviction. Judge Swann then said:

"The evidence, to my mind, seemed to be overwhelming against the defendant. I saw a note she had written to her lawyer, in which she said that the evidence against her was overwhelming, and that she was perfectly willing then and there to plead guilty. She later told me that her lawyer had told her that his professional opinion was that the jury would convict her. It seemed to me that she had a desire to coerce the court into doing just what she wished, and I declined to allow her to do that. She not only pleaded guilty to the indictment for which she was on trial, but admitted another theft."

"Your Honor," said Mr. Fulton, "I can see no difficulty in the way of allowing this case to be retried. My client is Catherine Fennell, the daughter of a well-known and respected ex-Confederate soldier living in Falls Church, Va., and I cannot believe that she is guilty and willingly admitted her guilt."

Judge Swann then referred to the number of prisoners in the Tombs awaiting trial, and added:

"I will also state that the panel of twelve jurors drawn in her case is in this courtroom, and if you would like their opinion individually as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant and what their impression was in regard to it I will be pleased to let them tell of their opinions. I never consulted them in any respect. They are right here now, and if they think the case wasn't overwhelmingly against the defendant I will consent that she withdraw her plea. Otherwise, I will deny the motion. How many jurors believe this woman was not guilty?"

Ten jurors arose. Judge Swann seemed much surprised, and this feeling was increased when M. J. Kory, a clothing salesman, of 562 West 144th Street, stepped forward. Mr. Kory was one of the jurors whom Abraham Levy asked the Judge to dismiss on the ground that he was unfavorable to the defense. After him came William Ackerman of 1,227 Madison Avenue, another juror. Kory said that, while the evidence showed that both Miss Fiske and the prisoner had been in St. Bartholomew's Church on the day the meshbag was stolen, there was no evidence to connect Mrs. Fitzhugh with the theft. He asserted that when she returned to the church with a detective and found the bag herself he felt that her arrest was due to a conspiracy made by other women in the case. Ackerman held the same view, and after he had expressed it Judge Swann said:

"This is the worst I ever saw in all my life. We will have to open the case again, much against my will and my sense of justice. If this case has got to be tried again we ought to have a moving picture of the act."

"I would suggest," said Assistant District Attorney Press, "that the jurors be notified that a crime is about to be committed, so that they can be present and see it."

HUTTER'S GIFTS TO PUBLIC.

Brewer Makes Bequests to Cooper Union and German Hospital.

Karl Hutter, an inventor and brewer who on June 15 while despondent from illness committed suicide at his bachelor apartments, 116 West Fifty-ninth Street, bequeathed in his will, which was filed for probate yesterday, more than a quarter of his $1,000,000 estate to public institutions in this country and in Germany. Besides these bequests he gave sums ranging from $35,000 to $10 to employes of the various industries with which he was associated. The German Hospital and Dispensary of New York City and Cooper Union each receive one-quarter of the residuary estate.

The estate in Germany and $100,000 from the American estate are left to his sister, Sophia Mink of Montabaur, Germany, whose four children also receive, for equal division, one-half of the residuary estate and $100,000. Jacob Mink, the sister's husband, receives $25,000. The four children of his step-brother, Caspar Hutter, receive $150,000 for equal division. These legatees are Carl Hutter of Detroit, Christina Fischer of Cologne, Germany; Catherine Noll and Maria Manz of Limburg, Germany.

Employes of the bottling business at 241 Lafayette Street receive the following bequests: Herman H. E. Jantzer, $35,000; Ernest Krueger, $35,000; Carl Manz, $30,000; Frank C. Beuermann, $25,000, and Walter Gertz, $5,000.

Other employes on weekly or monthly salaries are to share equally in a $5,000 bequest and those employed by the day in a gift of $2,000. Workers in the plant of the Prospect Brewing Company of Philadelphia receive $10,000 for equal distribution and an option on the business is given to Charles Wolters and Gustave Ludwig.

The bequests to public institutions include $10,000 to the Gemeinde Wallmerod, $35,000 to the German-American School Association of New York, $5,000 to the Germania Club of 112 Central Park South, $10,000 to the German Hospital of Brooklyn, $20,000 to the Marien-Hein of Brooklyn.

Estate of Suicide Appraised for Surrogate Here.

Eugene Delano, Jr., who committed suicide on Jan. 30 in Winnipeg, Canada, where he had stopped on his way to his ranch in Saskatchewan, left an estate appraised in the report filed yesterday at $31,921 in personalty. With the exception of $1,468, the value of the equipment of his ranch, the assets were in securities. Deductions left a net estate of $25,760.

Under his will, Eugene Delano, Jr., who was the son of Eugene Delano, a member of the banking firm of Brown Brothers & Co., gave his sister, Susan A. D. McHelsey, one-fifth of the estate, amounting to $5,152. To Margaret Mills, a stranger to his blood, he gave one-tenth of the residue, and to his friend, Wilfred T. Grenfell, one-fifth. The rest of his estate went to his sister, Caroline D. Wadsworth.

GERMAN LIKES NEW YORK.

Even Our Police Meet with the Approval of Dr. Bongard.

Dr. Oskar Bongard, a well known German writer and traveler, who arrived here on the Imperator as a special correspondent for the Berliner Tageblatt, imparted some original impressions of this city which he gathered in four days' experience of New York before he sailed for home on the Imperator yesterday. This was Dr. Bongard's first visit to the United States. He spent many years in the German Colonial service and wrote books on East and Southwest Africa. He accompanied the German Crown Prince to India, and for six years was in the German department of police. He writes principally on economic subjects. Part of his stay in the United States Dr. Bongard devoted to a trip to Niagara Falls.

"I met yesterday your Mayor Gaynor," said Dr. Bongard. "He is not a man of small views, but long-headed, and with his eyes upon the future. My principal impression of New York is that it is a very busy town and well regulated. The people seem so orderly. I find here a disposition not to find fault with new things just because of their novelty. You look for the good things among the new.

"Your subways I should pronounce better than those of Berlin. It seems to me that owing to the fact that the doors of trains are open and shut by guards, it ought not to be possible to have serious accidents. I had an opportunity the other night of seeing how you put out fires here. I happened to be on the scene just as the smoke came out of the windows of a burning building. It was fine to watch how quickly the firemen arrived, and their calmness and the confident manner in which they went about their work. This with their rapidity of action was beautiful to see. I was also struck with the fact that it did not seem necessary for policemen to keep the people back out of the danger zone.

"Of course I have been on the east side and I found the people there much more congested than in the poorer quarter of Berlin. In fact, we have not in Berlin such poor people as you have in New York, and poverty does not make such a terrible impression upon the observer. We have social houses of which we give the rent free to the old and the infirm. To a foreigner the social evil seems to be very well regulated over here. So far as I could judge, Broadway does not seem to be given over at night to the half-world. In other big cities such as London or Paris, the stranger is much annoyed. I have found your policemen very polite and when I asked my way from them have been very courteously and correctly directed. I have had the honor of meeting Police Commissioner Waldo, and having been for a long time familiar with the difficulties that confront an honest police official, I know that Mr. Waldo has a difficult task in changing conditions that have existed here. It is next to impossible when you have a force of as many as ten thousand policemen to get together that many incorruptible men."

ADJOURN ERLANGER CASE.

Steuer Asks to Have Hearing on Miss St. Clair's Application Put Off.

Supreme Court Justice Goff adjourned argument yesterday until to-morrow on the motion to dismiss proceedings and cancel a judgment obtained by Edith St. Clair against Abraham L. Erlanger, the theatrical manager. The adjournment was at the request of Max D. Steuer, who was Miss St. Clair's attorney and whom she accused in affidavits of having outlined the testimony which she gave on the trial of her suit.

Mr. Steuer said he needed time to get an affidavit from a Mr. Matthewson at Brookline, Mass. It was agreed that the affidavit should be served on William Travers Jerome, counsel for Mr. Erlanger, on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Jerome at first objected to the adjournment, saying that he had important business in Albany to-morrow. The nature of the affidavit sought by Mr. Steuer did not appear.

JOIN WITH RADER IN ACCUSING POLICE

INDICTMENTS TO FOLLOW

Strange Truck Thief Has Audience with Prosecutor and Says "Millions" Are Behind His Misdeeds.

Corroboration of important details in the confession of Isidore Rader, the east side "fence" and master of wagon thieves and pickpockets, poured into the office of the District Attorney yesterday. A former high police official, a wealthy truckman, and six denizens of the underworld dictated statements to Assistant District Attorney Moscowitz, all tending to involve one set of detectives still in the Police Department. Each one of the witnesses expressed a willingness to go before the Grand Jury. It was said that four of the six detectives named in the Rader confession had been directly implicated.

When the District Attorney began the investigation of the east side "fences" it appeared that he might be able to get indictments of various jobbers and auctioneers for aiding and abetting in receiving stolen goods. It now appears that the investigation will be directed toward the Police Department and that expected indictments will allege bribery in the "throwing" and "fixing" of cases in the courts. The four detectives mentioned have been transferred.

No suspicion is attached to the former police official and to the wealthy truckmen who talked to Mr. Moscowitz yesterday. The former had had much experience with truck thieves, it was learned, and was anxious to help the District Attorney in any way possible. The other six witnesses, however, recited personal experiences with detectives in which they received favors in return for payments in cash.

The truckman was R. L. Smith, who has an establishment at 70 Reade Street. Mr. Smith had read in the newspapers of the confession of Rader, and explained that he came to back up Rader's story. He had himself been the victim of truck thieves, he said, and had seen Rader on trial in Brooklyn some months ago for receiving stolen goods. It was on this occasion that Rader was discharged for lack of evidence. Mr. Smith told Assistant District Attorney Moscowitz that he was in the Brooklyn courtroom under a subpoena, but that he was not called as a witness.

When asked why he was not called as a witness Mr. Smith, it was said, brought in the name of a former detective of the Clinton Street Station. He said he had seen this detective destroy the evidence needed to convict Rader.

Next in importance as corroborative witnesses to police complicity in the handling of stolen goods were five young men who knew Rader and his work well.

In Mr Moscowitz's office they were confronted by Rader, and also by Moe Rader, his brother. The five boys, it was said later, gave important corroboration involving three detectives, and told of many thefts under the direction of Rader. They were inclined, however, to throw all the responsibility of their thefts on Rader and to refuse to tell where they had taken stolen goods.

"Tell everything," Rader told them again and again. "Don't you hold back anything. The police nailed you and I had to pay to get you off. Now you nail the coppers."

Moe Rader, it was said, supported the boys in withholding certain information about detectives. A quarrel ensued between Moe and his brother as a consequence and Mr. Moscowitz had to use his influence to prevent blows.

"That's just the difference between me and you," shouted Rader, the fence, to his brother at the height of the quarrel. "I'm a thief, but you're nothing but a copper. Why can't you tell the truth?"

Each one of the five boys, it was learned, confessed to Mr. Moscowitz that they desired to live better lives. They had found stealing very easy, but they realized that there was nothing in the "game" after all.

The sixth denizen of the underworld was of quite a different class than the five pupils of Rader. He called Mr. Moscowitz on the telephone.

"I want to see you badly," he said. "I've got some valuable information for you. I can put you on a real track. I tell you that fellow Rader is a piker. He's just a drop in the bucket compared with the men for whom I have stolen goods."

It was arranged that Mr. Moscowitz should meet his unknown informant at Broadway and Franklin Street. He proved to be a man of about 32 years. He had the marks of refinement, spoke good English, and drifted in his conversation from the subject of truck thieving to philosophy and ethics.

He was graduated from a Western university, drifted to New York, married a wealthy girl, and went from bad to worse until he became an expert truck thief. He gave the District Attorney his real name and his aliases.

"What do you know about Rader?" the District Attorney asked him.

"Rader is a piker," he replied. "He hasn't any financial backing. The real big truck thieves like myself have millions behind us."

This truck thief asserted that he had never paid money to the police. He ran all the chances of arrest, he said, but so far had been arrested only once. He had been convicted and sentenced to the reformatory for a short term. Unlike Rader, moreover, he asserted that he had women among his accomplices. These women, he said, were found useful in stealing packages from messenger boys.

Mr. Moscowitz made arrangements to meet the man again after they had lunched together. He expects to get from him information leading to men higher up in the systematized business of robbing merchants. The Supreme Grand Jury is expected to take up the truck thieving cases next week.

Before Judge Crain in General Sessions yesterday the trial of Frank Zerillo, alleged receiver of stolen goods, was continued.

Three of the detectives formerly attached to the Clinton Street Station made statements regarding their activities in that station to Police Commissioner Waldo yesterday. The statements were not made public.

Gov. Brown Assails Labor Unions.

ATLANTA, June 25.—An arraignment of labor unions, in which it is charged that they form the "most widespread and aggressively exacting trust in America," is contained in the farewell message of Gov. Joseph M. Brown, presented to the Georgia Legislature to-day. His criticism is made in connection with his argument for compulsory arbitration of differences between employes and employers. "The labor unions, by combination, which they work through strikes and kindred methods," he says, "are aggressively levying a toll on all the other elements of our citizenship." The Governor does not charge that all members of unions are willful violators of the law. "Yet they are the victims of a system which is breeding anarchy," he adds.

The more air room—the more resiliency and the greater ability of the tire to absorb the shocks of the road—insuring more comfort for you and your passengers—more service from your tires.

The secret of building a tire that lasts means building a tire that does the work easily—a tire that does not strain under road usage.

This is a scientific problem that our engineers have solved for you and all other tire users.

It took years to perfect our ideas—we reasoned that the thing for us to do was to build a tire with additional air room, so that the strain would be equally distributed over the entire surface of the tire, rather than concentrated at one particular point, and today we offer you Diamond (No-Clinch) Tires.

This extra air room is gained for you without lessening the thickness of the tread or weakening the side walls in any way.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, JUNE 26, 1913.

HOW THE COUNTRY BANKS WOULD FARE.

The large banks in the central reserve and reserve cities are for the most part opposed to the Administration's Banking and Currency bill. To them it is unacceptable, many officers of these banks think the plan would be unworkable. It is understood that the country banks, that is, banks outside the central reserve and reserve cities, now that they have had time to study the provisions of the bill, are of the same opinion. This is not surprising. Any head of a country bank who examines the measure will discover, first, that he is "required" to subscribe to the capital stock of the Federal Reserve Bank in his district to an amount equal to 20 per cent. of his capital, one-half to be paid in cash, and the other half to remain as a liability; second, that after the lapse of a certain number of months he will be required to keep in his own vaults one-third of his 15 per cent. reserve against deposits, another third in the Federal Reserve Bank, and the other third either in his own vaults or in the reserve bank. After the lapse of three years his deposits with the national banks in the reserve or central reserve cities would not be counted as a part of his reserve.

This is his contribution to the resources of the reserve bank. What return does it make to him? It returns him 5 per cent. on his holding of its capital stock. It also offers him the privilege to strengthen his resources by rediscounts with the reserve bank. This would seem to be a valuable privilege. But let the country banker read carefully Section 13 of the bill. The character of the notes and bills eligible for this purpose is there defined. They must arise out of commercial transactions, and save in exceptional cases for which some provision is made they must mature in not more than forty-five days. Country bankers will be able to judge for themselves whether their supply of notes, bills, and acceptances of the character specified would in general be sufficient to make this a valuable privilege. Most of the paper available for this use is issued in the large cities. Country banks are believed to have a larger proportion of long-time paper.

The working of the plan has been pictured forth with great clearness by a practical banker, Mr. Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange Bank in this city. Mr. Frew says of it:

> This bill makes the banks subscribe the capital of the reserve banks, and, with the exception of Government deposits, contributes all the deposits of these reserve banks, and gives them little or no representation in the management.
>
> The Government is practically going into the banking business with private capital. It decides the rates of interest for discounts at the reserve banks; transfers deposits made by the banks in these reserve banks to any part of the country they choose, without permission of the local management; favors every kind of speculation except in stocks and bonds, and may force each reserve bank to be the clearing house for its shareholding banks.
> Its reserve requirements are liable to so disarrange existing conditions that the theorists who framed this bill may have a practical object lesson in banking which will better prepare them to treat this subject as it should be treated. But this object lesson, if it should occur, might be very expensive to the public.

It seems probable that if the bill should be enacted in its present form the Administration and the authors of the measure would be deeply disappointed in its effects. They seem to have intended to provide for an expansion of credit and an inflation of currency. There is reason to believe that a contraction of credit would be the result, and it might be a severe contraction. Of course, the Money Trust would be blamed for that, and Senator Owen would at once make use of his megaphone and his microscope to place the blame. He would discover that these instruments of observation and proclamation would have to be applied not only to the big banks but to the small banks as well, to all the banks of the country. It would be unseemly to say that the new Banking and Currency bill is the fruit of ignorance and prejudice. It is better to point out that its authors seem to lack a qualifying acquaintance with the complex details of the banking business, and that they have put too much confidence in the report of the Pujo Committee. The President's address and the terms of the bill make it plain that they have sought above all to bind the money power with a thousand chains. The Pujo report concerned itself chiefly with criticism of banking methods. The committee had overlooked or was not impressed by the record of great and patriotic service which the banks, and notably the banks of New York, have rendered in times of trial, or the response they have made when summoned to come to the support of the credit of the Government. However, these are not times when such services are recalled. But it would be unfortunate not merely for the Administration and its party, but for the country, if in the attempt to apply the theories of the inexperienced men who have made this bill those consequences should ensue to which Mr. Frew alludes when he speaks of an expensive object lesson to them and to the public.

THE DIRECT PRIMARY DEFEAT.

Now that Gov. Sulzer's Direct Primaries bill has been decisively beaten in both houses of the Legislature, he may conclude upon sober reflection that he misjudged the state of public opinion in respect to that measure. He professed to be confident that the bill would be enacted, even though it had been defeated at the regular session. For its enactment a very great change of temper in the Senate and in the Assembly would have been necessary. But only seven votes were gained in the Assembly, three of which were accounted for by the presence of three members not voting at the regular session, and the gain in the Senate was two votes. The defeat of the bill is overwhelming, 51 for and 92 against in the Assembly, 10 for and 38 against in the Senate. If the people had really been stirred up about direct primaries, if, as Gov. Sulzer deluded himself into believing, they were really bent on State-wide primaries and the abolition of the State Convention, the gain for the bill would have been very much greater. Even this Legislature would have yielded in some measure to a public opinion if it had been manifested.

Possibly, there may be some patching up of the plan by restoring the State Convention and making some other changes, but success is doubtful. There remains a most important matter for the Legislature to consider. The report of the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association upon the charges made against Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, together with the charges themselves, was transmitted to the Legislature by the Governor yesterday. It is unfortunate that these charges are to be considered by the Legislature at a time when passion and the factional spirit have been aroused, for the matter is a grave one. It would be not only a public scandal, but from the other point of view a gross injustice to Justice Cohalan if the Legislature should fail to make diligent inquiry into the truth of the charges. The proceeding is judicial in its nature, it should be conducted with perfect candor and fairness, with an impartial desire to ascertain the truth. It would be intolerable that by a partisan finding these charges should be dismissed without due inquiry. The administration of justice and the reputation of the court are at stake.

WHAT ARE GRAND JURIES FOR?

It was time that some Grand Jury should "protest against the usurpation of power by the Attorney General of the United States," as the San Francisco Grand Jury did in its telegram to the President, published yesterday. In principle, although not in form or effect, that telegram is an indictment of much that has been done by the Government recently and which has been condoned by popular sympathy with the end desired to be reached, without consideration of the disadvantages of that means of reaching it. As the Grand Jury in the Western Fuel case remarks: "Any Attorney General who can thus "declare men innocent can in the "same way declare them guilty, and "inevitable corruption and flagrant "injustice will result." While this could be the result in specific cases, the general result would be the reduction of the Grand Jury to a useless appendix of our political system, instead of the mainstay of our institutions through the guarantee that the law would be administered in accordance with sound public opinion rather than on individual discretion.

In the Texas oil case the Attorney General forbade certain warrants to be served, and then refused to send the papers to the House. Mr. Wickersham did deign to explain that he thought the indictments faulty and the evidence insufficient, but he did not explain how he was made the judge on those points. Nevertheless his orders sufficed to prevent the service in New York of warrants issued by a Federal Judge in Texas. Federal Judge Meek remarked that it was a new wrinkle in law for a Federal official to intervene between a court and fugitives from indictments, but it "went." In the Mylius and Castro cases there was an attempt by Federal officials to take action endangering individual liberties in a manner the courts condemned and reversed.

Not all these cases were ousters of Grand Jury procedure, but all of them were examples of the substitution of personal will for the operation of law, and are accumulative proofs of a tendency that needed checking. As the Western Fuel Grand Jury telegraphed to the President:

> For an administrative officer to single out certain defendants and refuse to permit them to be tried is to overthrow all established precedents and law; it is publicly to attempt to free a favored defendant after the exercise of influence in the privacy of the Attorney General's office in the absence of the evidence and in violation of justice; it is an attempt to subvert the powers of the Federal Grand Jury to make the Attorney General the substitute for the courts and to destroy the usefulness of the United States Attorney's office. This Grand Jury, reposing the highest faith in your rectitude of purpose, appeals to you publicly to discountenance the action thus taken, and to uphold the hands of the United States Attorney in a vigorous prosecution of all the defendants without fear or favor.

These are timely words. They are reactionary, of course, and therefore it is fitting that they should be addressed to a President who represents the reaction from the personal government which the people ended. There are no results worth while attaining by the substitution of individual government for government by public opinion and the law. There are still unsettled problems inherited from that régime, and it is well that they should be settled on the rights of the parties to them, rather than by compromises or by waivers of the law reached in midnight private consultations. And this is said on principle, without reference to the merits or the demerits of the course taken, with the result of prolonging the unsettlement until now and rendering decisions more difficult with the lapse of time.

LABOR'S RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

When the President signed the law which tied his hands against using any part of $300,000 appropriated for the enforcement of the anti-trust law for the prosecution of unions breaking that law he declared that "other appropriations supply the Department "[of Justice] with abundant funds to "enforce the law." It may be added that there are abundant cases for the use of the funds which are available, and respecting whose use the President is on his good behavior.

For example, on the same day that the President's memorandum accompanying his signature was published several hundred miners in Ohio forcibly carried non-union men away from their work, and it was said that this was the second time within the week that the same thing had been done. That district is in a chronic state of disturbance, but nobody seems to be interested in checking the restraint of trade by force of arms. Doubtless it it Ohio's duty to do this, but it is also the duty of the Federal Government to safeguard the production of coal used in interstate commerce, and which production is hindered by a conspiracy under the anti-trust law. Also during the current week the English-speaking miners in Arizona are combining against the employment of any non-English-speaking miners in competition with them. Only unionists have a right to work for their living in Arizona. It is proposed to effect this purpose by a "law," in which case it might seem that the legislators were conspirators to limit the blessings of constitutional government to restricted classes.

The Ohio River marks a dividing line between abundance and famine in the ice supply. Union teamsters refuse to handle non-union ice, with the result of such scarcity that ice is dispensed on doctors' prescriptions. Is or is not this an interference with trade amenable to the law against unreasonable restraints? Is it lawful to prevent men by the thousand from earning their living because they will not wear a button? Is it or is it not an offense for carpenters in this neighborhood to conspire against the use of non-union products, according to a conspiracy judicially established on evidence, and enjoined? This week a suit for damages by the conspiring carpenters has been brought. Is it an accident that these and many other similar offenses against the law have been prosecuted and punished by private persons, and that the Government record is the dismissal of a similar prosecution as being an excess of zeal?

What course will the President take regarding the West Virginia mining troubles which have resulted in a hundred fatalities, which have been proved to be the result of a conspiracy in restraint of trade, and in which the Secretary of Labor is named as one forbidden to continue unlawful conduct? It would seem to us that the men of business who protested against the President's signature owe it both to him and to themselves to ask the President's action in a concrete case to enable him to demonstrate his good faith in professing that he has the money, the power, and the disposition to enforce the law without fear or favor.

DR. VON RUCK'S TUBERCULIN.

No one has challenged the professional standing or sincerity of Dr. Karl von Ruck, who reported in The Journal of the American Medical Association of May 18 last that after from three to eight months following the treatment of 339 children, tuberculous and non-tuberculous, with a preparation of dead tubercle bacilli "prompt "and uniform development of all specific anti-bodies was demonstrated "after a single dose" and that "there "was not a single instance in which a "comparison did not indicate unmis"takable improvement." Now comes Dr. R. S. Cummings of the Barlow Sanatorium in California with a report that guinea pigs vaccinated with the von Ruck serum yielded more quickly to tuberculous infection than those not so vaccinated. Dr. Cummings was assisted in his experiments by the entire staff of the sanatorium.

Dr. Friedmann's preparation of live bacilli accomplished better results. Guinea pigs are more susceptible than any other known animal to invasions of tuberculosis germs. Yet Prof. Orth, President of the Berlin Medical Society, testified that guinea pigs vaccinated by Friedmann and under Prof. Orth's observation lived very much longer after inoculation with virulent germs than guinea pigs not vaccinated. The failure of the von Ruck treatment follows that of many other investigators who have tried to produce immunity to tuberculosis with dead bacilli. On the other hand, the work of Trudeau, von Behring, Baumgarten, Koch, Calmette, Pearson, McFadyean, and Alfred Moeller, among many distinguished investigators, has shown during the last twenty years that the path of progress leads to the use of live bacilli.

If germs of tuberculosis not virulent to man can be found, Koch said, they will smother their virulent fellows when injected and will clear the patient's system of the disease. In the attainment of this end Friedmann has many and eminent rivals. The pursuit is narrowing, and the prize to be found at the goal is great.

HARBOR OBSTRUCTIONS.

It seems impossible that the Imperator, or her successors of deeper draught, might some time not be able to approach the docks of Manhattan by the same route so proudly taken on the lordly ship's first arrival on these welcoming shores. And yet the danger is real. At a spot where there is 70 feet of water the Passaic Sewer Commission is planning to construct a dispersion device extending over more than three acres, and rising 30 feet from the bottom. The Imperator draws over 38 feet when deeply laden, and "squats" 3 feet when under way. There is a narrow margin of safety, if any, and the Imperator's arrival is timely warning that the channel ought not to be obstructed by any unnecessary device of disposal works for the purification of sewage which can be and ought to be purified elsewhere.

The same court stipulation which requires the purification of New Jersey's sewage stipulates that the dispersion device shall never menace navigation. Prevention is better than cure, and cure might be difficult if the harm really were done. It would be difficult to order the removal of an obstruction from 70 feet of water after allowing it to be placed there. If it had to be done it would be at the cost, expense, and risk of the New Jersey cities which have so bound themselves. Early action is a kindness to them, while yet their plans are subject to amendment. If they would purify their sewage on their own premises they would not need a dispersion device in their neighbor's water.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Reflections on a Funeral. In the failure of the police force to be represented at the Walsh funeral by others than a few of the dead man's relatives there is hardly warrant for assuming, as several commentators have, that the abstention was due, not to contempt for the grafter, but to hatred of the informer.

Hardly fair, moreover, is the assumption that because Walsh undoubtedly rendered a real and considerable public service by confessing his own crimes and revealing those of his accomplices, therefore it behooved the policemen, as good citizens, to show respect to his memory and sorrow for his demise.

The service was indeed rendered, but the human mind is so constructed that it can not, and presumably should not, judge acts in the abstract. Invariably it is compelled to take motive and circumstance into account, and only too obviously fear had more than conscience to do with Walsh's confessions and revelations. The most charitable can with difficulty claim for him more than that when confronted by the double terror of death and conviction he did what he could to lighten his apprehensions of both. He was useful—incidentally. His usefulness did not make him admirable, and it earned recognition, not gratitude.

The strongest sort of argument, logical and unanswerable, can be made in support of the contention that he who knows of wrongdoing by others should disclose his knowledge, and so bring about the suppression and punishment of the transgression. But instinct always has found, and probably always will find, many exceptions to this rule, and when the informing is at a price, whether of money or safety, instinct insists on characterizing and despising it as betrayal, sometimes unjustly.

Mr. Whitman, who knew all the facts in this sorry case better than do the rest of us, had sympathy as well as pity for Walsh, and went to his funeral. That fact has weight, but the other fact that the policemen stayed away does not justify the conclusion that they have reprehension only for "squealing." Probably they feel about that much as the rest of us do.

Correcting a Few Mistakes. By the exercise of a laborious ingenuity in the misunderstanding of intention one of our readers has reached—and with wholly unnecessary excitement expresses—the conclusion that certain recent remarks in this column on the importation of wild-bird feathers constituted an attack on dry-fly fishermen! Consequently, with loud cries, he rushes to their defense.

He denies that they are interested in or connected with the feather business. He asserts that there is in the world no body of men more sportsmanlike. He recalls that they have aided in the work of game protection—all kinds of game protection—by the expenditure of much money and personal effort. He says that they approve heartily of the feather section of the new Tariff bill, though they do think the few pounds a year which are all they need might safely be excepted from its provisions.

Which is queer, considering that with all this we are in cordial agreement and never thought of being anything else.

When we spoke of the trade in a "doubly barbaric merchandise," which phrase bitterly grieved this reader, it must have been sufficiently obvious to most that the reference was not to dry flies, but to the killing of whole bird tribes in order that the ladies—bless 'em!—may decorate themselves with feathers after the justly celebrated manner of their most primitive sisters in Central Africa and along the upper Amazon. In the use of a few feathers for the purpose, at once practical and proper, of catching fish we can see no harm whatever.

What we intended to criticise—and did—was the attempt to make the real or imagined necessity for using for flies the feathers of certain birds now threatened with extermination an excuse for keeping our great market wide open to all the feathers there are. To do that is in effect to offer a reward for the slaughter of the last egret, the last scarlet ibis, the last bird of paradise—to mention only a few menaced species—and probably seems as little commendable to our mistakenly indignant correspondent as to ourselves.

Just to heap up the measure of his scolding he asks what we think of the skins imported in the name of science, to "disfigure the museums in distorted shapes," and why we do not share the pain of real lovers of wild animals when they—the wild animals—are imprisoned in cages. Well, calling the shapes "distorted" we think an undeserved condemnation of the modern taxidermist, and that the enlightened lover of wild animals does not make the mistake of ascribing to these captives the mental sufferings a man would feel in imprisonment, no matter how well fed.

A Candidate for Long Imprisonment. Only the people, now a rapidly waning class, who see in intoxication an excuse for the committing of evil deeds will suggest anything less than the extreme rigor of the law for the drunken chauffeur who drove his car so wildly up Broadway Tuesday evening. Others will regard his condition as aggravating, not palliating, his offense, and will hold him guilty of nothing less than murder should his most seriously injured victim die.

Certainly he gave evidence of that "depraved mind" to which the law ascribes acts like his, and nobody deserves a good long term in prison better than he, even though the intention to kill was absent from his voluntarily disordered brain.

His conduct makes relevant the giving of the curious bit of information that probably the first use of the word "chauffeur" in other than its simplest sense of "heater" was its application, many years ago, to a band of murderous brigands who lived in the forests of La Vendee. In that part of France stories are still told of the custom these ruffians had—whence their popular, or unpopular, name was derived—of discovering hidden money by putting live coals on the feet of its owners.

Modern chauffeurs do not resort to this particular device, but some of them are evidently direct descendants of those whose efficiency as extortioners took the live-coal form. Moreover, it does seem that the eminent Mr. Burns of the piercing eye might have detected the vicious weakness of his employé before it had consequences so disastrous. That is where his share of responsibility for that wild ride comes in.

CLASS DISCRIMINATION.

President Criticised for Signing Sundry Civil "Rider."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that President Wilson has given his approval to the first great legislative act in favor of class distinction and class discrimination, we have a vision into the future which is curiously suggestive of a looking-glass vision, which turns the eye backward instead of giving the promised view of what lies before.

The regular appropriation bill this year returns to the feudal type under which concessions were forced by a weak majority from a strong minority. It is not the self-taxing of a free people for their own legitimate expenses, but it is a conflict where one party says to the other, as in the days of King John, "Give me this or you shall not have a penny."

President Wilson knows this. He says the principle is wrong, but it won't hurt—we can evade it! Has all of his knowledge of the history of government not given him the wisdom to know that a wrong principle injected into government leads to issues which no man can foresee?

POISONOUS TABLETS

Should Be Marked and Colored, and Issued Only on Prescription.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I presume the recent cases of poisoning by taking mercuric bichloride tablets instead of some kind of tablets for internal use can only be accounted for by the fact of the poisonous tablets being of the same color or probably the same size as some other harmless ones, which the unfortunate person happened to have kept on the same shelf with the other medicines used in the house. This is a practice common with the public, who knows practically little of poisons, the very reason one might think for taking extra care how they store and handle them.

Bichloride of mercury tablets are manufactured in blue color as well as white, the natural color of the well-known antiseptic, and it would probably be a good idea if the law forbade the sale of the latter variety, and made it compulsory for each blue tablet to be stamped "poison." Also, bichloride of mercury tablets should only be obtained on prescription from a doctor, thus preventing the sale of the antiseptic in original bottles.

STATUE PRESERVES FAME OF LEISLER

Mrs. Montgomery Schuyler Unveils at New Rochelle a Memorial to Its Founder.

WAS FIRST OF DEMOCRATS

Lord of Pelham Manor Could Claim a Fat Calf Every Year from New Rochelle Huguenots.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 25.—The unveiling of a statue of Gov. Jacob Leisler, father of New Rochelle, was the principal event yesterday in the celebration of the two hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the city by Huguenots. The statue was given by Huguenot Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, and the Huguenot Association of New Rochelle.

A notable gathering of citizens and invited guests, including M. Charles Garrigues and M. Harry Chatonet, the delegates from La Rochelle, France, witnessed the ceremony in Huguenot Park in the afternoon, and Miss Katharine J. Clinton Carville, Regent of the Huguenot Chapter, presided.

The orator of the day, Prof. Robert Livingston Schuyler of Columbia University, a descendant of Gov. Leisler in the eighth generation, delivered an address on "Leisler the Man," in which he outlined the troubled history of the period and the career of the Governor from his rise to power to his death on the scaffold. It was noted as a curious coincidence that Prof. Schuyler can also trace his descent from that Robert Livingston, one of Leisler's most relentless opponents.

The speaker called Leisler the first Democrat of New York, and said that an act of tardy justice was to be performed in unveiling a memorial to him.

"It is particularly fitting," he said, "that this city should take the lead in thus honoring Leisler, for he stood sponsor at its birth. He had become deeply interested in the fate of those unfortunate French Protestants, the Huguenots, and in the Autumn of 1689, in the midst of his multifarious duties as Chief Executive of the Province of New York, he found time to buy for the Huguenots from John Pell, proprietor of Pelham Manor, a tract of 6,000 acres and paid for it what was then considered the large sum of £1,625.

"During the course of the next year he sold it all, and without profit, to the French refugees. You of New Rochelle must not forget what this man did for the founders of your city. Nor will it be forgotten by that great and generous nation from which the Huguenots sprang and which they never ceased to love, France, once our ally, always our friend."

Henry M. Lester, President of the Huguenot Association of New Rochelle, in the course of his address on "Leisler and the Huguenots" read a quaint provision in the deed given to Leisler by John Pell and his wife, Rachel. It stipulated that in addition to the £1,625 Jacob Leisler, his heirs and assigns forever, should "yield and pay unto the said John Pell, his heirs and assigns, lords of the said manor of Pelham, one fat calf every four and twentieth day of June, yearly and every year (if demanded.)" Not even the oldest living inhabitant of New Rochelle can remember when the last payment was made under this clause.

Solon H. Borglum, sculptor of the memorial, spoke shortly on "The Artist's Conception of Leisler," and then ex-Mayor George G. Raymond escorted Mrs. Montgomery Schuyler, a descendant of Leisler in the seventh generation, to the foot of the statue, which was hidden in American flags. While the school children sang "The Star Spangled Banner" Mrs. Schuyler pulled a cord and unveiled the statue amid the applause of the spectators.

Miss Carville then made the formal presentation of the statue to the City of New Rochelle, and Mayor Frederick H. Waldorf delivered the speech of acceptance.

This morning Adrian Iselin, Jr., will entertain the foreign guests on his yacht, the Adrienne, after which there will be a luncheon at his home on Davenport Neck. In the afternoon there will be a parade of 4,000 school children.

WILD FEATHER IMPORTS.

"Joker" Amendment Practically Removes All Restrictions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times's editorial is quite correct in saying that the Senate committee amendment to the clause forbidding the importation of feathers for millinery purposes "practically removes all restrictions" on that barbarous traffic. Feathers which may be admitted if the amendment is adopted are those of birds killed "for food" or as "pests." Let us see how it would work.

In Farmers' Bulletin No. 493, published by the United States Agricultural Department, careful directions are given for dressing and cooking English sparrows. So all birds of this size and larger may be used "for food" and their feathers imported for millinery purposes and profits.

In Bulletin No. 506 of the same series the economic status of the hummingbird is discussed, with the conclusion that it is of "little economic interest and that little is mostly in the wrong direction." Here, then, is the official decree, which fixes the status of the hummingbird. Every feather importer will be zealous in hunting down and exterminating the little "pests."

Sparrows "for food purposes," hummingbirds as "pests"—will somebody kindly inform us what birds are supposed to be protected by what is left of the non-importation clause? Your suggestion that the friends of the birds present the facts to their Senators is timely and to the point. The high-priced attorneys of the milliners have had their say. The birds cannot speak. They cannot hire attorneys. If their friends remain silent the ghastly traffic, with its unspeakable cruelties, will continue, as in the past.

Captured British Standards.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was surprised to read your correspondent's statement that Canada possesses the "only captured British standard."

I wish to take exception to that, for in a showcase in the old San Domingo Church, corner of Belgrano and Defensa Streets, Buenos Aires, in the Republic of Argentina, one may see the Royal Crimson Standard of Britain which was left on the battle field when the Argentinos drove her out of that section in the early nineteenth century.

The Times's Occasional Baseball Writer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Merely to indicate to you that you know a real baseball writer when you see one before you try him out, I write this to inform you that I have just been notified that I have won first prize in The American Magazine contest for sketches on "The Best Baseball Play I Ever Saw." I saw it in 1869, too, long before I had ever appeared in print. I hope you will republish the sketch, if possible, with a few remarks on how The Times taught me how to write prize baseball stuff. What?

THE RAG RUG.

With gaudy pink and yellow stripes,
And red and green and blue,
And white and brown and lavender,
And royal purple, too,
It lay before the bureau, up
At Aunt Louisa's farm—
A quaint rag rug which had for me
A sentimental charm.

I thought of all the memories
My Aunt Louisa's hands
With pieces of her youthful frocks
Had woven in the strands.
But then I kicked a corner up,
And lo! what did I see?
The little tag that bore the price,
One dollar sixty-three!

MINNA IRVING.

WOMAN TO GO EXPLORING.

Miss Jobe Will Walk 400 Miles and Study Indians.

Miss Mary L. Jobe, Professor of History in the Normal College, will start in about a week from Prince Rupert, B. C., accompanied only by two Indian guides to visit practically unexplored regions of northern British Columbia and southeastern Alaska, where as yet uncivilized Indian tribes have never seen the face of a white woman. Miss Jobe is a veteran of several exploring expeditions into the Selkirk Mountains and southern British Columbia and was one of the two women who with Prof. Herschel Parker were the first to set foot on Mount Sanford, the highest mountain of the Selkirk range. Miss Jobe will start West to-day.

Miss Jobe said last night the purpose of her expedition was largely ethnological, that she expected to make a study of the traditions, habits, and language of the Athabascan or "Carrier" tribe of Indians along the Skeena and Peace Rivers. The only knowledge of this tribe has been imparted by trappers from Hudson Bay trading posts. Miss Jobe plans to walk 400 miles, following Indian trails. She will spend ten weeks away from civilization. She will leave Prince Rupert by boat, sailing up the Skeena River to Hazelton, a Hudson Bay trading post, and thence on foot will follow trails into the wilderness northward and visit Indian villages situated near the sources of the Skeena and Peace Rivers.

Returning to Hazelton, she will follow the surveyed route of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad to Fort George, making side trips to Indian villages on the way. She will then return to Prince Rupert and make an expedition northward into the mountain country, practically unexplored, of southeastern Alaska.

Miss Jobe will wear the conventional mountain-climbing outfit, knickerbockers, puttees, and heavy boots.

SPARROW TRIES ITS WINGS,

And Busy Forty-second Street at Once Reverts to Nature.

Forty-second Street is one of the last thoroughfares you'd think would be selected for a bird's first flight, so that a young sparrow, which just after noon yesterday, attempted to find its wings caused about the biggest sensation that thoroughfare, near the Grand Central Station, has witnessed since it became impossible to see the blasting and the big station in actual process of growth.

When the little sparrow first attracted anybody's attention it was in the passageway that leads to the bar of the Hotel Belmont. Unfortunately for it, the atmosphere of the place did not impart the same degree of buoyancy that hurried commuters profess to find there, and it fell upon the marble floor. Just as Frank Paulson, the hotel cashier, finished his morning watch, the sparrow fell upon the steps that lead up to the street. Paulson stooped and picked up the little thing tenderly and placed it in the foliage of a tall, thin bay tree that occupies a tub nearby.

Several persons had caught sight of the bird, and immediately a crowd gathered about the tree peering through the branches to see this strange visitor to that busy street. It was curious to hear sympathetic exclamations from men you would never suspect of caring for birds. After a time a crowd of youngsters came by and stopped. One of them suggested that they take the bird out of the tree and carry it along with them, whereat an elderly man scowled severely at the speaker.

"Don't be so foolish," remonstrated another boy. "What would you do with it? Let the poor thing live." And so the bird remained untouched until, after hopping up from one branch to another, it finally managed to reach the glass awning over the doorway, whence it was soon lost to Forty-second Street.

SAYS REBELS ARE GAINING.

Ex-Marshal Nolte Gives a Texas View of the Mexican Situation.

Eugene Nolte, who was for seven years United States Marshal for the Western District of Texas, arrived at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday to meet Col. Cecil Lyon, who is due on the Auguste Victoria. Mr. Nolte is a banker and miller of San Antonio.

"While we still have many refugees coming to San Antonio from Mexico," said Mr. Nolte, "things are more active in that way at Galveston, where the troops are. I have talked with a great many Mexicans and Americans who have crossed the border, and they seem to think it is only a matter of a short time when all will be over with Huerta. The rebels are gaining ground, and sympathy along the border is more on their side than it has ever been before. While Carranza is their leader, they are the same as the old Madero party. In Texas people think it is a mighty good thing that President Wilson has not recognized the Huerta Government. You hear very little talk down our way of intervention.

"Business is very good in San Antonio. Of course, this is our dull season. You see, the best crop we have down there is the Winter tourist product. However, conditions look good. We have had good rains and we shall have fine crops. We bankers realize that money is high, but we hope to get relief soon, because we ought to begin marketing our cotton crop on Aug. 15."

GIVE COLORS TO THE UTAH.

Delegates from Salt Lake City Visit the Battleship Here.

Forty persons from Utah presented the battleship of that name, now at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, with the colors of the State yesterday. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. G. Douglas Bergener of Salt Lake City. Standing beside Mrs. Bergener was a daugther of Brigham Young.

The crew of the ship stood at attention and the ship's band played patriotic music at intervals in the presentation ceremonies. Capt. William S. Benson received the colors on behalf of the vessel, and thanked the members of the delegation in the name of the ship, the officers, and the crew. The colors are embroidered in silk, and will be displayed in the cabin of the ship.

Capt. Louis Sayre Van Duzer, who was relieved as Captain of the Brooklyn Navy Yard on June 14 and assigned to the battleship Utah, yesterday took command of the dreadnought at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The Utah is undergoing repairs. The Captaincy of the navy yard will be assumed by Capt. William L. Howard of the battleship Idaho. Capt. George W. Kline, commandant of the Naval Station at Guantanamo, will succeed Capt. Howard on the Idaho.

PAWNBROKERS' LIABILITY.

Court Holds Simons Firm Needn't Pay for Stolen Pledges.

In a decision returned yesterday in the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court Justices Seabury, Bijur, and Page upheld a ruling of Judge Blake of the Municipal Court that when pawnshops are robbed the pawnbrokers are not responsible for the loss of pledged articles. The question came up in a suit brought against Martin Simons & Sons of 94 Hester Street by William W. Burg to recover the value of a diamond ring which was included among goods stolen last March from Simons.

The court held that pawnbrokers were required to exercise only reasonable care and that such care was exercised when the Simons firm put the pledged property in a forty-foot vault, constructed of steel, cement, and brick. In this vault was property on which Simons & Sons had advanced some $480,000. The Simons firm alleged that their interest in the property constituted 75 per cent.

RESPITE GRANTED TO MRS. PEIXOTTO

WILE DEFENDS MOTHERS

Regulations Against Child-Bearing Immoral, He Says—His Report Laid on the Table.

Mrs. Bridget C. Peixotto, former teacher in charge of Public School 14, Throggs Neck, the Bronx, was not dismissed by the Board of Education yesterday from the public school service for absence from duty due to giving birth to a child.

Six members of the Committee on Elementary Schools submitted a report calling for her dismissal, but, on motion of Dr. Dennis T. McDonald, the matter was laid on the table until the return to this city of Commissioner Abraham Stern, the Chairman of the committee. He sailed on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. on Tuesday for Bremen, and will not be back until the middle of September.

A minority report, in favor of Mrs. Peixotto, was submitted by Dr. Ira S. Wile, but it was not read, and debate was shut off by the motion to lay it on the table.

This was followed by the offering of a resolution by Gen. George W. Wingate. He moved that the by-laws be amended so as to read:

> The marriage of female teachers, being in the judgment of the Board of Education injurious to the schools, such marriages hereafter are prohibited.

This resolution was referred to the Committee on By-Laws and Legislation for consideration.

Dr. Wile in his minority report contended that Mrs. Peixotto had fulfilled all the requirements of the by-laws when she absented herself from school on Feb. 3, and that the Board of Education had no power to pass a by-law making it an act of insubordination for a teacher to marry while in the service.

"Maternity itself," said Dr. Wile in his report, "does not necessarily, as assumed, necessitate frequent and long absence from duty. If perchance such absence were required it would work no greater hardship upon the pupils in the school than do similar and numerous protracted absences of neurasthenic women or chronic invalids, whose prolonged absences might be urged similarly as the basis of dismissal.

After pointing out that the number of married women in the public schools is less than 1 per cent., Dr. Wile takes up the question of the influence on the older girls, and the alleged violation of the cases of reserve. He denied emphatically that there need be anything of an objectionable nature in the presence of married women and laid stress on the movement for introducing instruction in sex hygiene.

"Regarding the relations of the home to the school," then said Dr. Wile, "the question of the 'absent mother' has nothing to do with the problem of the dismissal of a teacher for maternity. At the present time 20 per cent. of the working population in the United States consists of women over 16 years of age. While we believe that in an ideal community the function of the woman is best performed in the home, we are living in a practical world, and the number of women going into occupations and industries of all kinds is constantly increasing, and this holds true for the married women as well as for the single women.

"The great Catholic Church and every other Church is opposed to any movement which will lessen the sanctity of marriage, or directly or indirectly tend to establish childlessness as a goal. The principle of dismissal for maternity is pernicious and opposed to public policy and contrary to the dictates of an active conscience.

"If, however, forfeiture of position results because of maternity, while married life does not cause forfeiture of position, the implication exists that a childless wedlock is necessary in order to retain a position. This is an immoral concept, and hardly in the line of broad educational policy.

"Our first and main function is the welfare and education of the pupils. When evidence exists that mothers are not teaching in an efficient manner, and are violating the statutory provisions, then and then alone it is possible to subject them to suspension, and after charges sustained, visit dismissal upon them."

The nominations of William A. Boylan, John S. Roberts, and Arthur C. Perry, Jr., as District Superintendents were ratified unanimously despite a protest from the Interborough Association of Women Teachers, which wanted at least one woman appointed. Commissioner George J. Gillespie, however, moved that the President appoint a special committee of five to consider similar nominations in the future and to report on them to the Board of Education. Commissioner Cornelius J. Sullivan said this motion was a sop thrown to the Interborough Association, and moved to lay it on the table, but his resolution was lost by a vote of 2 yeas to 34 nays.

TO VISIT WINGDALE SITE.

Commission on New Prisons Will Investigate Its Availability.

ALBANY, June 25.—The commission on new prisons, appointed by Gov. Sulzer to select a site for a prison to take the place of Sing Sing, plans to visit the Wingdale site in Dutchess County on Thursday. Some of the commissioners favor this site, on the ground that the State owns it, that the residents of the community want the prison there, that it has an ample water supply, and is located within a reasonable distance of New York City. Work on the prison was abandoned in 1911 by order of Gov. Dix, who said that a new prison was not needed, and that a new cell block at Sing Sing was all that was required.

The commission met to-day to consider the circumstances leading up to the abandonment of the work.

PLAN A YELLOW FOURTH.

Suffrage Color to Prevail at Long Beach Picnic.

The New York State Suffrage Association has planned a yellow celebration for the Fourth of July. The association will have an all-day picnic at Long Beach, and the members will promenade along the boardwalk carrying yellow parasols and disport themselves in the waves wearing yellow bathing suits. They may wear "Votes for Women" sashes over the suits, but that point has not been settled definitely.

The parasols are already in stock at the National Suffrage Association Headquarters, 505 Fifth Avenue, with "Votes for Women" on them, and all good suffragists may buy them for $1 each. The State Association expects to use its own carriage on the trip to Long Beach. This wagon was contributed by a friend of the cause for use on the up-State campaigns. The donor calls it an "old wagon," but the association will turn it into a chariot, with decorations of yellow banners, for its picnic. The picnic luncheon will show the suffrage colors in eggs, bananas, oranges and cake with yellow frosting. All good suffragists are invited to attend. Miss Harriet May Mills, the State President, will head the party. Ex-Senator Reynolds will probably make an address.

Suffragists Invade Coney.

Coney Island will have a sandwich board suffrage parade this afternoon. Four young women will start at Brighton Beach at 3 o'clock to parade down Surf Avenue and back through the residential districts of the island. They are Miss Mabel Scofield, Miss Lillian Walker, Miss Margaret McLauchlain, and Mrs. A. M. Besant.

The boards will advertise the big open-air mass meeting which the Women's Political Union will hold on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the evening at Coney Island not far from the municipal baths.

MISS WHIPPLE WEDS ARTHUR HAGEMEYER

SISTER HER ONE ATTENDANT

F. E. Hagemeyer Brother's Best Man—Bride's Gown of Brocaded White Satin Draped with Point Lace.

The wedding of Arthur Herbert Hagemeyer, a son of Mrs. Frank E. Hagemeyer, of 70 West Fifty-fifth Street, and Miss Dorothy Sherburne Whipple, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Dana Whipple, of Flushing, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Henry D. Waller, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church in Flushing, assisted by the Rev. Herbert Shipman.

The church decorations were groups of tall palms on each side of the chancel, and vases of white lilies on the altar.

The bride, who walked with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a trained gown of brocaded white satin charmeuse. The bodice, cut low, was draped with point lace, which also formed the over sleeves. The draped skirt was slashed up to a point above the knee at the left side, disclosing a petticoat of white chiffon. The train of the robe, which was long, and square at the ends, separated from the dress a little below the knees.

The voluminous tulle veil was gathered in a full frill over the forehead and held with orange blossoms and buds. It went to the end of the train and was held to it at one side by a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a large round bouquet of pink sweet peas.

The maid of honor and the bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Marion L. Whipple. She was in pale pink satin, a draped skirt, having the bodice of the satin coming up in points from and meeting on the shoulders over putty-colored lierre lace. The lace also formed the full elbow sleeves. Her large hat of white straw was trimmed with full, finely plaited frills of pink tulle and a spray of pink roses. She carried a round bouquet of deep pink sweet peas.

DEFENDS HIS VERSION OF 'SONG OF SONGS'

Huebsch Denies That "Americanisms" Led to Book's Withdrawal in England.

THE ISSUE AS HE SEES IT

Real Question Is Whether Works of Art Must Be Submitted to Scotland Yard's Censorship.

B. W. Huebsch, the American publisher of Sudermann's "Song of Songs," came to the defense of the American translation, the Americanisms of which, in a cable dispatch to THE TIMES yesterday morning, were held responsible for the withdrawal of the book under the censorship of Scotland Yard. According to Mr. Huebsch, the "Americanisms" were merely good English for Sudermann's good German. In suport of his translation he quoted comments from Hildegarde Hawthorne in THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW, who called the translation "excellent, retaining the spirit of the original, and yet thoroughly idiomatic and direct;" and The London Athenaeum, which called the American translation "unusually good, combining ease and briskness of style with accuracy of rendering."

"Whoever supplied the material for your cable dispatch," said Mr. Huebsch, "disingenuously held back the opinions of all the prominent English authors except the two that criticised the American translation. Sir Conan Doyle says: 'That there are passages which are coarse and unnecessarily coarse is, on the other hand, indisputable.' Miss Harraden considers it a most wonderful book, 'and should deeply regret to see the work of so great a masetr as Sudermann suppressed in England.' These and many other quotations from the letters written by distinguished authors snow that the point at issue was not whether the translation contained Americanisms or not, but whether we are to submit our works of art to the censorship of Scotland Yard or Mulberry Street."

Mr. Huebsch gave THE TIMES letters writen by leading members of the Society of Authors in London about the American translation when John Lane, the English publisher, fearful of the suppressing hand of Scotland Yard, asked them for their opinions. These authors included A. Conan Doyle, Beatrice Harraden, Sir Gilbert Parker, Eden Phillpots, Lucy Clifford, G. Bernard Shaw, May Sinclair, H. G. Wells, M. P. Willcocks, and Israel Zangwill.

Sir Gilbert Parker wrote:

"It isn't a sweet book, but Salome isn't a sweet drama, and to attempt to ban the one and let the other go is sheer stupidity and crass prejudice. The public must set the standard, not the censor, and as one of the public I resent any attempt to regulate my diet."

G. Bernard Shaw says: "It is full of vivid character sketches which not only amuse us as we read, but give us a whole social atmosphere to reflect on. If the reflections are bitter and even terrifying, serve us right; it is not Sudermann's business to keep us in a fool's paradise. The suppression of this book would not only be a deliberate protection of vice—which is always best served by turning off the light—but the reduction of every English adult to the condition of a child under tutelage. No harm that the worst book could possibly do, even if the people could be forced to read it against their wills, could be as great as the intellectual suffocation of the whole nation which a censorship effects."

May Sinclair wrote:

"I would even say that from the point of view of morals the book should do good; should act as a deterrent by its ruthless analysis."

H. G. Wells's opinion was expressed as follows:

"I have read 'The Song of Songs' very carefully. I find it unsympathetic work; there is a harshness and a hardness about Sudermann's effects that I do not like and that reminds me of the exaggeration of wrinkles and blemishes one finds in over-focussed photographs. None the less, it is a very sincere and able piece of literature. It deals with facts very plainly."

DISCUSS MARCONI PATENTS.

Inventor, Again a Witness, Has Ready Replies for the Lawyers.

William Marconi, the wireless inventor, again took the witness stand yesterday in the United States District Court in Brooklyn. He faced an array of lawyers engaged to defend the National Electric Signaling Company of Pittsburgh, Penn., in the trial of an injunction and damage suit brought against the concern by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America for violation of patent rights owned by the plaintiffs.

F. W. H. Clay, a Pittsburgh attorney, assisted by F. W. Winter, an expert patent attorney of the same city, conducted the cross-examination of Marconi. The witness had a ready answer for all questions put to him, and his testimony was given with confidence.

The Marconi patents, filed in Washington in 1900, covering the construction of the inventor's transmitting and receiving stations, later built to send messages across the ocean, were discussed. The same chart used on the previous day, containing a sketch of the Marconi apparatus, with the alleged infringement, was frequently referred to by the attorney for the defense in the cross-examination of the witness.

The hearing yesterday was brief. Because of the trial of an injunction action brought by the United States Government against the E. W. Bliss Company, manufacturers of torpedoes, which had to be heard yesterday, Judge Veeder adjourned the Marconi Company's case at 1 o'clock until this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Temporarily relieved of the mental strain to which he has been subjected during the several days' hearing of his wireless suits, Mr. Marconi's good humor was put to the test after he left the courtroom. Accompanied by Mrs. Marconi, who has been the constant companion of her husband at the trial, the inventor waited for the elevator to take him from the third floor of the Federal Building to the street. The elevator appeared after a time and Mrs. Marconi entered it. "No more," then said the man in charge, and the inventor was left behind. His good humor stood the test.

SULZER WARNS ON GAMBLING

Convinced of Race Track Violations, He Writes Nassau Official.

ALBANY, June 25.—Gov. Sulzer to-day sent a letter to Charles N. Wysong, District Attorney of Nassau County, in which he said that, after examining the testimony taken before Judge Niemann relative to gambling at Belmont Park and Piping Rock race tracks, he was convinced that the anti-gambling laws had been "openly violated."

Judge Niemann, sitting as a committing Magistrate at Mineola, yesterday threw out of court the proceedings brought by the District Attorney based upon allegations by private detectives that they had placed bets with bookmakers.

The Governor calls the attention of the District Attorney to certain sections of the penal law concerning gambling, and directs him to "take immediate action against the proper individuals, corporations, or associations who have violated the law in this, or in any other particular." The Governor says he will hold the District Attorney "strictly accountable" for the performance of his duty.

Valentine Taylor, counsel to the Governor, in a letter to Mr. Wysong, informs him that the Rev. William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn will call upon him during the next few days and submit a list of names of witnesses "who will be able to give you evidence of the fact that gambling has taken place at the Belmont Park and Piping Rock race tracks."

The Governor has sent a copy of his letter to District Attorney Wysong to Sheriff Charles De Mott of Nassau County. He requests the Sheriff to report what measures he has taken to enforce the law.

District Attorney Wysong, at his home in Port Washington, L. I., last night said:

"I received Gov. Sulzer's letter last Tuesday. It was written before Judge Niemann dismissed the proceedings brought by me. I went over the situation last Monday with the Governor. If evidence is placed before me showing that gambling is going on at the race tracks I shall certainly act upon it if the evidence is strong enough to stand in court."

He added that he would go over the evidence which the Rev. Mr. Chase was to lay before him, and if it was strong enough he would act upon it.

Sheriff De Mott was not at home last night, but it was said that he had not yet received the Governor's letter.

GIANTS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER---YANKEES WIN---BROOKLYN LOSES---RACING---TENNIS---GOLF

GIANTS AND BRAVES SHARE HONORS

Shake-Up of Boston Team Brings Victory in Second Game at Polo Grounds.

The Boston Braves opened a four-day series of six games at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon with a double-header, and four hours of baseball ended with the teams on even terms. The Giants won the opener without much of an effort by hitting Bronx Dick Rudolph in timely fashion, but the second went to the visitors, this victory breaking a losing streak which had extended over seven games. The New York victory was recorded at 5 to 1 and Boston came through with their win, 4 to 3.

Manager Stallings made a most thorough overhauling of his forces after the Giants had won the opening game, and his shifts figured in all the runs scored in the second battle. Only four of the players who started the first game took part in the second, this quartet being made up of Myers, Maranville, Titus, and Mann. The second selection outhit and outfielded the first choice and won the game. Briscoe Lord and Brown, two of the second selections, hammered home runs into the stands, which furnished Boston's first three runs, and Smith, who succeeded Capt. Bill Sweeney at second base, unloaded the hit which sent the deciding run across in the eighth inning.

The Giants did not give the fans any chance to enthuse until the fourth inning, when Shafer beat out a bunt, reached second on Fletcher's infield out, and scored on Murray's double to right. In the sixth they made victory secure by pushing three more runs across. Shafer opened the inning by hitting into the right-field stands for a home run and Fletcher followed with a sizzling drive past third base for two bases. Doyle reached first on Sweeney's error, and Merkle's solid slam to centre chased Fletcher home, Doyle reaching third on the hit. The double steal was successfully worked by Doyle and Merkle when Sweeney made a poor return to the plate. In the seventh a single by Burns, a steal, Shafer's out, and Fletcher's single added another New York run.

Boston's lone count arrived in the ninth, when Connolly scratched a single past Doyle and went to second on Sweeney's walk. Titus's infield out advanced Connolly to third, and he scored on Mann's sacrifice fly to Burns.

A fumble of an easy roller by Larry Doyle, the first and only New York error of the past three games, was responsible for the deciding run in the second game, which was a close pitching argument between Hub Perdue and Rube Marquard. Each had a bad inning in the early part of the struggle, when three runs were pushed across, and then the pair settled down to high-class pitching. The Giants had a fine chance to tie up the second game in their half of the eighth inning, when pinch hitter Moose McCormick started a small-sized rally with a single to right field. Herzog took up the running duties for Harold, and Tilly Shafer followed with a single past second. Fletcher, Doyle, and Merkle filed out in succession and the big opportunity faded away. The scores:

PHILLIES BEST AT END.

Brooklyn Makes Strong Bid for Victory, but Loses, 11 to 8.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Philadelphia and Brooklyn took turns in having batting bees and in leading in to-day's game, which was finally decided in the ighth inning when the visitors piled up four errors, the locals winning by 11 to 8. Each club used three pitchers. Rucker left the game in the first inning after Paskert, Lobert and Cravath had each singled, Luderus made a home run and Magee a double. Wagner lasted until one man was out in the fourth, Ragan finished the game and had a battle with Brennan, who went to the mound in the fourth inning.

Brooklyn got a five run lead in the third inning by knocking Chalmers off the rubber and hitting Alexander's delivery for four singles and a double. With the score tied and two out in the eighth, Cutshaw made two fumbles and Fisher and Phelps each an error, which, with a double by Cravath, netted two runs. The latter also scored while Phelps was chasing Magee, who he claimed had not touched the home plate. Cravath made three singles and a two-bagger and drew a pass in five trips to the plate. The score:

RED SOX RAISE FLAG; YANKEES WIN GAME

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., June 25.—Chance's Yankees, with President Farrell looking on, a world's championship pennant waving to the breeze for the first time, and Joe Wood on the mound, pinned a 5 to 2 defeat upon the Red Sox this afternoon. It was not altogether Wood's fault that the champions were beaten, although "Smoky Joe" was far from form. Errors by some of the men behind him and daring baserunning and good fielding by the Yankees did the trick. Ford officiated for the visitors, and his work was high class. Several times there were indications of a batting fest being started by Boston, but Ford kept his head and the infield did the rest. A triple by Nunamaker at the commencement of the fifth inning and a three-bagger by Speaker, who led off in the sixth session, were hits that accounted for Boston's two tallies.

Daniels, Wolter, and Hartzell showed their speed on the bases, Wolter stealing home in the eighth inning and Hartzell making third at the same time. Nunamaker dropped the pitch, but Harry was at the plate before it reached the mit. Wood had a bad time in the ninth inning, hitting two of the visitors and passing two others. When he hit Cree in the ribs there were three on bases and Ford trotted home.

Sweeney reached second in the fourth inning when Ball threw his grounder into the dugout. The big catcher scored New York's first run on Peckinpaugh's single, a pass to Daniels, his steal, a grounder to Engle by Wolter, and Cree's hit in the sixth inning. Daniels drove a fast one through Gardner in the eighth inning and reached second. Wolter singled to left, scoring Daniels, and was safe at second himself when Yerkes muffed Wood's toss after Lewis had thrown toward the plate. Cree sacrificed and Sweeney fanned. Hartzell drew a pass and stole second. Then came the double steal, with Wolter scoring. The score:

Polo Grounds Game for Newsboys.

A special exhibition game between the Yankees and Giants will be staged at the Polo Grounds some time during the first week of July for the benefit of local newsboys, the proceeds of which will go to assist in a movement to provide a new and larger home for the lads. The occasion will serve as a fitting opportunity for the followers of both local delegations to see their favorites in action against each other for the first time since Frank Chance has been placed at the head of the American League team.

P. S. 83 Wins from P. S. 42.

Public School 83, Manhattan, by its defeat yesterday of Public School 42, Bronx, by the score of 7 to 5, on Manhattan Field, in the semifinal round of the city championship, captured the title of champions of Manhattan and the right to play Public School 58, Queens, next Saturday for the city championship.

SHEEPDOG BEST IN SHOW.

Champion Slumber Takes Chief Honors at Long Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, June 25.—The Summer colony put on its most colorful finery to-day and flocked to the big circus tent near the Hotel Nassau to pay homage to the hundreds of high-bred dogs which were benched at the inaugural dog show of the Long Beach Kennel Club. It was a new setting for a dog show, the aristocrats being judged in the open-air rings of white sand, which were swept by the cool winds from the Atlantic Ocean. Society motored to the beach in large numbers and promenaded along the benches, where more than three dozen different breeds were on show.

The chief honors went to Mrs. Tyler Morse's massive Old English sheepdog Champion Slumber, the winner of the President's Cup for the best dog or bitch of the show. Champion Slumber has been hailed the best dog of the fifteen different shows. Slumber, with a kennel mate, Araminta, also won the $50 plate for the best brace of any breed, and the McAleenan Trophy for the best rough-coated dog or bitch.

The reserve to Slumber for the best of the show was awarded to a large bushy poodle, Orchard Snowstorm, whose white coat was so fluffy that he resembled a big snowball. Snowstorm comes from the Red Brook Kennels of Great Neck.

The Pomeranians and Pekingese outnumbered the other classes, and there was a great flutter of excitement about the ring while they were being scrutinized by the judges. Miss Marion Kennedy's Pom, Parkneuk Blackthorne, won the Miss Anna Sands Prize for the best toy and defeated many blue ribbon winners. Miss Kennedy's Foresters Mite of Delight also won among the winners, bitches.

Mrs. M. E. Harby's Pekingese, Nowata Chun of Egham, the best "Peek" in England, carried off the honors in its class, but was one of the several favorites defeated by Miss Kennedy's Pom for the best toy. Among the winners, bitches, the blue went to the Arden Kennels' Kala Bandar of Arden, with Mrs. G. L. Heywood's Fan Tan of Esterro reserve.

A winner of numerous prizes and trophies in the specials was the champion bull terrier Noross Patrician. This terrier is a veteran of many shows, but still retains its excellent features, and carried everything before him in his class. Patrician took the C. E. Perrin Cup for the best terrier, and was reserve to Orchard Snowstorm for the Hotel Nassau trophy for the best dog of the show.

Franz J. Heilborn's winning Boston terrier, The Empress, the best of the last terrier show, won the blue ribbon in winners, bitches, with Daniel P. Ritchey's Champion Lady Ringleader reserve. The Bostonia Kennels' Bostonia Model was acclaimed best among the dogs.

MISHAPS MAR RACES AT TERMINAL COURSE

Several Spills in Steeplechases, but Riders Escape Serious Injury.

There was a large outpouring of society folk yesterday at the first day's racing of the United Hunts Racing Association, which held forth at that picturesque ground called the Terminal, just back of Belmont Park. Amateurs and professionals were seen in the saddle, with the riding honors among the gentlemen jockeys going to B. B. Lewis, Harry and Eddie Tucker, and Fred Alpers, the latter showing to particular advantage in the open steeplechase, in which he was the only amateur to have a mount.

The series uncovered more mishaps than have been witnessed during the running of a card of six events, as there were several falls in each of the three races over the jumps, while in the flat running events some of the horses bolted off the course just when they appeared to have good chances of getting into the money. Tommy Wright was spilled in the Committee Steeplechase, but sustained only a bruised shoulder.

In the first race Humility, Astute, and Eadbald all took croppers. The first named, which was running in the colors of J. E. Davis, lost his rider at the first fence. Astute, belonging to C. R. Fleischmann, crashed into the wing of the third jump, while Peter G. Gerry's Eadbald met with a similar mishap when he reached the seventh barrier around the course. Luckily none of the riders was injured. In the fifth race Palmer, a professional jockey, with the mount on El Bart, racing in the silks of J. E. Widener of Philadelphia, was making what appeared to be a winning bid when his horse stumbled in the brush, throwing him heavily.

The fourth race was the scene of the first disqualification which has been inflicted in some time, and which resulted in the displacement of Wells Clarke's Einar, which had won the Hollis Handicap at six furlongs by a nose from A. C. Blume's Sickle.

The most stirring finish was seen when Reybourn, the choice in the sprint handicap, in which he carried 172 pounds, got up in the last stride under the able handling of Harry Tucker, who beat his brother Johnny, on Culvert, an eyelash, after apparently being out of it, having come from far back in the last eighth of a mile. Still another of the Tuckers, Eddie, scored brackets when he brought Willing home first for the La Montagne Memorial Plate, at a mile and a quarter, when he beat Robert L. Gerry's Footlights a length. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—The Turf and Field Hurdle Plate, about a mile and a half. Won by J. O. Talbott's b. g. Syosset, (Tuckey,) 137 pounds, 5 to 1, 8 to 5, and 3 to 5; H. W. Warner's br. m. Faultless, (Mr. Alpers,) 159, 5 to 1, 8 to 5, and 3 to 5, second; N. K. Beal's b. g. Frijolee, (Howard,) 137, 15 to 1, 5 to 1, and 2 to 1, third. Humility, Astute, and Eadbald fell. Won by one length, same between second and third. No time taken.

SECOND RACE.—The Committee Steeplechase Cup, about two miles and a half. Won by Allan Pinkerton's b. g. Windrow, (Mr. B. Lewis,) 165 pounds, 6 to 1 and 8 to 5; Greentree Stable's br. g. Web Carter, (Mr. C. Appleton,) 165, 5 to 2 and 3 to 5, second; George Willing, Jr.'s, b. g. Zarda, (Mr. H. Lee,) 162, 6 to 1 and 8 to 5, third. Adventurer also ran. Two Saints fell. Won by thirty lengths, twenty lengths between second and third. No time taken.

THIRD RACE.—The Galloway Handicap; about four furlongs. Won by Fred Johnson's b. g. Reybourn, (H. Tucker,) 172 pounds, 1 to 2 and out; A. Ludlow Kramer's b. g. Culvert, (J. Tucker,) 167, 7 to 2 ar. 7 to 0, second; B. K. Gatin's b. m. Live Wire, (B. K. Gatin,) 140, 7 to 1, 2 to 1, and 4 to 5, third. Jack Code, Kinderhook, Mollie Gibson, Sir Gaze, and Vera Kessler also ran. Won by a nose, one length between second and third. No time taken.

FOURTH RACE.—The Hollis Handicap Plate; about six furlongs. Won by A. C. Blume's b. g. Sickle, (T. Davies,) 108 pounds, 2 to 1 and 7 to 10; Paul D. Cravath's b. g. Johnny, (Hoffman,) 90, 15 to 1, 5 to 1, and 2 to 1, second; F. Ambrose Clark's b. f. Doriski, (Nicklaus,) 98, 30 to 1, 8 to 1, and 3 to 1, third. Capt. Matlock and Travel Light also ran. Flying Yankee and Star Gaze bolted. Einar finished first, but was disqualified. Won by three lengths, a head between second and third. No time taken.

FIFTH RACE.—The Queens Open Steeplechase; about two miles. Won by F. W. Sargent, Jr.'s, b. g. Big Sandy, (F. A. Alpers,) 146 pounds, 5 to 1, 2 to 1, and even; Greentree Stable's ch. f. Boisterous, (O'Brien,) 141, 2 to 1 and 4 to 5, second; J. E. Davis's br. f. Himation, (Murphy,) 139, 3 to 1, even, and 1 to 2, third. Roland Pardee and Ed Rotan also ran. El Bart fell. Zellwood bolted. Won by six lengths, two lengths between second and third. No time taken.

SIXTH RACE. — La Montagne Memorial Plate; about one mile and a quarter. Won by C. N. Williams's b. or br. g. Willing, (E. Tucker,) 160 pounds, 2 to 5 and out; R. L. Gerry's ch. g. Footlights, (E. C. Cowdin, 2d,) 147, 4 to 1 and 3 to 5, second; H. W. Warner's ch. g. Nosegay, (F. A. Alpers,) 160, 8 to 1 and even, third. Fred Essen also ran. Won by a length, three lengths between second and third. No time taken.

BRUSHING SEASON ENDS.

Silver Cups Presented to Point Winners on Speedway.

The brushing season between members of the Road Drivers' Association of New York, which began on the Harlem River Speedway on May 11 and consisted of eleven days' competition, concluded yesterday, following which was the presentation of seven sterling silver cups, awarded to the owners of the four highest point winning trotters and the three best pacers. The programme for the closing day was made up of the regular classes, the only noticeable change being the absence of Master McKerron, which two weeks ago clinched his right to the first cup of its division, and was withdrawn from further competition.

After the last race had been completed the members and friends returned to the clubhouse at the upper end of the stretch, where the presentation of cups was made by President Edward J. La Place, Hugh Reilly, owner of Bronson, which scored thirty-one points during the eleven matinees, was first to receive his trophy. I. V. Hunt, who last year furnished the champion pacer in Clover Patch, took the second cup for trotters with Fair Maiden, credited with twenty-nine points. The other two cups went to E. Carpenter's Tommy Baron and E. Shoemaker's Startle, with twenty-seven and twenty-five points respectively.

The champion pacer was President La Place's bay gelding Master McKerron. Second cup went to J. Chaimowitz's bay mare Ouida.

English Polo Manager to Sail.

Special to The New York Times.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., June 25.—Capt. E. D. Miller, manager of the English polo team, left the Piping Rock Club here today, preparatory to sailing for England tomorrow. Aside from the unsatisfactory result of the big match, from the Englishman's point of view, he expressed himself as having enjoyed his stay in America during the past six weeks. Among other expressions of appreciation, he left behind him a letter addressed to Spencer Fishe, polo secretary of the club, in which he emphasized gratitude for the way in which Mr. Fishe had facilitated the comfort of the visitors and generally had made himself invaluable in looking after details attendant on the English team's stay at the club.

WESTBURY, L. I., June 25.—Polo took on an impetus to-day in the tournament being played at the Meadow Brook Club on the international field here this afternoon in three separate games. The first match was between the Great Neck Grasshoppers and the Cooperstown Leopards, the latter winning with the score of 10 to 5. Great Neck beat Cooperstown in the next game with a score of 8½ to 7½. In the third event the Meadow Brook Freeboters eliminated the Great Neck Freebooters from the tournament by 9¾ to 5¾.

YACHTS IN DEAD HEAT.

Acushia and Spartan on Even Terms in Seawanheaka-Corinthian Regatta

Two yachts of the New York Yacht Club fifty-foot one-design class sailed a race of 15¼ miles in the annual regatta of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club on Long Island Sound, off Oyster Bay, yesterday, and finished in a dead heat. Their foremasts were exactly on the line between a white flag on the committee boat and Spar Buoy H 1, which denoted the finish, at 3:54:20, and this fact was noted ont only by the race committee but also by several men on board the committee boat who have been trained to the observance of finishes of yacht races. The thing has occurred only once before in the history of yacht racing on Long Island Sound, and that was at Larchmont five or six years ago in a class of small boats.

The two yachts that finished on even terms yesterday were Acushia, owned by G. M. Heckscher, and Spartan, owned by Edmund Randolph, sailed by their owners.

Before the 50-footers were sent away the two racing schooners of Class B, Irolita and Elena, were started; the former sailed by her owner, E. Walter Clark, and the latter by Capt. "Bill" Dennis, with John F. Lovejoy as chief of the after guard. Irolita got the windward position as the whistle blew, but Elena footed the faster, and easily ran through her competitor's lee. Also she got her light sails to drawing more quickly, and maintained her lead throughout the race. The schooners sailed twice around a triangle leading across the Sound, then to the eastward, and thence home, and because of the change of wind got two windward legs on the first round. When they started on the second round Elena had more than two minutes and a half the advantage, and this she increased to five minutes at the finish.

Four Class P boats made a fairly close start, with Windward leading, but in the middle of the bunch, Josephine in windward position, and Joyant to leeward, but close up to the others, and Corinthian astern. Addison Hanan brought Josephine home more than four minutes ahead of Joyant. There were only two of the New York 30-footers at the starting line—Nepsi, sailed by Mrs. Johnston Forest, and Phryne, with William Nichols, brother of the owner, at the helm, and at the finish Mrs. De Forest had the better of it by nearly four minutes. Of the handicap class there were four boats at the line; one of the first division and three of the third. There were also one of the Larchmont interclub class and Flicker of about the same size, from Stamford, without competitors, and so the committee grouped the six in a mixed class race, at the same time giving the three third division boats a race for themselves. Gypsy was the winner in the mixed race, and to Natoma fell the honors of the third handicap division. Iris and Star Faraway won in the Seawanhaka one-design class and the star class respectively.

NEW MOTOR CYCLE RECORD.

Philadelphia Rider Sets Faster Mark in Thirty-Mile Brighton Race.

Billy Vanderbury of Philadelphia led a field of six of the fastest professional motor cyclists campaigning at Brighton Beach over the finish line last night in the thirty-mile race which featured the card. In covering the ninety laps on a track wet by a heavy mist the speedy Quaker established a new track record of 22:41 4-5. The best previous mark for the distance on the Brighton Beach saucer was 24:00, made last year by Johnny Albright of Denver.

In the five-mile professional handicap Arthur Chapple of New York, after conceding 1 lap and 200 yards to a field of four starters, finished second. Martin Kessler of Newark just beat the New Yorker across the finish line by inches. Summary:

Two-Mile, Novice.—Won by Franz Krebs, Newark; Phillip Kearney, New York, second; Chester Hagan, Brooklyn, third. Time—1:31 2-5.

Three-Mile Professional.—Won by Paul Ohne, Brooklyn; Billy Vanderbury, Philadelphia, second; Ray Veditz, Philadelphia, third. Time—2:13.

Five-Mile Professional, Handicap.—Won by Martin Kessler, Newark, N. J., (1 lap, 200 yards;) Arthur Chapple, New York, (scratch,) second; Paul Ohne, Brooklyn, (1 lap, 200 yards,) third. Time—3:22.

Thirty-Mile Professional Championship.—Won by Billy Vanderbury, Philadelphia; Hartley Thomas, Philadelphia, second; Paul Ohne, Brooklyn, third. Time—22:41 4-5.

ATHLETES ARE WARNED.

Probability of a Split Between Y. M. C. A. of New York and A. A. U.

Announcement was made yesterday by the officers of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union that registered athletes of the A. A. U., who desire to continue as such, as well as those who may wish to compete in future A. A. U. games, are warned against competing in the games of the Albany Y. M. C. A. on Independence Day, as they have not received sanction from the Metropolitan Association.

Cyclists, as well, have been warned not to take part in the games, as according to the articles of alliance between the A. A. U. and National Cyclists' Association, the latter must take heed of suspensions inflicted by the athletic body and vice versa. Members of the Albany Y. M. C. A. have been informed that if they compete in the games they will be unable to take part in future open or closed games of the Y. M. C. A.

It is stated that if the Young Men's Christian Association insists on this meeting the Metropolitan Association will expel the entire Y. M. C. A. League of the State of New York unless the league expels the Albany branch for its infraction of the laws.

FOREIGN BOXERS IN RING.

Platts Wins for England, but Thomas of France Loses.

The foreign boxing element was represented in the three ten-round bouts last night at St. Nicholas Rink. Gus Platts, the Sheffield Blade, easily defeated Tommy Maloney of the west side in the wind-up of ten rounds. Marcel Thomas, the French welterweight, lost to Young Hickey of Harlem after a lively ten-round session, and the contest between Young Brown and Young Dyson went the limit, with the honors in favor of the former.

Rev. Father M. P. Heffernan, rector of the Catholic Church at Sayville, L. I., yesterday was granted a license to conduct the Sayville Athletic Club. The license was granted by the New York State Athletic Commission at its regular weekly meeting. Father Heffernan will open his new clubhouse for the young men of all creeds and denominations on July 4, when he will present a series of matches. The priest is collaborated by clergymen of different denominations, including Rev. William Jenkins, Congregational; Rev. John Prescott, Episcopal, and Rev. Henry Ziller of the Lutheran Churches.

M'LOUGHLIN SCORES NOTABLE VICTORY

American Tennis Champion Defeats British Crack Player in Three Straight Sets.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25.—Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, and national singles tennis champion of the United States, to-day scored a notable victory in the third round of the English lawn tennis championship, defeating T. M. Mavrogordato, one of the leading British players, by three straight sets, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2. The match was the leading feature of a series of contests between many of the players expected to figure in the semi-finals, and the centre court, where the young American champion defeated the old Oxford "Blue," was the mecca of the largest contingent of the gallery. The battle, however, failed to furnish the close struggle which had been anticipated, and served to improve McLoughlin's prospects of capturing the championship. Other matches, especially between the American, German, South African, Canadian, and English Davis Cup teams attracted much attention.

James C. Parke, the hero of the last Davis Cup competitions, beat A. E. Beamish, another member of the British Davis team in 1911 by three sets to one. Stanley N. Doust, the Australasian Davis Cup player, defeated P. M. Dawson by three sets to two.

R. B. Powell, the Captain of the Canadian Davis Cup team, beat R. A. Gamble in three straight sets. B. P. Schwengers of British Columbia, the Canadian champion, won from R. J. McNair by three sets to one. G. A. Caridia, England, was victorious over W. G. Milburn by three sets to one, and A. S. Lowe beat J. Robinson by three sets to none.

In the first round of the English doubles championship, which was started to-day, Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia and G. Zinn beat R. A. Gamble and B. O. Roe by three sets to one, the score being 3—6, 6—3, 6—2, 8—6. The American player was handicapped by having a weak partner. Otherwise his victory would have been an easier one.

The Canadians, B. P. Schwengers and G. H. Mayes, were beaten in the doubles by the English players A. D. Prebble and G. A. Thomas. They lost the first two sets by 6—2, 6—2, and then retired.

The German Davis Cup players, Friedrich Wilhelm Rahe and Heinrich Kleinschroth, won their match in the first round of the doubles, beating Count Salm and N. S. B. Kidson by three sets to one.

HOLCOMBE WARD LOSES.

Touchard Defeats Former Champion in Middle States Tourney.

Holcombe Ward, the former national tennis champion, was defeated yesterday in the fourth round of the Middle States championship in men's singles on the Orange Tennis Club courts at Mountain, N. J. Ward's previous playing in the tournament had led to the belief that he might come successfully through, but he was unable to meet the gruelling pace set by Gustave F. Touchard of the West Side Club, and succumbed after three hard sets, 3—6, 7—5, 6—2.

The summary:

Middle States Championship, Men's Singles, Third Round.—W. P. Burden defeated R. R. Booraem, 6—0, 6—2; W. S. McKim defeated M. Ogden, 4—6, 6—4, 6—0; Walter Merrill Hall defeated G. A. L. Dionne, 6—2, 6—3; W. M. Washburn defeated R. P. Bennett, 6—3, 6—1.

LEDYARD GOES OVER THE T. C. & I. DEAL

GARY DIDN'T WANT TO BUY

Frick, Too, Was Unwilling, and Morgan Recommended It Only to End the 1907 Panic.

The theory of the Government in the suit for the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation that banking interests affiliated with it put a "squeeze" on Moore & Schley in the panic of 1907, in order to compel them to sell to it the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, gained no support yesterday from Lewis Cass Ledyard, who was called as a witness for the defense.

The immediate occasion of the sale was that the banks were calling loans on Moore & Schley that were secured by T. C. & I. stock, demanding the substitution of other collateral. Mr. Ledyard said that among those to whom Moore & Schley owed large sums of money were J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National Bank, and the Chase National Bank. None of these, he said, had asked Moore & Schley to pay up or to put something else in place of their T. C. & I. collateral.

He also made it plain that the negotiations for the sale were begun not by the United States Steel Corporation or J. P. Morgan & Co., but by Grant B. Schley, who said there was no other way to save his firm from failure.

The Government has made much of its contention that Moore & Schley did not own a majority of the stock of the Tennessee Company. On this point Mr. Ledyard had no exact information, but he said it was understood throughout the negotiations that it was a majority interest that was to be sold. The stock owned by his client, Col. Oliver H. Payne, went with the other holdings, but he did not think it was needed to make up a majority.

Col. Payne had owned only 10,000 shares out of a total of 300,000, but subsequently came into possession of 15,000 more, which he had taken as security for standard stocks loaned to Moore & Schley, the transaction afterward being turned into a permanent exchange. This gave Col. Payne a total of 25,000 shares. Other minority holders were taken in on the same terms as Moore & Schley and the syndicates.

Mr. Ledyard told again, as he had before the Stanley Committee, of his part in the events that led up to the transfer of the Tennessee property. He said he had never been attorney for J. P. Morgan & Co., the United States Steel Corporation, or Moore & Schley.

"I never did any professional business for Mr. Morgan," he added, "except a short time ago to draw his will. That was a friendly service, not a professional one, either."

He came into the matter as attorney for Col. Payne, to whom Moore & Schley were heavily indebted. After the brokerage firm had been put on its feet, Mr. Schley sent him a check as an "honorarium," which he accepted.

Col. Payne called his attention to the condition of Moore & Schley in the week beginning Oct. 21, 1907, saying that they were very much extended and had a great quantity of T. C. & I. stock, which was regarded as a pooled or pegged stock and, therefore, had become unavailable as collateral. Mr. Ledyard explained in passing that a pegged stock was not the subject of any general transactions, so that if it were thrown on the market suddenly there was nobody to make a market for it.

It was on Friday of the following week, Nov. 1, that Mr. Schley asked Mr. Ledyard to come to his office and told him that Col. Payne had suggested that he ask Mr. Ledyard to see J. P. Morgan and ascertain whether the Steel Corporation would not buy the stock. Mr. Schley told him his loans amounted to $33,000,000 or $35,000,000. He saw Mr. Morgan at his library the next morning, and E. H. Gary and H. C. Frick were sent for. Mr. Morgan expressed himself as greatly concerned. Judge Gary was very averse to making the purchase, saying the stock was not worth more than 60 or 65, whereas it would have to bring par to let Moore & Schley out.

"I told Judge Gary," said Mr. Ledyard, "that it was not a question of what it was worth, if they were going to do this thing, but a question of how much it was necessary to pay if they wanted to save Moore & Schley and avoid the very serious results that would follow their failure. 'I don't doubt,' I said, 'that if you wait you can buy it for 25 cents on the dollar, but I don't think, when that time comes, if this situation is not saved, the Steel Corporation will be buying anything at any price.'"

According to Mr. Ledyard, Mr. Morgan exerted no pressure to bring about the purchase. While he was talking with Mr. Morgan in his library on Sunday, he said Mr. Morgan said:

"I have done what I can. I never have been more concerned over a situation than I am over this. I think this is the most serious thing we have had to meet in this panic yet. I cannot urge it upon the Steel Corpjoration to take this property. I have done what I can. I have put it before them. I hope they will do it, because I hope for the safety that that will bring in saving the situation."

Mr. Ledyard quoted Mr. Frick as saying:

"If we do this thing, it is for the purpose of saving the financial situation. Here are these trust companies in trouble and if they fail it will bring about the same results as the failure of Moore & Schley. I think we ought to lend our aid to Moore & Schley conditioned upon the safety of these trust companies being first secured."

Mr. Ledyard told him such a condition was impossible and one thing must be done at a time.

Thomas Gordon Crawford, President of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company since its acquisition in 1907, testified as to the run-down condition of the property when it was taken over and the expenditure of nearly $20,000,000 in making it efficient and profitable.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

A recent order of the Government of Colombia imposes a surtax of 5 per cent. of the declared value on merchandise imported by parcel post. The importer is required, under penalty of an additional surtax, to present an invoice of the goods.

British railway receipts for the first twenty weeks of 1913, covering fifty-one principal lines, increased nearly $30,000,000 over 1912, according to Consul Halstead of Birmingham, England.

Consul General W. L. Lowrie, Lisbon, has forwarded a general report on the patent and trade-mark laws of Portugal, copies of which are on file in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The report contains a list of the official agents for the registration of patents and trade marks.

German exports amounted to $378,000,000 in January and February of this year, against $312,000,000 and $207,000,000 in the same periods of 1912 and 1911.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Bi-faced ribbons are now contenders for the leadership in Fall styles. In these goods satin ribbons with moire backs and similar effects are shown. Most of those now offered here are made abroad, but it is expected that American manufacturers will take them up generally as soon as a demand is assured.

Purchasers of imported sardines will have to pay high for this luxury this Summer. The Norwegian catch is a failure. French catches are unfavorable, and the general run in Portugal consists of large fish.

A heavy demand for all kinds of pile fabrics is reported from the Middle West. Style tendencies favor these goods generally for Fall and Winter, and their prices make them attractive to consumers.

MOTOR TRUCK TALK FOR CONTRACTORS

Mechanical Haulage Discussed at Meeting of Motor Truck Club—Used Cars.

All the leading contractors within a hundred miles of New York City were invited to attend the monthly meeting of the Motor Truck Club, which was held last night at the Hotel Cumberland, and to join in the discussion of the evening, the subject of which was "Motor Trucks and the Contracting Business." The speakers included C. A. Crane, National Secretary of the General Contractors' Association; R. W. Hutchinson, Jr., and others. Mr. Crane's association is said to represent at the present time a total capitalization of $250,000,000. Its members hold contracts valued at $534,000,000 and operate 1,700 teams daily.

Mr. Crane emphasized the necessity and value of service before and after installation, if the motor truck was to become the factor that it could be in contracting operations. He said in part:

"I am firmly of the opinion that there is a great future for motor trucks in this field—but you are not reaching it by selling a man a machine for $5,000 or $6,000 and then leaving him alone to experiment with it. It's up to you to do the experimenting, the educating—not the purchaser. The machinery men who handle contractors' plants follow up a sale and find out if the machine is the best suited to the particular conditions—and they make it their business to see that it gives satisfaction. They will install a new device subject to approval before purchase and the same methods are necessary on your part. The contractors' problem which can be solved by the motor truck must be worked out by you."

The motor truck is making one of its strongest appeals in contracting work of various sorts, since operations of this kind, if carefully organized, give it an especially favorable opportunity to demonstrate its economies over the horse-drawn equipment of the past. In a number of the big engineering operations at present in progress in the city and vicinity power wagons are being used with great success. Many of them are employed in arduous service that would be beyond the combined strength of several teams of horses. Mechanical haulage is widely used in the work on the Catskill Aqueduct, and much of the material excavated in the construction of the new subways is hauled by motor truck. Some of the trucks work on a practically continuous schedule, drivers being supplied in shifts, and in this way their economies are made especially manifest. Some of the hauls which these vehicles perform without flinching would be quite out of the question for horses.

A comparatively new business has just been started here in connection with the motor truck. A company has been formed to supply merchants and others who have deliveries to make or transportation problems to meet with motorized service. The vehicles are to belong to the company and be maintained and cared for entirely by it. The individual trucks, of capacities to suit the requirements, will bear, however, the advertising matter of the concern that hires them, and be for its exclusive service. The leasing company is to supply drivers as well as machines, and to maintain an inspection system to insure faithful work on the part of the drivers. The enterprise, which is called the Atlantic Transportation Company, plans to relieve the merchant of the responsibilities of ownership, and will, if desired, purchase his present motor wagon equipment and give him with it the service outlined.

⁂

With the coming into the market of the 1914 models, 1913 and 1912 model motor cars are entering the used car field, according to one of the dealers on "Automobile Row." The demand for 1912 cars is heavier than that for 1913, since the latter, being still of the current year, command higher prices. The two-year-old car of to-day is commanding a better price than the two-year-old car of five years ago, it is reported, since changes have been less and less radical of late years, and 1912 cars are still both serviceable and stylish. The principal demand in the used car market at present is said to be for light cars, of which the supply is somewhat limited.

The A. A. A. Touring Information Bureau has been informed by the Automobile Club of Maryland that the two principal trunk lines in that State—from the Delaware border to Havre de Grace, Baltimore, and the District of Columbia line; and from Baltimore to Frederick, Hagerstown, and Cumberland—are being greatly improved. It is expected that the whole route to and from the West will be in excellent condition by December, 1914. The worst piece of road on the Old National Pike between Baltimore and Wheeling—the ten miles near Hancock—is now being dragged and put in fairly good shape. The large foundation stones, which have caused much injury and trouble to cars since the surface has been worn off the road, are being broken up, and holes deepened by long neglect are being filled.

Between Elkton and Perryville, Md., a concrete road is nearing completion, and will open early next month. This stretch is part of the short line between Wilmington and Baltimore, and its improvement will, therefore, benefit the many motorists who make the trip from New York to Washington. In the past there has been much trouble in this section, which is low lying land, just east of the Susquehanna River. The road from Washington through Rockville, Frederick, Thurmont, and Emmitsburg to Gettysburg has been much improved.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Parade Ordinance Not Yet Passed.

The plea of the Fifth Avenue Association for the enactment of an ordinance limiting parades on that thoroughfare, below Fifty-ninth Street, to those of patriotic or civil character has not yet been granted by the Board of Aldermen. It was expected by members of the association that action in the matter would be taken by the Aldermen at their meeting on Tuesday, but becaue of the shortness of that session the matter was not brought up. Now no action is expected before July 1. According to R. G. Coke, President of the association, the delay should be beneficial, as it will give the members of the association more time in which to interest other persons in the movement. The contention of the association in asking for the enactment of the ordinance is that business is brought to a complete standstill along Fifth Avenue every time that street is given up to a procession.

Trying to Prevent Accidents.

The National Association of Manufacturers is keeping up an active campaign of education to prevent industrial accidents. In the last three or four years the association has spent nearly $50,000 in this work. It plans to send this Summer a six-car railroad train from New York through the principal industrial centres of the country, which will show by exhibits, motion pictures, and printed matter the dangers of industrial occupations and the best ways to avoid them.

⁂

Educational Projects Popular.

According to The American Machinist, one of the greatest changes that has taken place in the relations of employers and employes in the last ten years is in the matter of education. This is not so much the case with apprentices and other younger employes as with adult workmen. Lectures on shop topics and educational classes were practically unknown in the American industries ten years ago. Many such agencies are now employed in the better class of shops and factories in this country.

⁂

Artificial Marble Produced Abroad.

Considerable interest is shown abroad in the invention of a process for producing a substitute for all kinds of marble. The substitute is said successfully to take the place of the most expensive Italian, Egyptian, and Slazburg stone. According to Consul W. J. Pike of Reichenberg, Austria, the claim is made that this artificial product is superior to genuine marble. It is said to be stronger and less likely to crack. In working, boring, or in installation the danger of injury is much less than in the case of real marble. The cost of the substitute approximates one-third of the cost of real marble. The imitation marble is made partly by hand and partly by machinery. Cuttting and polishing operations are already being carried on in Vienna, Berlin, Mannheim, and Hamburg, and sales of patent rights in various countries of Europe are being made.

Lumber Is Washed Now.

A new commercial idea is the washing of lumber. Lumber which has acquired a deposit of silt, either from floods or other causes, is unsalable, but it has proved practicable to launder it. This puts the lumber in a marketable condition. The lumber is first put in a tank filled with clear water. It then is passed between rollers containing stiff bristles. Water is played over both the lumber and the rollers while this is being done. After this washing the lumber is in condition for shipment. Mills in districts which suffer from high water are especially helped by this lumber laundry idea.

BUSINESS NOTES.

More silk firms have announced their intention of remaining closed all day on Saturday, July 5. Among them are the Ashley & Bailey Company, B. Edmund David, Passavant & Co., Spielmann & Co., William Skinner & Son, the C. J. Bonnet-Kobbe Company, S. J. Aronsohn, Inc., and the China and Japan Trading Company.

Exports of domestics and cotton duck from this port last week totaled 7,519 packages, and were valued at $537,348. Aside from some good sales of heavy brown sheetings to China, the week's business was without feature.

The Jay Company, resident buyers, 116 West Thirty-second Street, has obtained the account of "Hillman's," Chicago.

A plan has been formulated by the Directors of the Sweater and Fancy Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association to provide against strikes in that industry. It will shortly be submitted to the members of the association for consideration. If approved, the plan will be put into effect immediately.

The City's Temporary Financing, June 14 to 21, Inclusive.

	Corporate Stock Notes.	Revenue Bds. and Bills.	Special Rev. Bonds.
Issued	$25,000.00	$1,055,218.30
Redeemed	4,702,500.00	11,383,334.95	$350,000.00

There was a further decrease of $15,000,000 in the city's temporary indebtedness last week and only $4,500,000 of corporate stock notes remains outstanding. Revenue bonds and bills have been cut down to a little over $41,000,000. As against these operations was a sale of $9,200,000 of corporate stock to the sinking funds.

The sinking funds also fell heir to the last bond out of those sold in the $45,000,000 issue of May 20. The subscriber for this bond of $100 failed to pay for it and lost his deposit of $2. It was sold to the sinking funds for $100 and a premium of 35 cents, as indicated in the City Chamberlain's statement.

The item of redemption of city debt, chiefly special revenue bonds, includes $2,625 paid for bonds issued by the towns of Northfield and Westfield, Staten Island, before their consolidation with the city. Many of these old obligations remain outstanding, some of which will not mature for years, but the aggregate amount is comparatively small.

The sinking funds, although they received $5,000,000 from the redemption of corporate stock notes and revenue bonds held by them, showed a decrease in cash for the first time in the last few weeks because of the purchase of the $9,200,000 of bonds. They still hold, however, a balance of $28,000,000 to be invested as the city needs the money.

DYE TRUST SUITS LEGAL.

Court So Rules in Cases Against Germans for Damages.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Judge Thompson, in the United States District Court, to-day refused to set aside service of the writs of subpoena in the suits of James Dobson and other textile manuafcturers against the German "Dye Trust," recently instituted to recover damages for alleged violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

The decision affirms the right to sue the combination in this country. The service of the subpoenas was attacked on the ground that the return of service did not show that the Farbenfabriken of Elberfeld Company, one of the principal defendants, was transacting business or had an office or place of business in Pennsylvania, or state that the writ was served upon any officer or agent of the corporation.

Judge Thompson holds that sufficient domiciliary proof is supplied through the connection of the German company with its New York selling subsidiary.

To Study School Ventilation.

ALBANY, June 25.—A commission to make a study of ventilating school buildings was appointed by Gov. Sulzer to-day. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Anderson has contributed $50,000 to the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor for such an inquiry. The Commissioners are Prof. Charles C. E. A. Winslow, Chairman; Prof. Edward Lee Thorndike, Prof. James Alexander Miller, Prof. Frederic S. Lee, Prof. Earl B. Phelps, and D. E. Kimball.

GAS NOTES AT 6 1-4.

Issue of $15,000,000 Eight-Months Taken by National City Bank.

The Consolidated Gas Company of New York has sold to the National City Bank $15,000,000 eight-months 6 per cent. collateral gold notes. The notes are a direct credit obligation of the company and are additionally secured by a pledge of $15,000,000 New York Edison Company 6 per cent. stock. They are being offered to investors at a price to yield 6¼ per cent.

The company has a note issue of $5,000,000 maturing on Aug. 1, and the proceeds of the sale will be used in part to retire this obligation. The remainder will be used to reimburse the company for expenditures made during the year in extending the lighting and power plant at Astoria.

By far the largest part of the $4,000,000 will go toward betterments. The receivers' certificates will be in amounts of $1,000 and multiples thereof and will bear 6 per cent. interest. Interest will be paid semi-annually, the first payment on the new loans being made Feb. 1, 1914.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Reaction in Stocks—More Note Issues—Union Pacific Agreement Reached.

More interest was taken yesterday in the progress of the negotiations in respect to the dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger than in any other development, but the market acted independently of the news in that matter. Both Union Pacific and Southern Pacific closed slightly lower than they had on Thursday, although during the last hour of trading news was received from Washington that the Attorney General had announced that an understanding had been arrived at between himself and the Union Pacific representatives. The details of the agreement were not made known here, although yesterday's morning dispatches from Washington indicated that the exchange of Southern Pacific for Baltimore & Ohio stock would be approved and that the balance of the Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific would be trusteed. Report had it that this trust would be established for the period of a year, during which the stock would be liquidated in one form or another. It was believed that the plan would permit of other exchanges of Southern Pacific stock for other stocks should the Union Pacific find it possible to make arrangements with other railroads similar to that which it has made with the Pennsylvania. Yesterday's announcement by the Attorney General was in line with the expectations of the financial community, but it should rightfully be regarded as news of much consequence to the market, inasmuch as it does away with the possibility of a sudden sale of this great block of Southern Pacific stock. It is a happier outcome than some of the Union Pacific interests, until recently, felt safe in counting upon.

New financing came in for a considerable share of attention because of the issues which were announced during the day. Two local companies put out short term notes, and it was known, too, of course, that the State of Tennessee was making arrangements for the notes which it is to issue to take up its maturing obligations. That indeed was the main purpose of the other note issues as well. From another angle the same general subject received attention because of the naming of a committee to act for the holders of a railway note issue which falls due on July 1. While high rates are being paid for money, which corporations and others are under necessity of borrowing, cash continues to flow into the New York banks on a large scale. This points to an ultimate change in conditions which will make easier the financing of corporation needs. The very fact that yesterday's note issues were for very short periods, one for six months and the other for eight months, suggested a well-defined belief on the part of those managing the finances of the companies concerned that much better opportunity than exists now will be offered next Winter for the raising of capital in more permanent form. The interesting feature of the day's information from the foreign money markets was contained in the statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany, which again showed a large increase in its gold holdings, the gain this time amounting to $8,800,000. The German quest for gold has affected other markets than London. Yesterday the Bank of the Netherlands increased its rate from 4 per cent. to 5 per cent. The Bank of Germany enters the semi-annual settlement period in an exceptionally strong position.

The stock market as a whole underwent reaction, but in only a few stocks did the declines run to any length, and these were largely offset by exceptional gains in other parts of the list. Money did not go to as low a figure as Tuesday, but the action of the money market contained no indication that the July 1 requirements would cause any important advance in call rates. The supply of that form of money is so abundant, and the stock market requirements at present are so small, that it seemed probable that the money market would remain entirely tranquil over the first of July. There is considerable borrowing demand for stocks, which lessens Stock Exchange money needs.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 1¾@2½ per cent., with the last loan at 2 per cent. The renewal rate was 2 per cent.

Time money rates were 4@4¼ per cent. for sixty days, 4¼@4½ per cent. for ninety days, 4½@4¾ per cent. for four months, 4¾@5 per cent. for five months, 5@5¼ per cent. for six months, and 5½@6 per cent. for seven months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $247,802,412; balances, $11,437,853; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $1,079,884.

The local banks have lost $4,927,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4 7-16@4½ per cent. for short and three months' bills; Paris, 3¾ per cent., and Berlin, 5⅝@5¾ per cent. Money was 3¼@3½ per cent. in London and 4½ per cent. in Berlin.

BANK OF GERMANY.

BERLIN, June 25.—The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows the following changes:

	Marks.
Cash in hand increased	48,532,000
Loans decreased	7,030,000
Discounts decreased	40,592,000
Treasury bills decreased	11,764,000
Notes in circulation decreased	21,067,000
Deposits increased	83,156,000
Gold in hand increased	35,417,000

The report foreshadows further heavy gold imports. The item of miscellaneous assets, under which advances to bankers on gold to be imported are booked, registered the unusual gain of $18,500,000. The gold stock has already reached the record height of $278,750,000.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Industrial Company Loans.

Industrial companies which are supplied with cash in excess of working capital requirements are reported as heavy lenders of money. The financial district heard yesterday that the Standard Oil Company had been putting out its surplus funds from time to time lately on a 5¼ per cent. interest basis for a six-months' period. The collateral received as security was comprised of railroad stocks entirely of the dividend-paying classes instead of the conventional "mixed" collateral of railroad and industrial securities. The Republic Iron and Steel Company was said to be another lender to the extent of several million dollars, and there have been well-established rumors since the first of the month that some of the leading automobile making companies have put out much time money in Wall Street.

Railroad Construction in Canada.

If the railroads don't get money soon there is likely to be an exodus of engineers and contractors across the Canadian border, where construction work is still being authorized. The Canadian Pacific is going ahead on its double-tracking and extensions without any apparent let-up. A contract for building a double-track five-mile tunnel through the Selkirk Mountains nearly 500 feet below the present tracks over the Pass gives evidence that the Canadian Pacific may be able to make good its boast of a two-track system from ocean to ocean by the time the Panama Canal is formally opened.

⁂

A Humorist-Banker.

The telephone plays strange tricks with proper names sometimes, as, for instance, with a list of bankers' names put out by one of the news tickers yesterday. Among representative bankers who were to see the President on currency matters was "Abe Martin Hepburn," according to this authority. "A. Barton Hepburn" might be nearer right, but it is all the same on the telephone.

C. & O. at 53 Again.

In an irregular market yesterday Chesapeake & Ohio set out with the apparent idea of making a new low record. From 55⅝ it sold down to 53, at which figure it just equaled its low record for this year, made on June 10, but at that point a slight rally occurred, carrying the price back to 53⅝. In connection with the decline, and a resumption of stories bearing on a possible cut in the dividend, it was estimated yesterday that the road would earn this year 5.25 per cent. on its stock, or practically just the amount called for by the dividend payments. The company was helped in its showing by extra dividends declared by the Hocking Valley and the Kanawha & Michigan. The Chesapeake & Ohio itself is expected to earn $700,000 more in gross revenues this year, but operating costs will run about $1,700,000 larger, leaving a decrease of close to $1,000,000 in the net earnings.

Listings Few in Number.

The small number of new securities placed on the official Stock Exchange list yesterday, the last day that the Governing Committee was to meet in regular session before Fall, stood forth practically as a commentary on the size of the year's new listings. The Governors acted upon an unusually large amount of new issues at their final meeting last June, while only a single new issue was admitted yesterday, with one addition to an issue already on the board. The recess of the Governing Committee for the Summer does not mean, however, that no more securities will be formally admitted to the list until the committee gets together again. The Committee on Stock List is empowered by the higher organization to care for routine matters in the way of additions to existing issues which do not require special investigation.

A Theoretical Point of View.

From one angle the action yesterday of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange in rescinding parts of the constitution dealing with relations between the big and little boards should work to the increase of business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. This is from the theoretical point of view. Members of the New York Stock Exchange have had official permission to give to and receive from their contemporaries down Broad Street orders in stocks. The letter of the law has been obeyed. As a matter of fact, however, the old rule against transactions between the Exchanges came to an end when the law was passed last month, and whatever difference it brought in the relative volumes of trading by the two institutions was as much in evidence last week as it will be next week.

Brown Tired of Mexico.

Bankers who have been associated with President E. N. Brown of the National Railways of Mexico say that while it is true that he has submitted his resignation, they hope to be able to persuade him to continue his work. Mr. Brown's path, as one man put it, has not been a bed of roses, and he has enjoyed little appreciation for his arduous work of trying to rebuild tracks and bridges as fast as wandering bands of revolutionists destroyed them. The Board of Directors has not acted upon the President's resignation, and will probably not take any official notice of it until the Government authorities have considered it.

Steel Men Tire of Delay.

Steel manufacturers are growing anxious about the tariff, not in regard to the extent to which duties will be marked down so much as to the effect the new import charges will have on competition from abroad. In other words, they would like to have the schedule placed in operation at the earliest possible moment in order to end present suspense. They want to see what is going to happen. Prices of steel products, both finished and unfinished, on the Continent are lower than they were a month ago, and at that time they were not far from points where sales could be made along the Atlantic seaboard at a profit under the duties proposed in the new bill.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have announced that the public issue of Mexican Government 10-year 6 per cent. bonds in New York will take place on July 1. The total amount of the loan at present offered for public subscription is £6,000,000, divided as follows: £2,850,000 in France, £1,450,000 in England, and £1,700,000 in the United States, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland.

The Committee on Stock List of the New York Stock Exchange added these securities to the official list yesterday: $2,084,000 interim certificates of the Milwaukee & Northern Railroad Company extended 4½ per cent. bonds, and $4,500,000 additional common stock of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., of Delaware.

Jacob L. Greatsinger, formerly President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, has taken charge of development work of the Lakeview and Gold Dust Mining properties in British Columbia.

Carry-Over Arrangements Check Business in London—Firmness on Continent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, June 26.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The demand for money continued, but the market was under rather less pressure than on Tuesday. The Bank bid for a large business in loans for a week. Terms for short fixtures were a shade higher. Discount rates gave way, the market having become more anxious to obtain bills.

"The attention of the members of the Stock Exchange was occupied with carry-over arrangements yesterday, and new business was on a smaller scale than on the previous day. The rates of continuation were ¼ of 1 per cent. higher, as a general rule, the banks, as generally anticipated, charging ¼ of 1 per cent. more for loans for financing the account. The supply of money available was abundant. In the home railway market money brokers again had to deliver stock. At the opening the general tone of the markets was firm, but in the absence of support prices later in the day lost a part of the initial advance. Before the close the tone hardened again in some of the leading departments, but in practically all instances prices closed below the highest points of the day."

PARIS, June 25.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, June 25.—Prices were strong on the Boerse to-day.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

After showing firmness most of the day the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange turned heavy toward the close. There was some disappointment because no definite announcement regarding the Harriman dissolution matter was made. Chesapeake & Ohio was a specially weak feature with the downward movement in that stock accompanied by active trading. Opening prices on the 9:30 o'clock call reflected some irregularity, although the most prominent trading stocks showed gains compared with Tuesday's closing quotations.

UNION TRUST PAYS EXTRA.

Cash Dividend to Enable Subscriptions to New Capital.

The Union Trust Company of New York declared yesterday an extra cash dividend of $200 a share, totaling $2,000,000, to enable stockholders to subscribe to an increase in the capital stock. This is the first time the Union has paid a special dividend, and it was announced that the surplus now being distributed was accumulated more than twenty-five years ago.

The stockholders yesterday voted to increase the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000, and the Trustees then met to declare a special dividend of $200 a share in cash, payable June 30, in order to place the stockholders in funds to subscribe to their pro rata number of shares of the new stock.

The purpose of the declaration of the dividend and the increase in stock of the company is to effect a readjustment of its present capital and surplus. It was said that the distribution of accumulated surplus was in no sense an ordinary dividend paid out of current earnings. The dividend was declared out of the surplus accumulated prior to Jan. 1, 1887, and since that date continually employed in the business.

According to the last statement issued on June 4, the capital of the company was $1,000,000 and the surplus $7,398,000. After the completion of the increase of capital stock and payment of the dividend, the capital will be $3,000,000 and the surplus $5,389,000. The shares have been quoted at $1,200 bid and $1,240 asked.

EXCHANGES ON GOOD TERMS

Big Board Governors Abolish Discriminating Rule.

The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange, at their last meeting yesterday before the Summer recess, rescinded those sections of the constitution of the Exchange which forbade members to have any dealings with the Consolidated Stock Exchange. This action was taken to place the Stock Exchange in accord with the law passed by the Legislature early last month, which directed that no Exchanges in the State should discriminate in any way in business against the members of another Exchange.

The law does not go into effect until Sept. 1, but the Stock Exchange authorities decided to take cognizance of the measure in advance of its application. As a matter of fact, the rules of the Stock Exchange having to do with relations between the two boards have had no force since the bill was signed by Gov. Sulzer.

The Governors also voted favorably upon a petition prepared by members asking that the Exchange be closed for an extra holiday on July 5.

Kansas City Road Sale Delayed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 25.—Before an order of foreclosure decreeing the sale of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad, asked for last week by creditors of the company, can be granted, bankruptcy proceedings of the International and Union Construction Companies, which built the road, must be settled, according to a ruling by Federal Judge Pollock in Kansas City, Kan., to-day. It is said the steps will be taken immediately.

Boston & Albany to Sell Bonds.

ALBANY, June 25.—The Boston & Albany Railroad Company has been authorized by the Public Service Commission to issue $2,015,000 of its 25-year 5 per cent. improvement bonds of 1912, the proceeds to be used for improvements.

STEEL ORDERS FAIRLY GOOD

Though Consumers Are Holding Off to Close First Half of Year.

Discussing current developments in the iron and steel trade, The Iron Age says in its issue of to-day:

> The amount of business going on the books of the steel companies is more than would be looked for in view of the policy of so many buyers to avoid contracting beyond what is absolutely necessary. The railroads, in particular, owing to present restrictions on their financial plans, are for the most part limiting their iron and steel buying to the renewal of contracts for supplies required by their everyday operations. Some of these are just now coming in for the second half of the year.
>
> There is some rail inquiry, but new bridge and car work has been falling off. In addition to the Missouri, Kansas & Texas inquiry for 20,000 tons of rails for early 1914 rolling, and a tentative one from the Burlington for next year, is one for 28,000 tons from the Southern Railway, on which Bessemer or open-hearth rails will be taken.
>
> Consumers have not ceased to urge deliveries. That much is clear, and the way in which jobbers' stocks are being drawn down also indicates sustained consumption. Thirty days more may answer the question whether these jobbers will again place large orders with the mills.
>
> Pig iron prices have settled to a point at which more buyers are attracted.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> With the approaching close of the first half of the year many consumers who have been very reluctant in regard to placing orders for pig iron are now feeling the necessity of covering for their requirements and a largely increasing tonnage is pending. The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company has purchased from 25,000 to 30,000 tons of mixed foundry grades, chiefly Southern iron. This sale was not generally known, and soon after it was made considerable tonnage of Woodward iron was sold at $10, Birmingham, for No. 2. This low quotation was almost immediately withdrawn, and the prevailing price in the South is now $11. Some steel bar consumers are showing more active interest. A locomotive builder has closed for 5,000 tons and an implement maker in New York territory is figuring on from 10,000 to 15,000 tons. Coke prices have been remarkably well maintained. Some very large orders for bolts have been placed by railroads. Several new inquiries for rails for delivery in 1914 have appeared, making the tonnage pending for next year about 100,000.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat recovered from the early decline and closed at ⅛c. net decline to ⅛c. advance. Corn closed net unchanged to ¼c. higher. Oats final prices were ⅝ to ⅞c. net higher. Cotton closed from 15 to 22 points net higher.

WHEAT.

Price changes in the wheat market were again governed by various opinions regarding the crop situation in the Northwest and the weather. Early in the day there was considerable selling pressure as a result of good rains in Canada and over a portion of the Spring wheat belt. Under this selling the maket declined ⅞@1c from the previous close. There was considerable pressure of foreign wheat on the market. Broomhall cabled, however, that the supplies are not burdensome, but sufficient for present and near future requirements, but he predicted that July and August and part of September there would be a noticeable increase in the demand for imported wheat. After ranging around the early low point during the greater part of the day the market rallied late on a bullish report by The Price Current, closing at ⅛c net decline to ⅛c advance. The Price Current placed the prospective crop in Nebraska at 11,000,000 bushels more than last year and Kansas at 27,000,000 bushels less than a year ago, and placed the Spring wheat crop in the three Northwestern States at 205,000,000 bushels, compared with 203,000,000 harvested last year. In the local market No. 1 Northern Spring wheat was quoted at $1.01¾, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

The corn market declined ⅝c to ⅞c early on further rains over the belt and on a quite active liquidation on the part of recent buyers, but rallied late on The Price Current report, closing at net unchanged to ¼c higher. The report on corn by The Price Current, based on Government terms, ranged from 79 per cent. in Missouri to 96.1 per cent. in Nebraska. The local cash market was quiet, with export corn quoted at 67¾c, nominal, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The oats market declined early in sympathy with wheat and corn and on more favorable weather for the crop, but rallied sharply on The Price Current report, which indicated a sharp falling off in the indicated yield, and on a report by a prominent Western house, which estimated the recent loss to the crop at 30 per cent. The local cash market was steady; standard white quoted at 46½c to 47c; No. 2, 46c to 47½c; No. 3, 46c to 46½c; No. 4, 45c to 45½c; ordinary clipped white, 46c to 47c; fancy clipped white, 48c to 49c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

There were only small price changes in the market for hog products. The hog situation is the governing factor. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 30,000; estimated for Thursday, 26,000; Kansas City received 11,000, and Omaha 9,000.

COTTON.

The cotton market was more active yesterday, and prices advanced on renewed nervousness over the near positions and rather a less favorable condition report from a prominent Memphis authority than had been considered probable in view of recent optimistic figures. The market closed steady and from 15 to 22 points net higher. Friday will be the first July notice day in this market, and it is expected that the bulk of the local stock will be delivered, but the certificated supply here is less than 42,000 bales, and the trade is evidently more or less uncertain as to the extent of the remaining July interest. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were unchanged to ⅛c higher; generally unchanged.

The local street market for cotton was quiet and 20 points higher, at 12.50 for middling upland; sales nil.

COTTONSEED OIL.

New high records were again established in the cottonseed oil market, with all the old crop positions at the 8 cent level or slightly above. The strength in the cotton market also had considerable influence on sentiment, although the new crop positions were relatively easier than the near months. At the close prices were unchanged to 5 points net higher.

COFFEE.

The outset was 23 points lower for February and 11 to 15 points lower for the other positions. Trading was inactive and narrow, but during the last hour the market was bid up rapidly. Some active positions advanced from 26 to 30 points, and the close was firm at a net gain of 6 to 13 points. Total sales, 113,500 bags, including considerable switching from the near positions. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were about unchanged.

Spot coffee was so close to a basis with futures that prices moved with the changes in the pit, 7s being quoted at 10 cents.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—High temperatures have again set in over the South, Mississippi Valley, and the Plains States, while moderate temperatures continue on the North Atlantic Coast and in the Rocky Mountain region and on the Pacific slope.

The pressure is high and increasing off the Atlantic Coast and over the Atlantic seaboard, and it is low over the Rocky Mountain region and the Plains States.

This pressure distribution is favorable to a continuation of the warm weather over the West and South during the next two or three days, and probably longer.

There were scattered showers and thunderstorms in the last twenty-four hours in the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio and Upper Mississippi Valleys, and the lake region, and general showers in the North Rocky Mountain region and North Pacific States.

Indications are that showery weather will continue Thursday and Friday over the North, east of the Rocky Mountains, and there will be showers Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States and the Ohio Valley.

Over the South the weather will be generally fair and warm Thursday and Friday.

The weather will become warmer Friday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England. High temperatures will continue over the Middle West, and moderate temperatures in the Far Northwest.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate east to south; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate, variable, mostly south; South Atlantic Coast, light variable, moderate south.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate variable winds, mostly east and southeast, overcast weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Cloudy and warm, probably showers Thursday and Friday; light to moderate south winds.

Southern New England—Cloudy; probably local showers Thursday and Friday; warmer Friday; moderate east to south winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Cloudy; probably local showers Thursday; Friday fair and warm; light variable winds, mostly south.

Western New York—Local thunder showers Thursday and probably Friday; continued warm; moderate south winds, with squalls.

Northern New England—Cloudy; probably local showers Thursday and Friday; warmer Friday; light to moderate south winds.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the decree of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled causes on May 28, 1913, I, Edwards H. Childs, as Special Master, will sell in one parcel, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the north main entrance of the County Court House of the County of New York in the City of New York, on June 27, 1913, at 11 A. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING on the easterly side of Broadway, one hundred and twenty feet eleven and one-half inches southerly from the southerly side of Broome Street; thence running easterly along the south face of an independent wall standing on the premises adjoining on the north, and on a line making an angle of ninety degrees fifty-six minutes thirty seconds on its southerly side with the said easterly side of Broadway, one hundred and thirty-four feet seven and one-half inches to a party wall; thence again easterly through said party wall and on a line making an angle of one hundred and seventy-nine degrees fifty-three minutes on its northerly side with the last mentioned course, sixty-five feet four inches to the westerly side of Crosby Street at a point one hundred and twenty-nine feet ten and one-half inches southerly from the southerly side of said Broome Street; thence running southerly along the westerly side of said Crosby Street, and on a line making an angle of eighty-eight degrees fifty-four minutes thirty seconds on its westerly side with said last mentioned course, twenty-five feet to another independent wall standing on premises adjoining on the south; thence running westerly along the north face of said independent wall and on a line making an angle of ninety-one degrees five minutes thirty seconds on its northerly side with last mentioned course, one hundred feet; thence running southerly on a line making an angle of ninety-one degrees four minutes thirty seconds on its easterly side with said last mentioned course, twenty-four feet nine inches to the north face of another independent wall standing on the premises adjoining on the south; thence running westerly along the north faces of three certain independent walls and on a line making an angle of ninety degrees fifty-five minutes on its northerly side with said last mentioned course, ninety-nine feet eleven and one-quarter inches to the easterly side of Broadway; thence running northerly along the easterly side of Broadway and on a line making an angle of eighty-nine degrees six minutes on its easterly side with said last mentioned course, forty-nine feet nine inches to the point or place of beginning; said premises being known as Numbers 474½ and 476 Broadway and 58 Crosby Street, together with all fixtures and articles of personal property attached to or used in connection with said premises, together with the appurtenances and all estate and rights of the defendants, other than the defendant Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, and each of them in and to said premises, and of all persons claiming by, through or under the defendants, other than the defendant Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, or any of them, subject, so far as that portion of said premises known as Number 58 Crosby Street is concerned, to a certain party wall agreement recorded in the office of the Register of the County of New York in Liber 719 of Conveyances at page 660; subject also to that certain mortgage made by Henry Corn and Rosella Corn to Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, dated April 26, 1909, recorded in the office of the Register of the County of New York on April 28, 1909, in block series (mortgages) Section 2, Liber 135, page 67, and the indebtedness thereby secured, namely $550,000, with interest accrued and unpaid thereon to the date of sale; subject also to any and all leases and liens in favor of any persons not parties to this cause.

The Special Master will make only a provisional acceptance of a bid and will report the same to the court with all convenient speed. On the provisional acceptance of such bid, the successful bidder shall sign a memorandum of sale and shall pay to the Special Master, in cash or by check certified by a bank or trust company in the City of New York approved by the Special Master, ten per cent. of the amount by which the purchase price exceeds the amount of the mortgage, subject to which the said property is directed to be sold, or the receipt of the complainant for such ten per cent. If such sale shall not be confirmed by the court, such payment or receipt shall be returned to the depositing bidder. On confirmation of the sale by the court the purchaser shall make such further payment or payments on account of the purchase price as the court may then, or from time to time thereafter, direct, and within thirty days after such confirmation shall pay the balance of the purchase price. Current taxes, water rates, insurance, interest on prior mortgages and rentals shall be apportioned between the purchaser and the receiver in possession of the mortgaged property as of the date of sale, and credits shall be allowed to, or debits charged against, the purchaser on his bid accordingly. The purchaser may satisfy and make good the balance of his bid above the amount required to be paid in cash by the terms of said decree, or by any decree or order of the court entered in accordance with the provisions of said decree, by delivering to the Special Master to be filed by him with the clerk of the court, the receipt or receipts of the complainant or his assigns for such sum or sums as would be distributable out of the net proceeds of sale on the mortgages foreclosed by said decree and upon the indebtedness thereby secured, if the whole purchase price were paid in cash. If the purchaser shall fail to make good his bid on the confirmation of the sale by the court, the sum or sums theretofore paid by him on account of the purchase price, either to the complainant or the Special Master, shall be forfeited.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Realty Operators Acquire West End Avenue Corner for Apartment House—Eighty-sixth Street Houses Sold—Deal on Riverside Drive—Transactions in the Bronx and Long Island.

Real estate interests yesterday were chiefly confined to the west side. The largest deal included the sale of a group of five American basement dwellings on the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Seventy-eighth Street, which were sold by Mrs. Minnie T. Brown to the Herald Square Holding Company, composed of Arnstein & Levy and George M. Backer. The transaction was in the nature of a trade, the houses being given as part payment for the nine-story apartment house at 39 and 41 West Fifty-fifth Street, now nearing completion by the Herald Square Holding Company, which acquired the plot from the executors of the late Edward Hawley a year ago, and Anna K. Dale, the Hawley plot being the site of Mr. Hawley's private stable.

The apartment covers a plot 50 by 100.5. The holding price is said to have been about $400,000. The new owners of the West End Avenue corner, a plot about 47 feet on the avenue by 68 feet on the street, will tear down the houses in the near future for a twelve-story apartment. The deal was negotiated by Pease & Elliman.

In Eighty-sixth Street the two private residences at 310 and 312 West Eighty-sixth Street, fronting 40 feet, and 181 feet west of West End Avenue were sold, respectively, by Israel Lebovitz and Mrs. E. Martin to a client of Osgood Pell and Clark T. Chambers.

Another deal of interest was the purchase of the private residence at 54 West Ninety-second Street, between Columbus Avenue and Central Park West, a plot 18 by 100.8¼, by Eugene Vallens. It was bought through L. J. Phillips & Co. from the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and gives Mr. Vallens control of a plot fronting 90 feet, his former purchases comprising the houses from 46 to 52, having been made through the same brokers during the last six years. It is stated that a builder is negotiating for the plot to erect a nine-story apartment house.

St. Francis Court Sold.

The Loton H. Slawson Company, in conjunction with the McVickar, Gaillard Realty Company, sold for the Tilden Investing Company to the New York Real Estate Security Company the six-story elevator apartment house at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 135th Street, known as the St. Francis Court, on a lot 102 by 125. While the consideration was not stated, it is understood that the house was held at $300,000.

Tenement Property Sold.

The Gifford Building Company sold to an investor 402 to 406 East 123d Street, three four-story single flats, on plot 53.6 by 100, just east of First Avenue. In exchange a plot of lots located on the west side of Intervale Avenue, between 165th and 167th Streets, was given. This property will be improved with apartment houses.

Recent Buyer.

William T. Cully, dressmaker, is the purchaser of the dwelling 49 West Fifty-fifth Street, sold recently by John B. Stevens.

Bronx Borough Sales.

An investor has purchased from the Benenson Realty Company the five-story flat on a plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Forest Avenue, 100 feet north of 156th Street.

The three-story frame dwelling 2,610 Grand Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100, has been sold by Grace I. Van Demark. The buyer gave other property in part payment.

Kelly each a plot 40 by 100 on Marshall Street; to P. McCabe a plot 60 by 104 on Grand Avenue; to E. Schomaker a plot 60 by 98 on Grand Avenue and Miller Street; to N. Ehransal a plot 40 by 100 on Windsor Parkway; to E. Desken and D. J. Burke each a plot 40 by 100 on Weir Street; to C. W. Langham a plot 40 by 100 on Lawson Street. The same company sold at Oceanside to K. Murphy a plot 40 by 100 on Perkins Avenue; to M. H. Robinson a plot 60 by 100, and to M. K. Dugan a plot 40 by 100 on Windsor Parkway; to H. and H. Stampe and O. E. Huebner each a plot 40 by 100 on Yost Parkway; to W. and M. Talbett a plot 20 by 92 on Hoke Avenue.

The T. B. Ackerson Company sold at Brightwaters a semi-bungalow, on a plot 100 by 150, on Ackerson Boulevard, to John C. Dengler of Manhattan; also, an eight-room semi-bungalow, on plot 70 by 140, on Pine Acres Boulevard, to Helen Buzzelle of Manhattan.

A builder has purchased from Ida Kass a plot 59 by 100 by 23 by 106 on the north side of Shepherd Avenue, between Liberty and Atlantic Avenues. The site will be improved with four-story brick tenements.

Staten Island.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased a store at 320 and 322 Pearl Street to Courtney E. Knight and John C. Gittens.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. and S. Osgood Pell & Co. have leased for Mrs. Moses Hopkins 16 East Seventieth Street, a five-story American basement dwelling on a lot 17 by 100, to Myron C. Taylor, President of the International Cotton Mills Company.

Nurses' Home in 110th Street.

A seven-story home for nurses is to be erected by the Women's Hospital adjoining the latter building on the south side of 110th Street, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues. The new home will adjoin the hospital property to the east, being 500 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue. It will have a frontage of 50.4 feet and a depth of 33.6 feet, with a façade of brick and granite and limestone trimmings. The main features of the building will be a roof garden for the nurses and a solarium on the roof. Allen & Collens of Boston, Mass., are the architects. The cost is estimated at $125,000.

SAYS HIS RACE WAS BAR TO PROMOTION

HE QUOTES COL. BARTHMAN

Commander Flatly Told Him That Election Would Cause Discord and He Could Not Approve.

Samuel Littman, formerly a Sergeant in Company B, Forty-seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y., appeared as the first witness yesterday afternoon at the special inquiry ordered by Gov. Sulzer into the charge made by Littman that he was unable to obtain regular and rightful promotion to the rank of Second Lieutenant because of race discrimination. The investigation was begun at 3 o'clock in the old Council Chamber at the City Hall, with Lieut. Col. Herman Bendell, retired, of Albany, presiding. Sitting with Col. Bendell on the Board of Inquiry also were Adjt. Gen. H. D. Hamilton, Commander Lewis M. Josephthal of the Naval Militia and Lieut. Col. Henry S. Sternberger, Chief of the Commissary of the National Guard.

Littman, represented by Edward Lauterbach, Judge Leon Sanders, and Maurice Simmons, was called to the witness chair. Mr. Simmons addressing the members of the Board of Inquiry said that the counsel for Littman appreciated the broadness of the Governor's action. He said that it was the intention of the counsel for Littman later to carry the investigation of alleged race discrimination into other regiments.

In answer to questions from Mr. Simmons Littman said that he was born in New York City on Feb. 5, 1881. He said he lived at 1,150 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn, and that he was an attorney at law. He received his collegiate training abroad, and was graduated from the Law School of New York University in 1901. Since February, 1905, he has been employed by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

He entered the National Guard of this State in 1904, having enlisted as a private in Company F of the Eighth Regiment. He lived in Manhattan until Oct. 28, 1904, when he removed to the Williamsburg part of Brooklyn. In Brooklyn he joined Company B, Forty-seventh Regiment, and completed his term of enlistment.

On Oct. 31, 1910, Littman re-enlisted with the same company and same regiment, as he explained, on the request of Capt. John H. Bloom, who was anxious to have his assistance in increasing the attendance of the company. He resigned on Feb. 3, 1913. At that time he was First Sergeant. From the day of his re-enlistment to his discharge he said that his record had been 100 per cent.

Littman testified that the membership of Company B was 30 to 40 per cent. Jewish, about 30 per cent. Italian, and the remainder other nationalities. None of the commissioned officers of that company was a Jew, and the same he said was true of Company H, whose membership was almost wholly Jewish. It had no Jewish commissioned officer. He went on to tell how Col. Henry C. Barthman of the Forty-seventh Regiment had ordered parades through the Jewish districts of Williamsburg in June, 1912, for the purpose of attracting fresh recruits.

In the same month of that year there was a vacancy in the office of Second Lieutenant, caused by the promotion of S. Ralph Tiffany to the Captaincy. Littman said that he met Capt. Tiffany after his promotion, and that the latter told him he would be very glad to have Littman as one of his commissioned officers, but that he would have to leave that matter to Col. Barthman, because he did not know what the Colonel's attitude would be toward one of Littman's religious faith.

When Capt. Tiffany, according to Littman, reported the vacancy to Col. Barthman and suggested the availability of Littman, Col. Barthman asked whether Littman was of the Jewish faith. When informed that Littman was, the Colonel, according to the testimony, said that he would defer calling an election, explaining that while he had no personal objection to Littman he feared that having a Jew as a member of the council of officers would cause discord.

Littman then requested Capt. Tiffany to arrange for an interview between him and Col. Barthman. In October, 1912, he met Col. Barthman in the latter's office in the presence of Capt. Tiffany, who introduced them. Continuing his testimony, Littman said:

"Col. Barthman said: 'Sergeant, your Captain has recommended you very highly for the commission. I have no personal objection to you, but you're a business man and seem to have common sense. You will understand that if I permit your election it will cause dissention in the council of officers. I could make your subordinates salute you, but I could not make them associate with you. Your position might become untenable to you, so that I would have to ask for your resignation or you would be forced to resign.'

"To this I replied that I had social relations with the men and officers of the regiment, and I could not see how such a situation could exist. 'If they are good enough for me to associate with on the outside,' I said, 'I am good enough to be an officer.'"

This ended the interview, and, according to Littman, he departed and waited downstairs for Capt. Tiffany. When Capt. Tiffany appeared he related that Col. Barthman had said: "He is a clean-cut fellow, but if you give them a chance where will they stop?"

On Oct. 15, 1912, according to Littman, he met Capt. Tiffany, who he said informed him that Col. Barthman had decided to refuse his application. From his Captain Littman heard that Majors Baldwin and Schneider recommended his promotion, while another of the battalion commanders objected to it because he was a Jew. By Capt. Tiffany he was also informed that Col. Barthman did not wish to antagonize any one of his officers. Meanwhile no other name was proposed for the vacancy.

Afterward Littman made known his intention of forcing an election. A committee composed of Capt. Tiffany, Lieut. Bohn, and Corporal Charles Rogers was pushing the election, and from one of these men Littman learned that if he persisted in forcing an election he would fail before the Examination Board.

Col. Bendell asked from what source the information had been obtained, but Littman was unable to say. Mr. Simmons explained that Littman's counsel would introduce evidence showing that one of the members of an Examining Board of a certain regiment had said that under no circumstances would he permit a member of the Jewish race to pass.

Col. Alexander S. Bacon, representing Col. Barthman, who was present, endeavored to show that during the first five years of Littman's enlistment his attendance at drills had been below the required average. Col. Bacon attached importance to the fact that Littman had been dropped technically rather than transferred from the Eighth to the Forty-seventh Regiment.

Col. Bacon then read into the record a statement, said to have been signed by a majority of the members of the company, that they would not have voted for Littman even if an election had been held. It contained the signature of one man who said he would have voted for Littman.

Mr. Simmons told the board that affidavits sworn to by these same men would be submitted to the effect that they were induced to sign the petition by unfair means.

The hearing was adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when it will be resumed in the Council Chamber at the City Hall.

Oelrichs in a Fast Swim.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 25.—Harry Oelrichs, the best amateur swimmer here, broke his own record of last week in a swim from Bailey's Beach to Hazard's Beach to-day. He covered the distance of the mile and a quarter in thirty-three minutes, which is seven minutes less than last week. The swim was watched by many of the Summer residents. Mr. Oelrichs had a choppy sea, with the wind off shore. Swimming Master Joe Boyer followed him in a canoe.

AUBREY BOUCICAULT ILL.

Actor Stricken in Broadway Cafe and Taken to Hospital.

Aubrey Boucicault, the actor and playwright, was stricken yesterday afternoon with an unknown complaint in the café of the Kaiserhof at Broadway and Thirty-ninth Street, and was removed to the New York Hospital in a semiconscious condition. His complaint was not diagnosed, it was said last night at the hospital, where they professed to know little more about the case than that the patient seemed to be resting comfortably and not to be in a serious condition.

Mr. Boucicault entered the café about half an hour before he was attacked. He complained to three or four friends with him of feeling ill, and shortly afterward Bernard Stahl, the manager, noticed that they were fanning him with their hats. The friends said he would recover, but the manager called Policeman Armstrong of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who summoned Dr. Schrock of the New York Hospital. When the ambulance arrived the actor was unconscious in the arms of one of his friends.

The friends left as soon as the ambulance came, and their names were not obtained.

WILLIAMS SEEKS $2,000,000.

President Garfield at Commencement Tells Endowment Plans.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., June 25.—At the alumni luncheon following the commencement exercises at Williams College to-day President Harry A. Garfield announced that the college would attempt to obtain an endowment fund of $2,000,000. Half of the first million appeared to be in sight, he said. The General Education Board of New York, Rockefeller Foundation, had offered $100,000 when the college should raise $500,000, Mrs. Russell Sage had contributed $50,000, and $200,000 more had been promised conditionally. To this, President Garfield said, $150,000 might be added from an estate over which litigation recently ended.

The need for $1,000,000, Dr. Garfield said, was immediate, as that sum would hardly do more than make up the annual deficit, and a second million must be had to do justice by the teaching force and the future. The college, he pointed out, had prospered by buildings presented, but giving for endowment had not been popular and the faculty as a result had been kept on low pay.

President Garfield said that while the salaries of the teachers at Williams had increased more than $50,000 in the last twelve years, the maximum paid to any professor was only $500 in excess of the amount paid in 1900, and the largest amount now received by any professor was $3,200. The President believed it desirable to raise this maximum at once to $4,000, with corresponding increases to all professors and assistant professors.

Williams graduated 115 young men with the degree of bachelor of arts. Among the honorary degrees conferred were these: Doctor of Laws, Charles B. Wheeler, '73, of Buffalo, a Justice of the New York Supreme Court; Master of Arts, Albert Rathbone, '88, lawyer of New York.

PLAYED A TRICK ON REAL BAD MAN

FUN IN THE EARLY DAYS

Native Saloonkeeper Offered Credit and "Jefferson Davis" and "Noah Webster" Were Among Patrons.

"We often do things in our youth that ten years afterward we are apt to regret keenly," remarked yesterday a transient visitor in New York who spends most of his time chasing about the world and seeing queer things. "If you were to use my name in connection with what I am about to tell you, it would get me and several other men into trouble, in spite of the statute of limitations. But I want to say that in the early days following the occupation of Porto Rico, some of us Americans who were down there as real soldiers or soldiers of fortune played some big practical jokes which came near having a serious ending in more than one case and some of which were really against all ethical standards.

"I remember the time when a nephew of Jesse James hit San Juan with a notion that he was going to be our chief of police. He hailed from Sedalia, Mo., and he brought with him a full dress uniform, all the police manuals used in the big cities of the United States, and $74 in cash. He was a giant, and absolutely fearless, but we conned him along and got him to believe that the town was ready to hand itself over to his protection. Finally he was informed that to make himself solid he ought to give a little dinner to a number of us, and he was assured that this would result in his being handed the coveted office on a silver plate.

"Well, the dinner came off, and I remember it cost him $50. The seeker for office appeared in his uniform, and upon request he went through the manual, told how he would save a person from fire and resuscitate a victim of suffocation, and so on, until the gravity of all his guests, which, of course, had been assumed, was almost upset. Finally the man who was acting as 'Chairman' said solemnly: 'Mr. So-and-so, there is one final test to which every applicant for the head of our police department has to submit.' If you have visited San Juan, you may remember that there is an electric light pole there which is something like ninety feet tall. 'You must suppose,' went on the Chairman, 'that on the top of that pole is a child which you must rescue from danger; as there is really no child there, you must smash the electric light, and you have to establish a record in getting from here to the top of the pole, breaking the light, and getting back.'

"He had hardly finished when the candidate shot through the door. Before we could realize it, he was at the foot of the post and on his way up. We scattered and hid. The next morning I heard that the candidate, who had imbibed a little too much the night before, was out in the plaza with two Colts shooting up the place, and that not a single policeman would venture out of hiding. Well, those of us who had been in the trick remained under cover all day, and then we managed to get him locked up, and procured him passage back home, to offset what he had spent on the dinner.

"At that time the Porto Ricans had not learned much English, and knew still less about American slang. There used to be an army officer, a friend of mine, who spoke Spanish, and who for the fun of the thing used frequently to auction off second-hand materials and supplies for the Quartermaster's Department. Occasionally there would be a lot of coffins to dispose of, which had been used as temporary carriers, and were just as good as new; so this officer would get up and invite bids for a 'choice lot of wooden overcoats.' Then he would translate this expression into Spanish, and, as none of the natives knew what 'wooden overcoats' were, I used to be able to buy the coffins for a song and make good money on them. It was wrong, I admit, but I was younger then, and it seemed a big joke.

"But the funniest thing I knew down there was the case of Pedro and his new bar. Pedro used to work for an American saloon keeper who did a tremendous business. The native used to see how the American soldiers and civilians would come in and buy drinks, and say 'charge it to me,' and then how on pay day they would come in and pour money upon the counter, and he conceived a great idea of doing business on his own account. So he talked the matter over among his friends and they put up the money and fixed up a fine big saloon. In front Pedro hung out an attractive sign, reading 'American Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines Trusted Until Pay Day.'

"Well, Sir, that institution did a land office business from the start. It was the most popular place in San Juan. The quantity of booze handed over that counter was something tremendous. Things went along swimmingly, you might say, until pay day, when Pedro, with a large smile, prepared himself to receive the good sized sum that was due him. However, he didn't see any real money that day. The next day he went to call upon the commander of the fort and the commandant of the navy yard. He told them how he had trusted the soldiers and sailors, and how the day before they had not appeared with the money they owed. The two officers agreed that it was a first principle that American soldiers and sailors should pay their just debts, and offered to assist him in the collection of these. They suggested that he bring his books, and Pedro obligingly took over his accounts.

"The officers, in auditing, found that 'Russell Sage' of Battery A, Fifth United States Artillery, was debited with booze to the amount of $50; that 'Abraham Lincoln' of Company I, Fifth Infantry, had bought $48 worth of spirits from Pedro during the term just ended; that 'Neal Dow' of the United States man of war Wheeling, stood debited to the saloon for something like $40 worth of wet goods, and that 'Jefferson Davis,' 'Noah Webster,' and other distinguished aliases, whose regiments or ships were recorded, owed Pedro various sums. Pedro was not able to pick out any of the men who had bought from him and given fictitious names. The result was that his splendid saloon had to go out of business."

PLANS THINGS FOR JERSEY.

Mr. Raynor Pictures His Ideal if He Were Elected Governor.

Gilbert J. Raynor of 312 Jersey Street, Harrison, N. J., will let his furniture business take care of itself for a few weeks and will conduct his own campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey. Mr. Raynor used to be a Republican, but times have changed. Mr. Raynor has made public his platform. In case he is elected Governor Mr. Raynor says that he will save at least $20,000,000 a year for the coal consumers of the State, as he will have coal sold for $6 a ton. He will make it illegal to fine policemen or firemen any part of their wages, because their wives need the money. Policemen will be permitted to enter saloons or hotels at any time, he says, provided they are in uniform.

Mr. Raynor favors the opening of saloons on Sunday from 11 A. M. until 11 P. M., and the opening of moving picture and vaudeville houses from 1 P. M. until 11 P. M. If he were elected Governor a clergyman would censor all theatrical productions in the State. Mr. Raynor would have a bill introduced revoking all public service franchises, and would have the State take over the electric lines. Mr. Raynor would make the minimum wage for women and minors $7.50 a week, and forty-four hours would constitute a full factory week. Factory workers would have every Saturday afternoon off, because Saturday afternoons, says Mr. Raynor, are for play.

SENDS AUTOIST TO JAIL.

Bonham Convicted of Driving a Motor While Intoxicated.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 25.—Adjudged a disorderly person, in that he drove an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Robert M. Bonham, prominent in this city, was sentenced by Judge Naar in the headquarters Police Court to-day to thirty days in the Mercer County Workhouse. Mr. Bonham's automobile crashed into a tree in West State Street. Mr. Bonham, Morris Kaplan, and two women were injured.

Mr. Bonham's case was the first decided under the new amendment to the Crimes act, which holds a person who drives an auto while under the influence of liquor guilty of disorderly conduct. A jail sentence is mandatory, as no provision is made for a fine.

ROAD ABOUT TO DEFAULT.

Atlanta & Birmingham Hasn't Provided for July 1 Certificates.

The $4,700,000 5 per cent. receivers' certificates issued by the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic a year ago will mature on July 1, and no provision has been made to care for them. The road went into a receivership on Jan. 2, 1909 and the present certificates were sold to retire an issue of $3,250,000 receivers' obligations, equipment trusts, and to provide improvements.

A committee consisting of Howard Bayne, George C. Clark, Jr., H. P. Clark, L. B. Franklin, and C. E. Steere has been formed to get the co-operation of the certificate holders. It is expected that the certificates will draw 6 per cent. interest after maturity.

"Gen." Jones Ends Tour at Goshen.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 25.—"Gen." Rosalie Jones and her aid, Miss Martha Klatschen of New York, who are part of the "flying squadron" of the Suffrage Party which has been touring the State, addressed crowds at Port Jervis, Middletown, and Goshen to-day. In this city the audience was small, owing to the fact that the suffragettes began talking half an hour before the time for which they were advertised. Their audience was composed largely of men. They attracted the crowd by beating on a tin pail with a baseball bat, and "Gen." Jones spoke from a soap box borrowed from a neighboring grocery store. They returned to New York to-night, "Gen." Jones saying that she believed the pilgrimage through the State had done much good for the cause.

IN NEW JERSEY.

BAYONNE.—In trying to avoid running down twelve-year-old William Flanagan of 125 West Ninth Street, Bayonne, F. A. Kreher of 69 Reswick Avenue, Jersey City, ran his automobile into a tree, and was severely injured. The machine was demolished.

NEWARK.—Announcement was made yesterday in Newark of the personnel of the Committee of One Hundred that will form an organization to be known as the Newark Commission Government League. The first meeting will be held on Tuesday night at the Continental Hotel. Judge Robert Carey of Jersey City will be asked to speak at the meeting and permanent officers will be elected. On the committee are many former and present public officials.

PASSAIC.—Boys will not be allowed to swim in Acquackanonk Township, near here, this Summer. An order of the Township Committee to the village police to stop them went into effect yesterday.

MORRISTOWN.—County Detective Edward L. Brennan is endeavoring to find some trace of the men who early yesterday morning broke into the home of Mrs. Louis C. Gillespie on the Picatinny Road, about two miles from Morristown, and stole solid silver valued at about $1,000. The burglars used an auto.

WOMAN KILLED IN HARLEM STREET

BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

All Three Confused in the Whirl of Uptown Traffic—No Arrests in Three Cases.

Three automobile and surface car accidents occurred in Harlem early last evening and resulted in the death of one woman, injuries to another so serious that the surgeons give her no chance of recovery, and a compound fracture of a boy's arm. All three accidents were said by the police to have been caused by confusion on the part of the victims, and no arrests were made on account of them.

Miss Anna Seeney, a maid employed by a man named Goldreyer at 1,956 Crotona Parkway, was crossing Eighth Avenue at 124th Street about 7 o'clock last evening and stepped from behind a pillar of the elevated railroad into the path of a northbound car in charge of Motorman Frank Knapp. She was wedged under the forward trucks tightly before the car could be stopped. Patrolman Maloney of the Lenox Avenue Station managed to get her free and took her to a drug store. Then Dr. Kahn of the Harlem Hospital said the woman was dead.

At the corner where Miss Seeney was killed Mrs. Mary Cronin met a like fate on June 7.

As Mrs. Mary Newell of 286 Nicholas Avenue was going about 5 o'clock to her husband's flower shop at 322 West 125th Street, she became confused at St. Nicholas Avenue and 125th Street in the whirl of automobiles returning from the Polo Grounds. She stepped from behind two southbound machines into the path of another going north and the two front wheels went over her body. In the machine were Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Van Lieu of 20 West Fifty-first Street and their chauffeur, Herman Hankansen.

While a physician attended to the woman, the Rev. Father Schmidt of St. Joseph's Church administered the last rites to her. Dr. Kahn hurried Mrs. Newell to Harlem Hospital, where it was said she had sustained a compound fracture of the skull and had no chance for recovery.

Earlier in the afternoon, John Fried, a 12-year-old lad, was playing in the street in front of his home at 2,454 Eighth Avenue. He got in the way of an automobile driven by Harold Smith of 569 West Fiftieth Street, and received a compound fracture of the left arm. Smith, who was running a car owned by Franklin M. Walsh of 504 West 141st Street, was arrested because he had no license card with him, but the police did not hold him for the accident.

Parker Heads Spanish War Men.

SYRACUSE, June 25.—The following officers for the United Spanish War Veterans were elected at the closing session of the encampment of that organization here to-day: Ralph H. Parker, New York, Department Commander; O. Eiler, Poughkeepsie, Senior Vice Commander; Thomas Scott, Binghamton, Junior Vice Commander; Isaac Joel, Mount Vernon, Department Inspector; William E. Gilbert, Rochester, Marshal; the Rev. W. H. I. Reaney, New York, Chaplain.

FIREBOAT GAYNOR LAUNCHED

The Mayor's Daughter Breaks the Conventional Bottle Over It.

In the presence of New York Fire Department officials and a throng of invited guests the fireboat William J. Gaynor was launched successfully at the yard of the New Jersey Dry Dock Company at Elizabethport, N. J., yesterday afternoon. Mayor Gaynor was not present. Miss Marian Gaynor, a daughter of Mayor Gaynor, crashed a quart bottle of champiagn wrapped in gay-colored ribbons against the bow of the boat and instantly it glided gently into the waters. She took her initial plunge in the presence of Mrs. Gaynor, Fire Commissioner Johnson, Chief of Department Kenlon, Deputy Commissioners Olvany and Farley, Chaplain McGean of the Fire Department, Joseph Leopold, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marston of Brockton, Mass.; R. H. and Mrs. Mainzor, Daniel Ferguson, Mayor Maraviag of Elizabeth, the head of the Elizabeth Fire Department, Chief Gerstung, and others.

The New York Fire Department officials and their guests made the trip to Elizabethport on the fireboat New Yorker.

After the launching a luncheon was served in one of the buildings on the water front.

The new fireboat is made of steel and is screw-propelled. Its length over all is 112 feet, with 26-feet molded beams, and a draft of 9 feet. She is to be fitted with compound engines of 550 horse power, and will have a capacity of 9,000 gallons of water a minute at a pressure of 160 pounds to the square inch.

While not the largest, the William J. Gaynor will be the most powerful of the fleet. It is planned that the new boat will be fitted out and ready for commission before the opening of the Forty-first Annual Convention of Fire Chiefs, which is to be held at the Grand Central Palace Sept. 1-6. The new boat will cost $118,749.

WHAT THE MAYOR SAID.

Gaynor Denies He Has Been Inconsistent as to His Candidacy.

When Mayor Gaynor was asked yesterday if he cared to elaborate upon his letter to the Bronx Political Association, in which he said that he did not expect to run for Mayor again, as he had no claim on any political organization for a nomination, he said:

"Now you must excuse me. This newspaper which you show me says that on June 12 I said I would run for Mayor, and now by this letter, dated June 17, that I say I will not run for Mayor. I cannot help if editors and desk writers publish these falsehoods. Let them go right on. There are some newspapers in this town which ought to be above such a thing. I never said on June 12 or on any other day by word of mouth or by writing that I was a candidate for Mayor or would run for Mayor. I am well aware that ragbag newspapers said that I said so. But when and where did I say so? What I said on June 12 was in writing. What is the use of all this lying? Cannot things be stated truthfully in the newspapers? All I have said is that I have not the slightest notion that there is any political organization that would nominate me for Mayor, and that being so, I consider myself out of the matter, as I do not expect to get any citizens' nomination. If I got one I would have to consider what I would do. I can tell you that I do not intend to ask any political organization to nominate me for Mayor. You know that without my saying it. But I suppose all the same the lying will continue. Now do not say that I am annoyed. I am simply expressing myself plainly but coolly."

Boy Killed Flying His Kite.

Joseph Kosini, an 11-year-old boy, was flying his kite last evening on the roof of his home, 1,321 Avenue A, and tripped over the parapet. He clutched at the coping, but it broke away in his hand, and he fell to the basement, six stories below. He was instantly killed.
